THE "TUG OF WAR."

The rapidity with which this form of amusement has sprung into popularity with the public is only equaled by the promptness with which the public has taken it up.

THE "PULSE OF NEW YORK."

The "Pulse of New York," will be presented at the Lansing Wednesday evening with Miss Grace Emmett as the star, and a capable supporting company.

HERMANN FOR TWO NIGHTS.

Nothing less than the new and brilliant entertainment of the ever-popular Herrmann will be the attraction at the Lansing Thursday and Friday evenings.

this illusion and surprising Herrmann, is an enchanter with seemingly inexhaustible resources. See him every night and you are in no danger of being made a victim of monotony, for he is always devising some new mystery or fitting new clothes on an old mystery.

latest illusion, "Strobelka," "New Black Art," "A Slave Girl's Dream," "MacCooon," "Flourie, the Child of the Air," "Corte Volontes, the Mysterious Orange, Satano Ribbons, the Wall Street Banker, a lone Fisherman, Rapid Transit, the Mesmeric Flowers, Sun and Moon, the inexhaustible Hat, Hunting without Powder, and a number of other wonderful novelties. Seats may be reserved at the box office Tuesday morning.

"THE PRINCE AND THE PAUPER." Daniel Frohman's great production of Mark Twain's fascinating story, "The Prince and the Pauper," as dramatized by Abby Sage Richardson, will be presented at the Lansing Saturday evening of next week.

of all child actresses, will assume the characters of both Prince and Pauper. The dramatic editor of the New York Herald, usually so conservative, in speaking of it is moved to remark: "The sweetest, rarest land prettiest of all the plays since 'Little Lord Fauntleroy.' Mark Twain was right when he said the performance of this play was the realization of a fifteen years' dream."

"Charles H. Hoyt and Leander Richardson have invented and carried out for the past two years an annual Christmas contest of a novel and amusing character," says Dunlop's Stage News.

The apathy of Lincoln theatre goes in the face of sterling attractions was never better demonstrated than it was Wednesday evening when both play houses presented standard bills.

FOOTLIGHT REFLECTIONS.

A. M. Palmer has put "Jim, the Penman" and "The Banker's Daughter" in rehearsal to succeed Alabama.

Richard Mansfield is to discontinue the use of lithographs and other prints in the future and confine himself to newspaper advertising.

W. S. Cleveland, the minstrel manager, came near dying at the Hoffman House, N. York, three weeks ago of typhoid pneumonia.

Helen Wlythe has a new melo drama called "The Wide World" in which she will soon star. It was written by a Toronto bar-bister.

D'Oyly Carte's father, aged eighty-four, died last week in England. He was an instrument maker, and the inventor of a well-known flute which bears his name.

Louise Boardet proposes to quit acting and go to ranching after next May. She owns a ranch near Daniel at Blackfoot River, Montana, which Daniel Bandmann thought once was his.

A new deep crimson shade has appeared at the theatres lately in ladies' costumes. It is called Virginia Creeper, from the frost-tinted leaves of that vine, and it combines beautifully with black.

Charles Alfred Byrne and Louise Harrison's new opera, "The Isle of Champagne," will be the summer attraction at the Grand opera house at Chicago, with Thomas Q. Sealbrooke in the leading comedy role.

Rose Coghlan has bought "Dorothy's Dilemma" from George W. Wettersper, who bought it from the adapted Leopold Jordan last summer for $50. Jordan is said to have taken it without leave from the German author, Von Moser.

Wilton Lackaye, who is just back from England, has not a very high opinion of that country in general and London in particular. Between the native robbers, and those from America who can't get back, he says, the British metropolis, as a spot where capitalists may show up with impunity, is just a trifle worse than Gloucester, N. J., or Outisberg.

Couldn't Stand It.

Young Mistress—I don't see why you should leave me so suddenly. I'm sure I've done all I could to help you with the housework, and I have done all the cooking.

Maid—Yes'm, that's what's the matter. "What is?"

"I can't stand y'r cooking."—New York Weekly.

The Irony of Fate.

"It is singular that Jobson should marry such a useless woman as he has got. They say she can't as much as see a button on his coat. Where did he become acquainted with her?"

"He was introduced to her by his sister, who got acquainted with her at the sewing circle."—New York Press.

Very Green Eyed.

She—Proceed, Salvalor Monahan, but take heed lest ye go too far!

He—Too far?—too far? You, who were seen last night sittin on an ash barrel eatin peanuts out of the same bag with an intire stranger talk to me of goin too far. Hal hal hal! (Bites himself in the arm and swoons).—Life.

An Appropriate Sign. Wagg—Smith, the baker, is a very scholarly person. Quigley—Why so? Wagg—He has a sign over his pie counter. "Such stuff as dreams are made of."—Harper's Bazar.

In the Year 2000.

Passenger—What was that glaring light we passed just now, captain? Captain—Oh, that was a streak of lightning we overtook.—Texas Sittings.

All meals at Oehl's new dining hall reduced to twenty cents. No credit and no tickets to anyone. The meals are same as formerly and the price lower than ever. This makes the board at Oehl's cheap and the best in the state for the money.

