VARIOUS TOPICS

It's awfully funny and as interesting and spicy as it is beautiful and witty. Such is the verdict regarding the July number of that justly celebrated monthly visitor, Frank Zebrung's Punch. The frontispiece shows a beautiful etching, the editor's position shown therein being an uneasy one to understand. The fact, however, though not made public, is told us in confidence that they were padded and in consequence furnished comfortable nest. The diamond shown between the second and third fingers is a beautiful gem and was hired at great expense especially for the occasion. Mr. Goldwater, however, has it on hand again and ready for rental. The lady's picture in the scene—the large center double-page illustration—is one of the leading features of the issue. It is a series of cartoons on "The Summer Artist's Vacation," and depicts the joys of the amateur artist on his annual outing. In this Mr. Zebrung has shown clever tact and displayed his keen sense of humor. The non-de-plume of E. K. Kemble appears as the artist but THE COURIER betrays only a little side-issue confidence when it says that Mr. Zebrung's work in this line will heretofore be distinguished by that signature. It would take too much time and space to give a detailed review of this excellent number. Suffice it to say that it's a wonderfully clever paper and that sample copies will be given free on application at the office of publication, 1213 O street.

Chicago's two big attractions just now in amusement lines are the world's fair buildings and "Ali Baba"—each are playing to big business and I have just seen them with both eyes. The fair grounds are, comparatively speaking, easy of access and there seems to be plenty of transportation facilities for reaching the famous spot. The Cottage Grove Avenue cars on the Wabash Avenue cable takes you from the business center to within a few blocks of the entrance, and one would think, judging from the struggling masses already at the gates, that the big fair was in complete order and ready for business. But, my! what a long way off it is from readiness. The fence and entrance is in a ragged state as before the site was located and even worse, for now the earth is torn up in numerous places, large piles of timber, rock, etc., greet the eye in every direction and the grounds in general are in worse condition than they ever have been. Few of the buildings are finished, and aside from the buildings for mines, women and horticulture there are none of them even half completed. The huge construction to be known as Machinery and Liberal Art hall is well under way but not nearly half finished. The massive spans are just commencing to get into place and it is said if the building is completed by the time for dedication, which is set for October next, that the contractors will have done wonders. The state buildings are gradually coming into prominence, and Nebraska will have no reason to feel ashamed of her representative. The building is a handsome one, although rather plain, but it looks substantial and will be a solid advertisement for our great state. The battle ship model is being built and already has a fair resemblance of one of Uncle Sam's latest war instruments. The sides, instead of being of iron are made of brick and the balance of the work is generally of wood and iron. It will be, when painted up and otherwise finished, a faithful model of our latest ships. There are no boards walk-in the grounds, except along the lake front, where a substantial asphalt pavement has been laid along the shore. Here and there are huge pieces of statuary crated in sections. Massive iron work is either in piles or in course of erection, and the scene entire is one of apparent confusion and excitement, yet everything moves on in systematic order and the masses keep coming to see what can be seen, yet they see little and probably know less about the big fair than before they went. The man and woman with the kodak are there, as also is the curiosity seeker who picks up stones and chips pieces off of such places as he can without being detected. There is an immense work going on, but to the average locker on it appears to progress slowly. The assurances are given out, however, that all will be in ample readiness at the expected time.

"Ali Baba" is a great play—all of David Henderson's productions are. The piece has now been on at the Chicago opera house two months, and Saturday evening when I took in the show I had to content myself with fourth row parquette seats. But I would not have missed it had I been compelled to stand during the performance, as did many of the late comers. There is a vast difference between "Ali Baba" and "Sinbad," and no resemblance in the least attraction to the other, except that Eddie Foy and other popular favorites recall to mind the pleasant memories of the last grand production. The scenic effects are of course the principal features, and they are superbly elegant. The transformation scene, "The Birth of the Butterfly," is the most magnificent and massive piece of scenic work ever seen in America, and I doubt whether the stage of any country has ever seen its equal. Unlike other transformations which depend largely on human figures to lend effect to the scene, this closes showing but one person who forms the body of the butterfly and moves through space with glittering wings presenting a most novel and beautiful scene. The costume of "Ali Baba" is all new and when I say it far surpasses even that of the "Sinbad" production, my readers who saw it in Lincoln will have but a faint idea of how grandly the piece is really put on. The libretto is on the same order as "Sinbad," both of course being fables, and the music is all catchy, pleasing and bright. Eddie Foy is as funny as ever, and having said that it would be a waste of words to say more. He has several new typical songs and the people go as wild over him as they did when they heard him in former productions. I notice Alf C. Whelan, late with Annie Pixley and an old Lincoln favorite, is now in the cast of the American Extravaganza company and assumes a leading part in a most satisfactory manner. Whelan has a great baritone voice, is an apt comedian and is doing some clever work as "Alibazan" for which he gets his share of applause. I have known Whelan for ten years past, first with Doyle Carte's opera, then Lillian Brown's Jollities, later with Zig Zag, and lastly with Annie Pixley. There is no part in which he has appeared that has given him the showing that he is able to make, like "Alibazan," and his work is therefore a credit both to himself and Manager Henderson. Ida Mülle, Jessie Cleveland, Ada Deaves, Henry Norman and Otis Harlan are all old time favorites that still draw well and do equally good work. The ballads, marches, and specialties are all of a high order and "Ali Baba," it is now predicted, will have even a more prosperous run than did "Sinbad." When you go to Chicago don't fail to take it in, even if you must stand your stay for another day in order to do so.

