

Never Buy a Carpet

UNTIL YOU HAVE SEEN THE MAGNIFICENT STOCK
—AT THE—

Exposition Carpet House

ALL THE NEWEST EFFECTS IN COLORINGS AND DESIGNS.

In Draperies

we show all the newest things in house drapes, and have an attractive line of

Lace Curtains

—AND—

PORTIERRES

Always see the Exposition Carpet Store before ordering.

If you Deposit your Savings

—IN THE—

Lincoln Savings Bank

Safe Deposit Co.

8, E. cor. 11th and P Sts.

THEY WILL EARN INTEREST FOR YOU

At the Rate of

5—Five per Ct. per Annum—5

Save $5.00 a week and it amounts with interest in five years to $1,500.00.

Bank opens at 9:30 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. and Saturday evenings, 5 to 8 p. m.

Saves to Rent in Burglar and Fire Proof Vaults.

CAPITAL $200,000.00.

American Exchange National Bank.

L. M. Raymond, President.
S. H. Burnham, Cashier.

Lewis Gregory, Vice President.
D. G. Wing, Asst. Cashier.

Columbia National BANK.

LINCOLN, NEBRASKA.

Capital, $250,000

Officers and Directors:
John B. Wright, Pres., T. E. Sanders, V.-P.
H. H. McClay, Cashier,
S. S. Raymond, H. P. Lau, Thos Cochran, E.
R. Sizer, Chas West, F. L. Sheldon.
General Banking Business Transacted.
Accounts Solicited.

German National Bank,

LINCOLN, NEB.

C. E. Montgomery, President.
Herman H. Schatzberg, Vice Pres.
Joseph Boehmer, Cashier.
O. J. Wilcox, Asst. Cashier.

Capital $100,000.00

Surplus 30,000.00

Transacts a General Banking Business

Issues letters of credit, draw drafts on all parts of the world. Foreign collections a specialty

CAPITAL CITY COURIER

A Popular Paper of Modern Times.

Published Saturday.

All class advertisements direct to the office

WESSEL PRINTING CO.

PUBLISHERS.

Courier Building, 112 N. Street.

TELEPHONE 254

L. WESSEL, JR., Editor and Sole Proprietor.

Entered at the Postoffice of Lincoln, Neb., as second class matter.

POPULATION OF LINCOLN, 65,000.

Try Lovitt's Coal Creek Cinton.

Carpets and curtains in newest designs at Herpolsheimer & Co's.

Miss C. J. Gaillette, m. s. l. Latta Block over Miller & Paine. Take elevator.

China bring every Thursday at Conservatory of Music, 810th Russell.

Our work speaks for itself. It needs no brag or bluster, simply your own opinion will testify to its merits. The Studio Le Grande is on the ground floor, centrally located and a beautiful place. Call and see us at 134 south Twelfth street.

The Radiant Home is no new fake but has an established reputation for economy and beauty. Dunham & Buck, sole agents, 1126 O street.

Coal of every size from the best mines in Ohio, Kentucky, Illinois, Missouri, Colorado and Wyoming for sale by Geo. A. Ray-mer. Telephone 390. Office 1134 O street.

Bicycles of all kinds and all makes skillfully repaired on short notice. Wrenches, oil cans, tires and other supplies always for sale at George & Fishette, 1442 O street.

Don't fail to see the fine display of Carvers table cutlery, tea and coffee pots shown by Rudge & Morris.

Inspect Herpolsheimer & Co's fine millinery at lowest prices.

When buying horse blankets, plush lap robes and fur robes, just enquire at 142 north 11th street, opposite Capital hotel.

Miss Minehart at Herpolsheimer & Co's, for fine millinery.

Henry Harpham, harness and saddlery, 142 north 11th street, opposite Capital hotel.

Wedding Invitations.

We are headquarters for these goods and furnish them from the cheapest printed card to the finest engraved work. Having had seven years experience we keep posted on the most stylish designs absolutely correct forms, etc. All we ask intending purchasers is to call and inspect samples of the work we are daily turning out. 1134 N street.

