At Manitou.
MANITOU SPRINGS, Colo., June 27.—(Special.)—Manitou is to the people what a sugar barrel is to the flies on a bright summer day—decidedly attractive. There is an abundance of flies and an influx of people at Manitou that is refreshing. These June days are of the leafy June that poets prize of cool mornings, warm enough at noon to remind the out door wanderer that it is summer, and evenings full of moonlight and coolness.

The walks, drives and trails about Manitou are so numerous that old timers of several seasons' experience find some new beauties whenever they go out. The country is paradise for the lively young woman or the brawny young man who delights in exploring expeditions. Manitou is best reached via the Union Pacific.

The Dakota Hot Springs.
The improvements that have taken place at the Dakota Hot Springs during the past year make it now one of the most popular, attractive and desirable resorts of the country. In addition to the benefits to be derived from the use of the water, the superior climate and beautiful natural surroundings render it an especially attractive resort, while the curative properties of the water makes the Springs a rival of the famous Hot Springs of Arkansas. Ample hotel accommodations are provided at reasonable rates, and the journey to and from can now be quickly and comfortably made via the Fremont, Elkhorn & Missouri Valley Railroad, the only all rail line to the Hot Springs. Excursion tickets are sold at reduced rates. Full information can be obtained on application to W. M. SHIPMAN, Gen. Agt., Lincoln, Neb., or Jno. T. Mustin, City Tkt. Agt., 1133 O street; E. T. Moore, Depot Tkt. Agt., Cor. 8th and S street, or to J. R. Buckham, Gen. Pass. Agt., Omaha, Neb.

The Yellowstone Park Line.
The Northern Pacific Wonderland embraces a list of attractions simply unequalled. The Twin Cities of St. Paul and Minneapolis at the head of navigation on the Mississippi, Duluth, Ashland and the Superiors at the head of Lake Superior; to the westward, the Lake Park Region of Minnesota, the Red River Valley wheat fields, Valley of the Yellowstone, Yellowstone National Park, Roseman and the Gallatin Valley, Helena and Butte, Missoula and the Bitter Root Valley, Clarks Fork of the Columbia, Lake Pend d'Oreille and Coeur d'Alene, Spokane City and Falls, Palouse, Walla Walla, Big Bend and Yakima agricultural districts, Mt. Tacoma and the Cascade Mountains, Tacoma, Seattle, Puyallup Valley, Snoqualmie Falls, Puget Sound, the Columbia River, Portland and the Willamette Valley, Gray's Harbor and City, Willapa Harbor and City of South Bend, Victoria on Vancouver Island, Alaska on the north and California on the south.

The Northern Pacific runs two daily express trains with Dining Car and complete Pullman service between St. Paul and Tacoma and Portland, via Helena and Butte with Through Tourist and Vestibuled Pullman Sleepers from and to Chicago via the Wisconsin Central, and first class through sleeping car service in connection with the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Ry.

Passengers from the east leaving St. Louis in the forenoon and Chicago in the afternoon, will make close connections with the morning train out of St. Paul at 9:00 a. m. the following day; leaving Chicago at night, connection will be made with Train No. 1, leaving St. Paul 4:15 the next afternoon.

YELLOWSTONE PARK SEASON, JUNE 1ST TO OCTOBER 1ST.
District Passenger Agents of the Northern Pacific Railroad will take pleasure in supplying information, rates, maps, time tables, etc., or application can be made to Chas. E. Fee, G. P. A., St. Paul, Minn.

THE NEW FALL STYLES.

THEY ARE "OUT" AND OLIVE HARPER SAYS THEY ARE PRETTY.

Soft Shades and Superb Qualities—Pictures Showing Two of the Modes of Making Up These Handsome Goods. Points for Those Who Would Dress Well.

