ADDITIONAL SOCIETY

Miss Nellie McCabe who has concluded an extended visit to her cousin Mrs. A. Halter, left on Thursday for her home in the land of the maple leaf. Anticipating her departure a number of young folks, on Tuesday evening, invaded the hospitable home of Cousin Mrs. Halter, to mark the occasion in which the young lady is held by her many friends in Lincoln. If the extent to which the participants enjoyed themselves be taken as a criterion, Miss McCabe leaves many a vacuum in the hearts of her Lincoln admirers. At nine o'clock the invaders having taken possession, dancing commenced and continued with intermissions of vocal and instrumental music until midnight, when all adjourned for luncheon. The entertainment was planned as a surprise but the spectacle which met the gaze of the self-invited visitors on entering the spacious dining room where the massive table fairly groined beneath its burden of substantial delicacies, suggested the existence of an energetic caterer from within this happy home circle. After each and every one had shown a very practicable appreciation of the good things a suggestive silence was taken advantage of by Mr. F. P. Sheppard who paid eloquent tribute to the social and amiable attributes of the young lady in whose honor the party had assembled. Ready response to the sentiments expressed, came from all present. Mr. Sheppard concluded by presenting a large and beautiful basket of roses and other flowers bearing the cord "From Mr. and Mrs. Halter." After the young lady's health had generously received the usual attention, Dr. O'Grady was called upon and in a few chosen words presented to Miss McCabe, as a gift from her gentlemen friends present, a beautiful gold watch, chain and locket suitably inscribed. Mr. John Halter responded in behalf of the guests of the evening to whom he paid many hearty words of esteem. Messrs Ed Maher, H. Lawlor and J. T. Smith having added their quota of deserved compliments, all adjourned to the dancing rooms where a pleasant evening too soon closed with the first signs of an approaching dawn.

Thursday evening was a beautiful one and so was the ceremony that united the lives of two of East Lincoln's brightest young people. At the home of the bride's parents, cor. 29th and Starr streets, Besse, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Freeman, was united in marriage with Glenn E. Smith, brother of Mr. F. C. Smith, one of 27th streets well known business men. Promptly at half past eight before a limited number of friends of the contracting parties Rev. Braud of the Second Presbyterian church pronounced the words that made two loving hearts beat as one. The service was followed by a dainty wedding luncheon to which all did justice. The presents were costly and too numerous to mention here. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will be at home after November first at 2120 Holdredge street. Those present were Messrs and Mesdames, G. H. Freeman, F. C. Smith, Leon Baker, Rowell Shepherd, Misses, DeWitt, Jackson, Hollowell, Smith, Freeman, Decker, Curtis, Duncanson and Sharp; Mesdames Shepherd and Greenlee, Messrs J. Smith, Crittenden, Stachon, Shepherd, Freeman, Mitzner, P. Smith and others whose names the reporter failed to get.

IT WILL BE A BIG SUCCESS.

A New Enterprise that Starts out Under Most Flattering Auspices.
It has oft times been remarked that there is simple room here in Lincoln for another first-class furniture store, and now more than ever is the field open for the new addition that has just been made by one of the best known and most extensive business houses of this city who have opened a magnificent stock of furniture in connection with their already extensive interests. We refer to the firm of Rudge & Morris who have remodeled the store recently vacated by A. T. Gruetter & Co., which is the next door west of their well established hardware store, 1122 N. Street. Rudge & Morris now occupy the entire building, 508142, three stories and basement. All the front rooms up stairs will soon be thrown into large show rooms, making the floor space, on which to display goods, nearly twice as large as that used by Gruetter & Co. Large openings in the wall make the furniture and hardware stores accessible from either side, and both businesses will be conducted under the direct management of the firm. Mr. Morris will have general supervision of the new department, while Mr. Rudge will continue to pay his attention to the established portion of the firm's business on the other side of the house. With this important announcement comes also the news that Mr. C. J. Guenzel, the firm's well known and popular right bower for the past five years, will take a part in the profits of the firm hereafter as he has taken in advancing the company's interests on a monthly stipend heretofore. On January 1st Mr. Guenzel will enter the firm which will thereafter be known as the "Rudge & Morris Co." He is a pleasant and courteous gentleman, and one who, in a measure, is responsible for much of the firm's great success in business since their inception here in 1886.

It will be remembered that the firm bought out Baldwin Bros. in May 1889, who were located at 130 South Eleventh street, but moved in March of the succeeding year to their present location. Messrs. Rudge & Morris are both hardware men of long experience. Mr. Rudge having given his entire time to that line since 1876, while Mr. Morris engaged in his calling in 1872. Both gentlemen have had a varied experience in their chosen field and their knowledge thus acquired now bears fruit in the prosperous trade they enjoy, which, it may well be said and without fear of contradiction, is the largest in the city. Their assistants have always been a great factor in attaining this distinction, for no house in the west has a more gentlemanly or more experienced set of lieutenants than is there to be found. In the counting department Mr. A. D. Benway has always shown a kindly interest both for customer and employer; while in the manufacturing and repair shop Mr. R. A. Ferry, the foreman, has turned out the best workmanship on all kinds of jobs, either large or small as well as those of an intricate or minor nature, always giving the best of satisfaction and making trade for the house. For the new department, as head salesman, Mr. A. Hafensberger has been secured. He was for some time with the late firm of Shelton & Smith, and is a gentleman well versed in the furniture trade and its various branches. With such excellent support, as we would say of the play actor; why should not the firm continue their present and past success in the new venture? The entire line of furniture is new from the smallest piece to the largest, and the mammoth building is now filled with all the very latest designs from the most noted factories. In its entirety, this stock is the only complete new stock of furniture in the city. Knowing this, will it not pay you to call before making purchases?