Eye and Ear Surgeon.

Dr. W. L. Dayton, oculist and aurist, 1303 O street, telephone 375, Lincoln, Neb.

Youthlone—European Face Preparation.

Ladies, if you want most elegant face preparation, try this one. It is pure as spring water; no lead, sediment or other injurious substances. It makes your skin soft, fresh, and clear; removes tan, blotches, discolora-tions, and imparts a pearly complexion.
If your face is not what you desire it, try "Youthlone". I guarantee it to give perfect satisfaction. I have sought for a preparation that will make complexions fresh and young looking and now I have found it. Resulted at two dollars or three for five. I have secured the agency for this trusty article.
J. H. HARLEY, Druggist, Lincoln, Neb.

To the Ladies.

Mrs. C. J. Todd, has just returned from Chicago, and is now prepared to give her patrons the latest styles in dress making.
Best class of work solicited. Satisfaction guaranteed. 1025 O street.

The Union Pacific System.

Has placed in daily service a solid train between Lincoln and Sioux City, making close connections at Columbus with main line trains for all points west, with Albion, Cedar Rapids, Ord and Grand Island and branches, except Sundays. Lincoln and Sioux City daily connects closely in union depot, Sioux City, with the evening trains of connecting lines for the north and east. For full particulars apply at 1044 O street or at depot.

The Hot Springs of Dakota.

These springs are rapidly becoming famous on account of the wonderful curative propties of the waters, and the many marvelous cures which have been effected by the thermal baths.

The town and springs are delightfully situated in a picturesque valley in the Black Hills country, abounding in beautiful scenic effects, and at an altitude of 3,400 feet above the sea level; thus insuring a pure atmosphere and exhilarating climate, absolutely free from malaria.

Under the enterprising and progressive management of the Hot Springs company many desirable improvements have been made; among the number the erection of a commodious bath house fitted up with all modern conveniences for the comfort of guests. New hotels have been built and comfortably furnished throughout, conducted in first-class style and at reasonable rates.
Those who prefer stopping at a private house will find many desirable boarding places where good accommodations are furnished at moderate prices.

The superior daily service now afforded by the Burlington Route to Hot Springs, with through sleeping car accommodations from Omaha, Lincoln, Aurora and Grand Island, makes the trip an easy and enjoyable one; and for the benefit of all who desire to test the efficacy of the waters, round trip tickets at reduced rates, good for ninety days are now on sale at all offices of the Burlington Route.

For pamphlet, descriptive of the springs, and full information as to rates, time, etc., apply to any agent of the company, or to J. FRANCIS, Gen'l Pass'r & Tkt' Agt.,

Only Ten (10) Cents a Pack.

The celebrated "Burlington Route" applying cards are now sold at ten cents per pack, (50 cents is the usual price, for such cards) What, high-five and such parties will soon be in order, and we would suggest that you buy a stock of these cards for future requirements.

A. C. ZIEMER,
City Passenger Agent.

BRIGHT COLORS OF FALL.

A PLEASANT RELIEF FROM THE
USUAL SAD TINTS.

The Radiance of the Season Is Not Confined to the Gowns of the Young, but Women of Years May Also Be Brilliant.

[Special Correspondence.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—When the trees are denuded and everything begins to look brown and rusty and desolate, wom-ankind usually follow suit and put on dark dresses, which are, they fancy, in proper keeping with the season, but this autumn there has been a small rebellion in that respect and dainty light colors are seen in the streets at a time when they are particularly grateful to the eye.

HANDSOME AUTUMN STYLES.

I don't think I can remember to have ever seen such pretty colors worn at the same season of the year, and they are not given altogether to the young, for quite elderly women may be seen in combinations of color which are features of this season.