[Special Correspondence.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The new fall styles are "out," and oh, how very pretty they are. The new silks come first, and this season there is a decided change, for all the figured and brocaded and satin striped silks are out and smooth rich fallies and grosgrains are "in." And what soft, beautiful shades and superb qualities! They begin with biscuit, and shade by shade progress to a dark seal brown, through all the intermediate tans, golden browns and terra cottas.

Then there are navy blues in four shades and a beautiful plum in four shades, the most pleasing of grays from French gray, which is almost white, up through pearl to gray so dark that it looks almost black in some lights. The mastic and beige colors are really to be classed among the light browns. The yellows have a place for themselves.

There is a little very rich brocade which will be worn with faille in combination; for instance, red with black, or yellow with black, and some novelties in diagonal striped satins with a very small floral pattern on the stripes.

Lace flouncing, chiefly Chantilly, will be used to trim the most of these faille gowns, somewhat after the style of the dress in the first cut, but it can be varied according to the wearer's taste. The heading to the flounces is made of two lines of fine cut jet with a row of small pearl beads between.

The gown in the illustration is of orange faille trimmed with black lace and jet and pearl beading. The sleeves and upper part of the corsage are covered with lace, which tones down the brilliancy of the color. This is becoming to every complexion.

Old gold and old rose are also among the favorite new colors, and a very pretty dress is made of old rose cashmere, trimmed with old gold rose India silk, with black polka and black velvet ribbon. The back of the skirt is laid in fan plaits and the front plain, except for the three upturned plaits that look so simple and yet are the despair of the amateur dressmaker.

The new woollens are so varied, and so universally handsome that it would take a whole newspaper to mention them. The very best show a plain surface without figure. Others have a smooth face with polka and other shaped figures in different color, generally black and white mixed, like tufts. They remind one of those hairy moles on the face which the French call grains de beauté. These hairy tufts are found on many fabrics, such as camel's hair cloth, chevrot and novelty goods. One style has a gray foundation, completely covered with coarse black and white hairs. It will make stylish cloaks.

Many of the woollen goods have black outline all-over crazy patterns. Others are in one color with black zigzag or chain lightning stripes of black, with a hairy surface. Others come in patterns with embroidery, with velvet or plush applique in various and artistic designs, and this reminds me that both velvet and seal plush are to be very fashionable for everything to which they are adapted. Velutina will also be largely used as fall gowns made with the bell skirt. Cordurettes, corded velutina and Bedford cord are all seen in the new fall gowns.

The covert coats with Louis-everything finish will be very popular, and a handsome long coat cut on the hips in the shape of a covert coat, and reaching to the bottom of the dress will be a favorite. But the great majority of fall and winter wraps will be the cape, or camel, as the French call it, with a few reffer jackets. The most chic of them are made of blanket shawls, with the plaids forming a trimming up the OLD ROSE CASHMERE front, and with HOUSE DRESS fringe left on. Drab blankets and gray and dark blue ones, with the stripes left on at the bottom, are also used to make these, and the rougher they are the more stylish. Cheviots, cloth, camel's hair, tweed and serge, heather mixtures, faille, velvet and plush, as well as plaid twills, are all seen in these capes. The thick woollens require almost no trimming, but the lighter ones have cabuchons and nailheads in many fanciful devices. There are many wool plaids, but they are in indistinct patterns and quiet colorings for the most part.

Skirts will not have the "dip" in the back so pronounced as it has been, few of the newest gowns doing more than to touch the pavement in the back. The new chevrots which are being made up now in the best houses have bands cut on the bias and about six to eight inches deep turned up on the outside.

A PUBLIC MAN OF CALIFORNIA.

M. M. Estee, Who Was Once Spoken of for the Cabinet.

[Special Correspondence.]
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29.—California has developed some very remarkable business men and some very astute politicians. Though the people of the state are mightily engrossed in its material development they have still time to rear men of cultivation, refinement and who possess the graces of oratory. Among the number Mr. Estee has been able by industry and ability to achieve not only a local reputation which has brought him high honors, but has also gained a reputation as a politician of the higher sort which has spread throughout the country. Mr. Estee is among those who have desired to see the state throw off some of the embarrassments which it is believed have retarded its growth in some respects, and he has gained prominence by reason of his efforts in that direction. Several times he has been a candidate of his party for a seat in the senate.