A Great Country and How to Reach It. Owing to the great amount of interest shown in the northwestern states, and especially in Montana and Washington, the Northern Pacific Railroad as prepared two folders, entitled "Golden Montana" and "Fruitful Washington," which contain a great many interesting and valuable details in reference to climate, topography, agriculture, stock raising, mining, lumbering, government and railroad lands, homesteads and other subjects of interest to the capitalist, business man or settler. These folders can now be obtained on application to the General Passenger Agent of the road.

It should be borne in mind by travelers to the Northwest that, among other things, the Northern Pacific Railroad offers the following advantages. It is the direct line to principal points in Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Oregon and Washington. It has two trans-daily to Helena and Butte, Mont.; Spokane, Tacoma and Seattle, Wash., and Portland, Ore. It has complete equipment of Pullman first class sleeping cars, dining cars, day coaches, Pullman tourist and free colonist sleepers, the cars being new, comfortable and neat. It has through sleeping car service every day from Chicago, Ill., to Montana and Pacific Coast points of Pullman first-class and tourist sleeping cars in connection with the Wisconsin Central Line, and vestibuled first class sleepers via C. M. & St. P. Ry. It passes through the grandest scenery of seven states and the great young cities of the northwest. The service is complete in every respect. "Yellowstone Park and Dining Car Route" being in fact, a thoroughly first class line to travel over. District Passenger Agents of the company will supply publications referred to above, with maps, time tables, rates or other special information; on communication addressed to Chas. S. Fox, G. P. & T. A., St. Paul, Minn., will receive prompt attention.

OF BECOMING BODICES.

OLIVE HARPER'S LETTER ON FASHIONS FOR WOMEN.

House Bodices That Are Attractive and Convenient—How They Are Trimmed, Swiss Bodices That Are Stylish and Dainty.

[Special Correspondence.]
NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—How to look neat and be well dressed on all occasions truly requires a good deal of thought, particularly when fashions succeed one another so rapidly, but one of the most convenient and least troublesome accessories to pretty home costumes is the bodice that is so much talked of and can be worn with any skirt. There has been a steady and growing demand for the dainty china and crapa-waists in delicate self colors for young people, and nothing can be prettier or produce such a dressy effect with so little expense as these waists.

BODICES FOR HOME WEAR.
Some bodices are in the form of Spencer waists, with plaitings arranged in different manners to suit the wearers. Some have belts of the same or belts of velvet or ribbon, with or without frills below the belt. Some are made in figured goods of light color, and others of plain red, pale blue, lilac or white China silk. Perhaps the most popular are the simple white or pale blue bodices, made with a turndown collar and a double plaited ruffle down the front. These are pretty and dressy when worn in the street beneath a black reefer jacket and a flat sailor hat.

Of course they will hardly do for ceremonious visits or carriage, but for a shopping or ordinary dress they are quite sedate enough. The reefer jacket is left open, and the soft silk ruffs form a sort of vest, and the beauty of these waists is that they do not soil easily, and if they do can be cleaned perfectly. The sleeves should be either bishop shape, with a band at the wrist, or the upper part puffed after the style shown in the illustration.

There are so many ways of trimming these house bodices that one can hardly go astray. Some have velvet yokes and some have velvet pointed girdles, or velvet peasant waists reaching to the armpits, but these last are usually made so that they can be worn with any costume. Few young ladies lace much now, and nearly all women who have any thinking apparatus of their own are beginning to see that corsets should be used and not abused. Twenty-four inches around the bottom of the waist is the medium standard now.

Half the tight lacing that has been so much talked of and scolded about has been brought about through the senseless fashion illustrations. To make a striking picture the foreign so-called artists made an impossibly long waist, smaller around than the arms or neck, and those who did not want to be out of fashion tried to follow blindly. But now we may all have natural waists and be comfortable.

Before I left off speaking of fashionable bodices I should have spoken of the second illustration, which shows a very dainty idea in the same style, which is adapted better to street wear. The dress is of wool crepon in dark Russian green. The skirt is of the campanella form, with plaits in the back. Across the front are nine rows of narrow black sateen braid, and three rows of embroidered silk bands in Persian colors. The bodice is made of faille in the same shade, gathered full on the shoulders and extending ing down in a ruffle. A Swiss bodice of crepon has an outline trimming to match that on the skirt. The sleeves are of crepon. The Swiss bodice is adjustable, and the skirt can be worn in the house with the faille only, and in the street with the other.

Swiss bodices are undeniably dressy and they can be made to cover a multitude of sins, such as stretched seams, worn out buttonholes and soiled waists. Made of black velvet they are suitable for any kind of a gown from a tulle ball dress to a cashmere house gown. Some of them are made with adjustable braces of ribbon to match the skirt or, possibly of a piece of the same material. Some of them have the tops cut out in turret shape, others notched, but the majority are much like the crepon bodice in the illustration. Any variation can be made that seems expedient or tasteful.

OLIVE HARPER.