There is a deep, rich, dark red called dahlia, and this, with gray, is made into a costume for a portly and handsome matron, and it is a handsome gown.
Beige with green is another pleasing combination. The skirt of beige, with narrow green ruffles at the bottom. The Hercule Something beige has the upper edge of beige and the revers and pocket lids. All the rest is green, and the hat is made to match.

Heliotrope velvet, Louis XV coats, with brown camel's hair or cloth skirts, both trimmed with narrow gold braid, make another striking but beautiful combination. Dark blue and Russian green are made up together, and black and yellow are seen everywhere. Black and yellow are superb when properly used together.

Black cashmeres, camel's hairs, and in fact all kinds of black goods, wool and silk, are very effectively trimmed with yellow, the shade depending upon the wearer's taste, and hats and bonnets are made to match. I noticed a dress on a young lady of a combination of Lincoln green with ultramarine blue, the joining parts being hidden beneath a profusion of gold braid, and the whole effect was rich and stylish, without being in any way unpleasing or gaudy.

Young girls wear costumes in on-color most often, and they of beige, tan, pale gendarme or fawn blue or crushed raspberry or a soft pink which has a sort of creamy overbloom. Crepon, cloth, cashmere, serge and Henrietta are all suitable for these, and they come in all these colors. Pearl and French gray are also much seen, sometimes trimmed with colors, passementerie or velvet.
The set pieces of metal passementerie are particularly pretty.

One very pretty dress made for a bride last week was of fawn blue crepon, with three narrow ruffles at the bottom of the otherwise plain skirt, headed by a band of gold passementerie. The coat basque had a semimilitary cape at the top, richly braided in the same manner.

The sleeves had sort of bell
shaped, drooping cuffs just below the el-
bow. It was cut double breasted, with plain crochet buttons. A cunning little tricornie hat.

One of these modest, picturesque, modernized Queen Anne houses that have sprung up like magic on the west side, in Ninety-fourth street in New York, the leading spirit in a household which has for two years or more been making a successful experiment in cooperative housekeeping, Mrs. Richardson lives with two of her children, Mrs.
Florence Carpenter Ives and Miss Helen Watterson, formerly of The Evening Sun, lately married to Mr. Moody, a bright young newspaper man, are the other co-operators in the household over which Mrs. Richardson presides.

It is considered a privilege to be on the list of visitors or guests at that house.
The "Sunday evenings" there are charming reunions of old and new celebrities in the world of literature, journalism and art.

Mrs. Richardson usually presides at the tea-table, dispensing the cups that cheer with the grace and dignity of a matron of the old school of manners to which she belongs. Her once bonny brown hair is now silver white and arranged with tasteful simplicity, parted in the middle, drawn in wavy masses or banded Madama wise on each side, and coiled in a loose, fluffy Psyche knot in the back. Her complexion is fair and rosy, her small ears are pink tipped like her slender white fingers. Her blue eyes sparkle, her lips sweetly smiling. Her conversation is sadly bright and charming, and the slight shade of sorrow that occasionally fits over her fine face only enhances its attractiveness.

She is emphatically a domestic woman, looking well to the way of her household, but her literary tastes and acquirements occasionally draw her into the private field of parlor and platform entertainments. Whenever she reads her own well thought out, well written essays she is listened to with the rapt attention which her powers command by her many appreciative and warmly attached friends.

Another exceedingly pretty dress that can be easily reproduced is in the original, made of the new pink crepon. A cut showing how it is made in the back is appended to the illustration. At the right side there is a panel with loops of soutache braid, and this extends to the armpits on each side, leaving a very graceful drape to the short basque.
The skirt is prettily draped, part of the folds coming under the panel and the rest reaching around to the middle of the back, where the fold falls in with those laid back of the plait. The bottom has a border of black velvet, headed with an overlay of narrow braid. The manner in which the skirt is made forming a pleasing change from the severe outlines so often seen now.

Many, and in fact most, dressmakernow put large hooks on the belts of the waists and basques, which hook into eyes on the belts of the skirts, and this sustains the weight and also keeps the skirt from sagging.