ADDITIONAL SOCIETY

A brilliant and happy party was that gathered at the Lincoln Thursday evening, when the Pleasant Hour club held their New Years eve social. Grace and beauty vied with each other in adding to the charm and pleasure of the event, and that it was a pleasant and exquisitely enjoyable one goes without saying.

At twelve o'clock the waltz was stopped, the company joined hands and to sweeten an evening melody of "Auld Lang Syne" sang the old year out and the new one in. The members have cause for self congratulation in having planned and executed the most successful event in the club's history.

Merriment and happiness reigned supreme at the handsome residence of M. Raymond's number 1600 R street, Wednesday evening when Miss Eleanor and her brother, Mr. Will, entertained their friends.

More than one hundred guests were present, including the Misses Maud and Grace Oakley, May Moore, George Camp, Grace Burr, Alice Maitland, Grace Hunt, singer, Blanche Garten, Eva Ricketts, Stella Elliott, Ona Imhoff, Dora Harley, Flora Winger, Jo Winger, Marie Marshall, Clara Smith, Marie Jones, Emerald Jones, Louise Smith, Alice Righter, Nellie Newman, Ethel Hooper, Nellie and Annie Lau, Mammie and Jennie Underwood, Lottie Andrus, Anand Rissler, Bessie Turner, Helen Harwood, Edna Polk, Dora Webster, Minnie Parker, Stella Curtis, Pearl Agey, Rachael Brock, Vinnie Beach, Fannie Hawley, Bert Clark, Helen Gregory, Annie Damrow, Mary Theill, May Burr, Libbie Seacrest, Josephine Lottrigo, Bertha Lansing and Lucy Griffith; Bertha Sloan, May Bartlett, Lila Alexander, Stella Brown, Omaha; Miss Jenkins, Fairbury and Miss Brown, Kansas. The gentlemen present were the Messrs. J. Barrett, Homer Honeywell, Frank Saunders, James Snyder, Eugene Pace, Charles Elliott, Frank Cowley, Fred Cooley, Fred White, Ernest Ames, Ebenezer Mockett, John, Lottrigo, Woodward Jones, Cecil Graham, Charles Blair, Ernest Folsom, Harry Evans, Halsey Yates, Frank Smith, Van Smith, Ray Welch, Charles Lyman, Jasper Hunt, Park Garrouette, Arda Chapman, Roy Chapman, Matt Baldwin, Edmond Fitzgerald, Eddie Fitzgerald, George Stiner, Emory Hardy, T. Hallett's holiday trade was the largest that the great Lincoln jeweler has ever experienced in his fifteen years of business career in this city. And why not? Isn't Hallett well enough and favorably enough known nowadays to command and hold a large patronage? He carries a line of jewelry, watches and diamonds and silverware that would prove a credit to any western house. He transacts a legitimate business on business principles giving full value for every investment and full guarantee as to all representations. Eugene Hallett's name in the jewelry business is to Lincoln what Jay Gould's name is to railroad circles—at least the leader.

Nesbit's show windows during the holiday trade have been the source of much pleasure to the passers by on O street. The decorations have not only been tasteful and unique, but the goods shown comprised the newest things for footwear that can anywhere be found. Verily, Nesbit is the progressive shoe man of Lincoln.

ODDS AND ENDS.

Aluminum air ships are predicted. Women practice now in Colorado courts. Berlin's railroad depot will cost $4,000,000.

More than $16,000,000 will be spent on the Indians this year.

The shah of Persia has a tobacco pipe which is worth $400,000.

In southern Europe 38,000 oranges have been picked from one tree.

The best wines are found to be produced from grapes grown upon volcanic soils. A man has been discovered in Cincinnati who is the father of sixteen children by one wife.

France possesses 1,100 mineral springs, of which over 1,000 are made use of in France.

At the time of birth the octopus, the renowned devilfish, is not larger than a common flea.

Sunflowers grow to such an immense size in Kansas that it is claimed the stalks can be used as fuel.

Brown bread is said to furnish more bone, muscle and blood to the human system than any other variety.

The talent of success is nothing more than doing what you can do well, without a thought of fame.

The cemeteries of London cover 2,500 acres, and the land they occupy represents a capital of $1,250,000.

Results are always more impressive when we have not witnessed the processes by which they were attained.

Painted windows were photographed in their original colors recently by a Swiss doctor who has devoted long study to this subject.

Among a number of cattle thieves arrested at Pendleton, Or., a short time since was a fifteen-year-old boy, who weighed 300 pounds.

A Belle of Druid Times.

History books confidently assert, that the Druids have long ceased to exist in England. Doubt is thrown on this assertion by a quaint custom held in the stormy dawn of a recent morning around the remnants of a British tumulus which exists at Knightlow, in Warwickshire, where the Duke of Buccleuch, as Lord of the Hundred, exacted payment of certain tributes which date from the misty times of our Druidical ancestors.

What it was instituted for nobody knows and nobody exactly knows why it is maintained. It only produces about nine shillings, but if any parish neglects to pay, the duke has the right to exact from it a white bull with red nose and ears.