The hundreds of people who drive out to the magnificent buildings of the Western Normal College are greatly surprised at its massive size and apt arrangements and the fitness of its model and surrounding country. The managers of this great enterprise evidently knew what they were doing when they made the selection. The drainage is perfect and the prevailing winds from south and west make this a most desirable suburb. Drive out and see it. Take Lincoln Park Boulevard to South street then go west to college. The roof is being placed on the building and much of the plastering is done. Steam pipes and the electric wires are in place, and the contractors say the building will be completed on time, August 15th. It seems almost incredible when we consider there was nothing done until about the middle of April. "The world do move."

one good Turn Deserves Another. Fellow Passenger—Pardon me, your necktie has been sticking out for some time. I refrained from telling you sooner because those young ladies seemed so much amused.

Farmer—Thank; an oil from that lamp has been droppin on that light overcoat of yours for the last ten minutes, but every one seemed so tickled that I hated to spoil the fun.—London Tit-Bits.

WOMAN

is the pivot upon which Trade Turns.

A number of years ago I suggested to one of my clients that he place an advertisement for goods used exclusively by men in a paper supposed to be read exclusively by women. The advertisement appeared; it continued in that paper several consecutive years. The actual mail cash sales, coming directly from that advertisement, were two or three times as great, reckoning proportionate cost, than came from the same advertisement in any of the hundred papers my client was advertising in. Since then I have made these experiments many times, until I believe I have a right to claim that the experiment has passed into fact.—Nathl. C. Fowler, Jr., Advertising Expert.

NOTICE

LINCOLN, NEB., June 10, 1892. R. B. Lewis will take notice that on the 7th day of June, 1892, Charles H. Foxworthy, justice of the peace of Lincoln precinct, Lancaster county, Nebraska, issued an order of attachment for the sum of $10.85 in an action then pending before him, wherein the Clarkson company is plaintiff and R. B. Lewis, defendant, that the property of the defendant consisting of one trunk, one coat and vest, one pair pants and vest, one spy glass, underwear, books and sundry articles has been attached under said order, said cause was continued to the 23d day of July, 1892, at 9 o'clock p. m. CLARKSON LAUNDRY COMPANY, Plaintiff. by Holmes, Cornish & Lamb, its attorneys, Lincoln, Nebraska, June 10th, 1892.

SHERIFF SALE.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of an execution issued by the clerk of the district court of the Second judicial district of Nebraska, within and for Lancaster county, in an action wherein The State National Bank is plaintiff, and Theodore F. Barnes, et al., are defendants, I will, at 2 o'clock p. m., on the 12th day of July, A. D. 1892, at the east door of the court house in city of Lincoln, Lancaster county, Nebraska, offer for sale at public auction the following described real-estate to wit: All of lot two (2) and the west one half (1/2) of lot one (1) of block four (4) of McMurry's addition to Lincoln, Lancaster county, Nebraska. Given under my hand this 9th day of June, A. D. 1892. SAM McCLAY, Sheriff.

NOT AS REPRESENTED

Appearances are often Deceptive!

This is the predicament that the man found himself in who bought Furniture from a rival house, represented to be just as good as ours. Fact, however, is, they can't put up the goods at our prices, and consequently work off inferior Furniture at prices that ought to buy good goods. In picture No. 3 the man is not to be found. He is at our store this time, knowing what he gets of us will be strong, durable, well made and just as represented.

Our Midsummer Sacrifice Sale Is now in progress. During July trade is usually quiet, but we don't propose to allow that to interfere with our, thus far big trade. We'll keep the business booming. All Chamber Sets, Carpets, Refrigerators, Gasoline Stoves, Etc.

have been marked down to cost prices—and when we say cost prices, it means more than the idle talk of competitors—for we buy direct from the factory and not from jobbers. It won't take long to convince yourself of this fact. Why not step in and see?