I think that furs of every description will be more largely used as trimming than ever before, if such a thing is possible. Every kind is fashionable. Trimming made on flat bands of ostrich and peacock plumes blended, will be very much used on evening dresses. Bands of white ostrich with the bronzed and iridescent hues of peacock feathers make an exquisite combination.

Cloaks lined all the way through with fur of some kind or other will be very popular, the fur just showing at the edges all around. Long redingotes ar-made of a beautiful camel's hair goods in curiously mixed up figures in shaded gray and black. They reach the bottom of the dress and are trimmed with collar and bands of fur, black monkey skin being a favorite.

OLIVE HARPER.

MRS. ABBY SAGE RICHARDSON.

She is at the Head of a Co-operative Housekeeping Establishment.

[Special Correspondence.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Mrs. Abby Sage Richardson, though so painfully conspicuous about twenty years ago, has been since the event known as The Tribune tragedy almost lost to the sight of the general public. But to a large circle of deeply sympathizing friends, who have watched her development, she has been well known all the time as a cultivated woman of letters, a devoted mother, a brilliant thinker and conversationalist.

It was a remarkable fact that no word of blame was ever printed of Abby Sage Richardson, deeply shocked as the whole country was by the tragic event which tortured the sensibilities and provoked the expression of the deepest feelings and prejudices of opposing political factions. Deep silence expressed the feelings of men toward her, while every true woman spoke out her sympathy, and the final expression of that sentiment culminated in one of the largest and most enthusiastic gatherings of "ladies only" that I ever saw.

That meeting was in Apollo hall in New York. By 11 o'clock in the morning, after the funeral of Mr. Richardson, the hall was packed with a large, fashionably dressed, earnest and eager concourse of women, many of them the most distinguished in the country, and all above the average in social position, education, intelligence and refinement.
It was an exceedingly dignified body.

There were seen beside Mrs. Benjamin
F. Butler, two nieces of General Grant,
Mrs. James Parton (Fanny Fern), Miss
Susan B. Anthony, Mrs. Elizabeth Cady
Stanton (the orator of the day), Miss Catherine E. Beecher, Mrs. E. B. Phelps,
"pretty Phoebe Cousins," then in her teens, Mrs. Robert Dale Owen, Eleanor Kirk Ames, Mrs. Tappan, Mrs. D. G.
Crosby (Jenny June), and Mrs. Theodore
Tilton, then in the heyday of prosperity.

With admirable tact Mrs. Stanton avoided any allusion to the actors in the tragedy, save what was necessary to make more forcible the call which she issued for an expression of the sympathy of her audience. And nobly did these five hundred or a thousand women respond to her appeal.

The general public has a right to ask as it frequently does of our editors Where is Abby Sage Richardson? Has she gone into the silent land? Is she crushed beneath her sorrows? Has she risen above them?

In one of those modest, picturesque,
modernized Queen Anne houses that
have sprung up like magic on the west side, in Ninety-fourth street in New York, the leading spirit in a household
which has for two years or more been
making a successful experiment in cooperative housekeeping, Mrs. Richardson lives with two of her children, Mrs.
Florence Carpenter Ives and Miss Helen
Watterson, formerly of The Evening
Sun, lately married to Mr. Moody, a
bright young newspaper man, are the
other co-operators in the household over which Mrs. Richardson presides.

BRIGHT COLORS OF FALL.

A PLEASANT RELIEF FROM THE
USUAL SAD TINTS.

The Radiance of the Season Is Not Confined to the Gowns of the Young, but Women of Years May Also Be Brilliant.

[Special Correspondence.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—When the trees
are denuded and everything begins to
look brown and rusty and desolate, wom-
ankind usually follow suit and put on
dark dresses, which are, they fancy, in
proper keeping with the season, but this
autumn there has been a small rebellion
in that respect and dainty light colors
are seen in the streets at a time when they are particularly grateful to the eye.

HANDSOME AUTUMN STYLES.

