ANOTHER LEAP YEAR PARTY.

A brilliant and enjoyable leap year party was given at Temple hall Wednesday evening when upwards of one hundred guests were royally entertained. The young ladies had planned and executed the details with such care and attention that not a single element which might in any way contribute to its success was lacking. Robert Brown's Lansing theatre orchestra furnished music for the merry dancers, the program opening at precisely nine o'clock when the grand march was led by Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Butler. A delightful supper, which elicited much praise, was served at Odell's in his usual superb style. The costumes were strikingly handsome and altogether the event proved one of the pleasantest social affairs of the season. The young ladies principally to blame in this instance were Misses Hattie Eckardt, Anna Hogan, Nora Fitzgerald and M. E. Guthmann, the two latter acting as mistresses of ceremonies and director generals in general.

Those present were Misses Anna Hogan, McLaughlin, Weckbach, Conway, Sabie, Weckbach, Guilmette, Hogan, Halter, Shattery, Gaylord, Corcoran, Riley, Guthmann, Nora Fitzgerald, L. H. and S. Eckhardt, Dick, Judge, Kelly, Hughes, Kittie Flynn, Murphy, McCullen, Mary Malone, Holden, T. and M. Rooney, K. and N. Moran, Baron and Vifquain; Messrs and Mesdames, O'Neill, McElvaine, Corcoran, McDonald, Wm. Hogan, A. Halter, W. B. Hughes, J. J. Butler, Beck, Cononghey, Gray, Maron and Ledwith; Messrs O'Shea, Dick, Judge, E. J. Butler, Flynn, P. M. Hayden, Coleman, Weckbach, Deering, Murphy, Ed. Fitzgerald, Lawlor, G. Weiss, McClellan, C. B. Eckhardt, Edgar, P. Moran, McNeal, Ora Ward, Dr. O'Gorman, Frank Shepard, Maher, White, M. Kelley, James O'Shea, Gen. Vifquain, W. C. Fitzgerald and Golin.

That great literary offer now being made by the COURIER is meeting with big success. And why shouldn't it? Think of it. Dickens complete works, fifteen volumes in hand, some cloth binding and the COURIER one year for $5.00. Elliott complete and same binding with the COURIER $3.25. Thackeray complete $4.25. It will pay you to step in at the office (1134 N street) and inspect these books.

R. K. D. G. Co's Quitting Sale.

Few business houses in Lincoln can boast of as great a volume of trade as can the Kilpatrick-Koch dry goods company. Their large store is crowded every afternoon with eager purchasers and many a large bundle goes out to gladden the household. There is quite a hole in the once large and beautiful stock, but as the goods must all be sold by March first, Manager Pike announces it as his positive determination to close out everything if possible before quitting time. Ladies will do well to call early as there is yet a good assortment left in each department and prices are such as are sufficient to move them.

Fine Playing Cards.

Press Meeting Tonight.

Every publisher of a daily or weekly newspaper in the city of Lincoln, and the several editors and reporters connected with the city press, are requested to meet at the office of the CAPITAL CITY COURIER, 1134 N street, Saturday evening, February 13th, at 8 o'clock. As there will be matters of special and pecuniary importance to every publisher, it is earnestly desired that a full representation of the press be on hand.

Latest Jewelry Fads.

A gold hat with a sapphire body is a significant scarf pin.—Enameled ribbons gathered into rosettes are used as lace pins.—Mustache brushes with Russian enamel backs are for the luxurians.—Terrapin dishes in sets with repousse edges and handles and resting on tiny legs are desired about this time of the year.—There is an effort to introduce round amethyst and topaz pins. They are very pretty. They are set in chased gold with an inner band of tiny pearls.—Great vogue has been given this season to the little heart-shaped lockets. They are worn on fine chains, and seemed to be called for by some sentimental considerations.—The round enameled brooches with fine interlacings and powdered with colored stones come next to the flower jewelry in rivaling the bow knot. The use of ruby spindles and olivines limit the expense.—And the largest and best stock of diamonds and fine jewelry in Lincoln is at Eugene Hallett's, the jeweler. Call and see him.

A Very Popular Food Product.