Mr. Estee was brought prominently before the country when he was selected as presiding officer of the national convention of his party in 1888. Almost every delegate to that convention had heard of him and many of the prominent men knew him. But he made revelation there of his abilities as a speaker and presiding officer which increased the esteem in which he was held and enhanced his reputation. Very able men have been presiding officers of the national conventions in recent years, but it is no detractor from the achievements of any of them to say that Mr. Estee won the highest praise for the discharge of the duties, which are far more difficult than is generally realized. Since that time Mr. Estee has been in comparative retirement, devoting his energies to his professional pursuits. In appearance he is a typical Californian—genial, yet resolute; energetic, yet self restrained; self reliant, yet without one trace of obstinacy, and he has been esteemed by his associates on the national campaign committee as one of its most valued members.

Mr. Estee has a hobby, but it is a very praiseworthy one, and that is the development of California. He believes that within the next twenty-five years the progress of the state will be prodigious, and that it will contain as large a population as any eastern state, with the possible exception of New York or Pennsylvania. It is a delight to hear him talk about the possibilities for wealth which have been scarcely touched as yet here, and his knowledge of California life, its climate, its wealth, its development, is almost encyclopediac.

SOME RISING YOUNG MEN.
Instances in Which Youth Has Not Barred the Way to Achievement.

[Special Correspondence.]
NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Hon. John T. Dickinson, Democratic commissioner for Texas, and secretary of the World's Columbian commission, is a young man full of honors. He was born at Houston, in 1858. Both parents died when he was but a lad, and most of his young life was spent in boarding schools and colleges in Houston, Lexington, England, and Dundee, Scotland. At twenty-one he graduated from the University of Virginia, taking the degree of Bachelor of Laws. Returning to his native city, he took a dip into legal practice, but soon left it for journalism and became editor of the Houston Telegram. He has held a number of high offices; one, secretary of the state capital board of Texas, from 1882 to 1888—a board composed of the governor and other state officials. Colonel Dickinson was also secretary and one of the directors of the grand military encampment given by the enthusiastic Texans at Austin, in 1888, to commemorate the completion of the state capital.

Another young man who has made an enviable name for himself is Tom Mason. Young as he is, twenty-four, he has made a mark as a humorist and eccentric poet, and his work is copied by the papers from one end of the land to the other. Many of the brightest jokes in the great Sunday papers, and the most prominent humorous weeklies are his light hit under a bushel. Speaking of lights, by the by, "His Light Put Out," not related to "The Light of the World," "The Light That Failed," or any other light literature, was the best of all Mr. Mason's humorous verse, and the most copied.

When one remembers how much preparatory knowledge is necessary to studying Sanskrit, and how late in life Gladstone and Edwin Arnold began, one is amazed upon hearing that E. W. Fay, the professor of Greek, Latin, and Sanskrit in the University of Michigan, has just reached his twenty-fifth year.

A foreigner, and a young one at that, seldom attains prominence in America in so short a time as has Adrian Schade van Westrum, editor of Book Chat. He was in his nineteenth year when he came to America, and before three years had passed he had mastered our language and had succeeded to his present position. He was born at Amsterdam twenty-six years ago of a noble family. Mr. Van Westrum has dark blue eyes, auburn hair and mustache and a clear, rosy complexion. He is tall, well built and very distinguished looking. He speaks and writes, in addition to his own language, English, French, German and Spanish. His book reviews and editorials in Book Chat testify to his varied knowledge and cosmopolitan tastes in art, music, drama, literature and metaphysics. Mr. Van Westrum has also written dramatic stories and sketches with the French finish and flavor and some excellent verse.