I don't think I can remember to have
ever seen such pretty colors worn at the
same season of the year, and they are
not given altogether to the young, for
quite elderly women may be seen in
combinations of color which are features
of this season.

There is a deep, rich, dark red called
dahlia, and this, with gray, is made into
a costume for a portly and handsome
matron, and it is a handsome gown.
Beige with green is another pleasing
combination. The skirt of beige, with
narrow green ruffles at the bottom. The Hercule Something beige has the upper
edge of beige and the revers and pocket
lids. All the rest is green, and the hat is made to match.

Heliotrope velvet, Louis XV coats,
with brown camel's hair or cloth skirts,
both trimmed with narrow gold braid,
make another striking but beautiful
combination. Dark blue and Russian
green are made up together, and black
and yellow are seen everywhere. Black
and yellow are superb when properly
used together.

Black cashmeres, camel's hairs, and
in fact all kinds of black goods, wool
and silk, are very effectively trimmed
with yellow, the shade depending upon
the wearer's taste, and hats and bonnets
are made to match. I noticed a dress
on a young lady of a combination of Lincoln green with ultramarine blue,
the joining parts being hidden beneath
a profusion of gold braid, and the whole
effect was rich and stylish, without being in any way unpleasing or gaudy.

Young girls wear costumes in on-
color most often, and they of beige, tan,
pale gendarme or fawn blue or crushed
raspberry or a soft pink which has a sort
of creamy overbloom. Crepon, cloth, cashmere, serge and Henrietta are all
suitable for these, and they come in all these colors. Pearl and French gray are
also much seen, sometimes trimmed
with colors, passementerie or velvet.
The set pieces of metal passementerie
are particularly pretty.

One very pretty dress made for a bride
last week was of fawn blue crepon,
with three narrow ruffles at the bottom of the otherwise plain skirt, headed by
a band of gold passementerie. The coat
basque had a semimilitary cape at the top, richly braided in the same manner.

The sleeves had
sort of bell
shaped, droop-
ing cuffs just below the el-
bow. It was cut double
breasted, with plain crochet
buttons. A
cunning little
tricornie hat.

One of these modest, picturesque,
modernized Queen Anne houses that
have sprung up like magic on the west side, in Ninety-fourth street in New York, the leading spirit in a household
which has for two years or more been
making a successful experiment in cooperative housekeeping, Mrs. Richardson lives with two of her children, Mrs.
Florence Carpenter Ives and Miss Helen
Watterson, formerly of The Evening
Sun, lately married to Mr. Moody, a
bright young newspaper man, are the
other co-operators in the household over which Mrs. Richardson presides.

It is considered a privilege to be on
the list of visitors or guests at that house.
The "Sunday evenings" there are charming reunions of old and new celebrities
in the world of literature, journalism
and art.

Mrs. Richardson usually presides at
the tea-table, dispensing the cups that
cheer with the grace and dignity of a matron of the old school of manners to
which she belongs. Her once bonny
brown hair is now silver white and arranged with tasteful simplicity, parted
in the middle, drawn in wavy masses or
banded Madama wise on each side, and
coiled in a loose, fluffy Psyche knot in
the back. Her complexion is fair and rosy, her small ears are pink tipped like
her slender white fingers. Her blue eyes sparkle, her lips sweetly smiling. Her conversation is sadly bright and charming, and the slight shade of sorrow that
occasionally fits over her fine face only
enhances its attractiveness.

She is emphatically a domestic woman, looking well to the way of her
household, but her literary tastes and
acquirements occasionally draw her into
the private field of parlor and platform
entertainments. Whenever she reads
her own well thought out, well written
essays she is listened to with the rapt attention which her powers command by
her many appreciative and warmly attached friends.

Another exceedingly pretty dress that
can be easily reproduced is in the original, made of the new pink crepon. A cut
showing how it is made in the back is
appended to the illustration. At the right side there is a panel with loops of
soutache braid, and this extends to the
armpits on each side, leaving a very
graceful drape to the short basque.
The skirt is prettily draped, part of the
folds coming under the panel and the
rest reaching around to the middle of
the back, where the fold falls in with
those laid back of the plait. The bottom
has a border of black velvet, headed
with an overlay of narrow braid. The manner in which the skirt is made forming a pleasing change from the severe outlines so often seen now.

Many, and in fact most, dressmaker-
now put large hooks on the belts of the
waists and basques, which hook into
eyes on the belts of the skirts, and this
sustains the weight and also keeps the skirt from sagging.

I think that furs of every description
will be more largely used as trimming
than ever before, if such a thing is possible. Every kind is fashionable. Trimming made on flat bands of ostrich and
peacock plumes blended, will be very
much used on evening dresses. Bands of
white ostrich with the bronzed and iri-
descent hues of peacock feathers make
an exquisite combination.

Cloaks lined all the way through with
fur of some kind or other will be very
popular, the fur just showing at the
edges all around. Long redingotes ar-
made of a beautiful camel's hair goods in
curiously mixed up figures in shaded
gray and black. They reach the bottom of the dress and are trimmed with collar
and bands of fur, black monkey skin
being a favorite.

OLIVE HARPER.

MRS. ABBY SAGE RICHARDSON.

She is at the Head of a Co-operative
Housekeeping Establishment.

[Special Correspondence.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Mrs. Abby Sage
Richardson, though so painfully conspicuous about twenty years ago, has
been since the event known as The Tribune tragedy almost lost to the sight of the general public. But to a large circle of deeply sympathizing
friends, who have watched her development, she has been well known all the
time as a cultivated woman of letters, a
devoted mother, a brilliant thinker and
conversationalist.

It was a remarkable fact that no word
of blame was ever printed of Abby Sage Richardson, deeply shocked as the whole
country was by the tragic event which
tortured the sensibilities and provoked
the expression of the deepest feelings
and prejudices of opposing political
factions. Deep silence expressed the feelings of men toward her, while every
true woman spoke out her sympathy,
and the final expression of that sentiment culminated in one of the largest
and most enthusiastic gatherings of "ladies only" that I ever saw.

That meeting was in Apollo hall in
New York. By 11 o'clock in the morning, after the funeral of Mr. Richardson, the hall was packed with a large,
fashionably dressed, earnest and eager
concourse of women, many of them the
most distinguished in the country, and
all above the average in social position,
education, intelligence and refinement.
It was an exceedingly dignified body.

There were seen beside Mrs. Benjamin
F. Butler, two nieces of General Grant,
Mrs. James Parton (Fanny Fern), Miss
Susan B. Anthony, Mrs. Elizabeth Cady
Stanton (the orator of the day), Miss
Catherine E. Beecher, Mrs. E. B. Phelps,
"pretty Phoebe Cousins," then in her
teens, Mrs. Robert Dale Owen, Eleanor
Kirk Ames, Mrs. Tappan, Mrs. D. G.
Crosby (Jenny June), and Mrs. Theodore
Tilton, then in the heyday of prosperity.

With admirable tact Mrs. Stanton
avoided any allusion to the actors in the
tragedy, save what was necessary to make more forcible the call which she
issued for an expression of the sympathy
of her audience. And nobly did these
five hundred or a thousand women respond to her appeal.

The general public has a right to ask
as it frequently does of our editors
Where is Abby Sage Richardson? Has
she gone into the silent land? Is she
crushed beneath her sorrows? Has she
risen above them?

FALL CLOTHING!

Nobby Dressers will find in our New Fall Stock an exceptionally fine line of Tailor Made Suits unsurpassed in fit and finish, by merchant tailor made garments costing nearly double the money. We are showing them in all the latest style makes, Cutaways, Single and Double Breasted Sacks, Prince Alberts. We wish you to see our New Line while it is Complete. Call early and let us show you through.

GLOBE CLOTHING HOUSE