While at the county seat of Otoe the other day, a COURIER representative made a brief visit to the extensive Nebraska City Cereal mill, the home of the well known "Quail" brand of rolled oats which is now so popular in Lincoln and elsewhere. In conversation with Mr. Theo. Beyschlag, the manager, it was learned that the Quail brand goods were coming rapidly to the front and that the demand often exceeded the supply. In fact while conversing with that gentleman a telegram from Chicago was received, ordering a carload of the celebrated goods. "Must be doing a rushing business," queried the newspaper man. "Oh, I don't know," was the reply of the millman as he smilingly opened an order book to enter the shipment. "We are not surprised at anything nowadays in connection with our Quail rolled oats. It's a fine thing and the people are not slow to recognize that fact, and consequently the demand is big wherever it has been introduced. The write since returning has made use of a sample package and is not surprised at the success with which this new and delicious food product is meeting.

ADDITIONAL DRAMATIC.

THE NOSS JOLLITIES.

The celebrated Noss family have been engaged to appear for two nights at the new Lansing, February 23rd and 24th, under the auspices of the Knight Templar of this city. They are a remarkable company, each one gifted with rare musical talent which crops out in every movement. If you wish to enjoy a rare treat you should hear them.

Box parties are very fashionable of late and it is quite the proper thing now to entertain your friends in this way. One is able in this way to enjoy almost the privacy of their own home and have the pleasure of the company of their guest, as well as enjoying the entertainment. The new Lansing offers many attractions to this class of pleasure seekers. The furniture with which its boxes are furnished is the finest in the city, and they command a better view of the stage. Manager Church is prepared to make special inducements to parties of six or more who desire boxes.

Buffalo Bill returned to his native land Monday, remaining this week, when he sails back again to merry England where he opens his show at Earl's Court, London, in five weeks. Buffalo Bill, who lost his name in the smoke and retreat of Indian battles, has found it again in London, where he, and those blood-thirsty old warriors "Kur'nal" Thomas Porterhouse "Ochiltree," "Kur'nal" Nale Salsberry and "Kur'nal" Ned Thorne, were feasted by that old bold strategist, "Kur'nal" North—he of nitrate fame. In the galaxy of great military geniuses around that festive board all were Kurnals, except Col. Cody's manager, Major John Burke, and he was a high private in the rear rank.

It is not at all unlikely that a thoughful man sitting at the play will have this question forced upon his attention—"where are they to come from?" The list of really accomplished actors grows smaller and smaller. Last year robbed us of Barrett and Florence. Both ranks now amongst the great actors who, "have been," Jefferson is liable any day to tell the world that his days of toil are over, and that for the balance of his days—many and happy as they may be—he has resolved to rest. Where are the successors of these men to come from? In this age of the waning and deepening of all our educational forces, it seems to us a very lamentable thing that there is no adequate provision made for the best work of the dramatic profession. The coming age asks for the best and most cultured work in all departments; and the stage cannot afford to lag behind in this onward march. Great actors cannot be expected to graduate in any great numbers from behind the scenes alone. We need educated men and women for the demands of the future, men and women who will not only take up the old traditions of the stage and see to it that these traditions suffer no loss; but who will meet the large demands of the coming day and carry these old traditions to loftier heights and to more conspicuous triumphs. Where are they to come from? We are not blind to the efforts that are being made in this different cities to meet this growing want of the stage, but it is a fact that we cannot but regret, that of all professions, the dramatic profession is the least prepared to keep its ranks constantly supplied with capable men and women.

STAGE GLIMMERS
Hanlon's "Superba" will end its season in Chicago about May 15, after its return from the coast.

Sol Smith Russell is the only star on the road who does not employ an advance agent, and his business is phenomenal everywhere.

It is said the New York Central railroad has concluded not to haul private theatrical cars of any description, when attached to regular passenger trains.

Miss Marie Wainwright will next season join the ranks of those stars who desire to produce the works of American dramatists. She and her manager Julien Magnus, announce their willingness to carefully read any new play.

Rose Coghlan and Helen Barry are soon to have a bout in the courts, all on account of their play, which both unfortunately adapted from the same German play. It seems as though the German author isn't in it at any stage of the game.

Saturday, January 30, actress carpenter Wheeler, "Nym Crinkle" was married to Miss Jennie Pearl Mowbray, by the Rev. Dr. Thomas Dixon at the residence of that clergyman in New York. Miss Mowbray is a handsome young woman about 24 years of age. Last season she played one of the leading parts in "The Great Metropolis." She was at one time a member of Mrs. James Potter's company. Her home is in Minneapolis.
