ABOUT PEOPLE.

The Saratoga Daily Register of July 21st devotes three columns to a description of Mr. Mahler's opening hop at Congress Hall. From it is clipped the following: "The initial hop at Congress hall was as perfectly managed and elegant in every way as in the many seasons past and of course this is entirely to the blame of Mr. Jacob Mahler, the master of ceremonies—as perfect as in years past—yes even more so. Every minute detail regarding elegance and consistency was observed and followed, and Professor Mahler has reason to congratulate himself on the smoothness with which this first very enjoyable and promising festivity passed off. But all this is superfluous for Mr. Mahler is capable for any artistic undertaking and the reputation of his hops has been echoed throughout the land by delighted tourists who have attended like evenings of terpsichorean revels." Then mid nearly two columns describing the ladies' toilet comes the following: "Mrs. Jacob Mahler, a petite, graceful brunette, was handsomely costumed in a flowered foulard of white and blue, tastefully ornamented with point lace. That dear little fairy, Miss Rosalind Mahler, was much observed when dancing for she is so perfectly graceful. This little golden head was dressed in figured China silk."

One of those occasions in life that stand out prominent to look back upon as one of the happy events in one's existence, was forced upon Mr. Sam McClay at his home Wednesday evening. The affair was a surprise, bonafide in every respect, and when a dozen or more friends, comprising his dear ties at his office and their wives came in, it certainly gave the popular sheriff reason to believe that something out of the usual run was on the tapis. Soon after the invaders got possession Mr. Henry Hoagland, the sheriff's leading right bower, made a few appropriate remarks and suggested that in as much as this was the day on which he became of age—58 years—his co-laborers had thought to celebrate the occasion by presenting him with their compliments, a beautiful gold-headed cane, on which was inscribed "Sheriff Sam McClay, from his deputies, July 30, 1892." That it was a surprise every one present can attest and that all enjoyed the occasion they can likewise testify. Refreshments and a jovial good time was enjoyed by all and the following were among the party of intruding visitors: Mr. and Mrs. H. Hoagland, Mr. and Mrs. Grant McFarland, Mr. and Mrs. Dillon, Mr. and Mrs. Trimble, Mr. and Mrs. Langdon, Miss Hoagland and Mrs. McClay.

In the absence of a liberal grist of society news, read the interesting letter from China on our first page by Dr. Snyder, formerly a resident of this city with offices in the Brace block. Then the letter from "Chicago" is another chatty and spicy epistle. Next week we will publish a letter from a Lincoln newspaper man who is now touring Europe with a party of friends, and expect also to print one of Mr. Mahler's breezy letters from Saratoga Springs. During the heated term social movements are anything but lively or interesting, and as something to read instead these letters from people that we know seem to be much enjoyed and very acceptable.

Mr. Ode Rector, for the past ten years with the old reliable drug house of H. W. Brown, is arranging to branch out in business for himself. He has rented the store now occupied by W. B. Howard, corner Twelfth and N streets, and will, as soon as Mr. Howard can move into his new quarters, get ready to open one of the coolest and best arranged and most complete pharmacies in the city. Ode is a deservedly popular young man, thoroughly posted in the drug and prescription business and his numerous friends will wish him success and give him their patronage and support.

About the most important visitors in Lincoln these times are the numerous crooks that visit our homes without leaving their cards. The town seems to be full of them. They apparently have a clean walk away, since the police either do not try to catch them or haven't any luck in ferreting out the unwelcome guests. It seems strange that in all these depredations practically no arrests have been made. If some relief from this class of society people is not soon had, the belief may arise that the police are working with the marauders.

Miss Carol Churchill gave a reception Tuesday evening at her home, 3042 T street, in honor of her friend, Miss Cora McCandlish, of Omaha, who has been visiting with her during the past week. The evening was pleasantly spent by all. A show musical and literary program was followed by various games, after which refreshments such as only Miss Churchill can serve was enjoyed. Those present were Misses McCandlish, De Witt, Churchill, Jackson and the Messrs. Clark, Misses Millaine, Husong.

There was a happy gathering of friends at the home of Mr. O'Shea, 2138 L street, Monday evening. The party consisted principally of young folks and a right merry time was had. Card games, music and refreshments caused the time to fly and ere the festivities had been sufficiently indulged in the clock gave evidence to all that it was time to depart. It was a pleasant occasion and enjoyed alike by hostess and guests.

The Burr outing party left Wednesday for Lake Okiboji, Iowa, to be gone a month. Mrs. L. C. Burr, Miss Mae Burr, Charlie Burr and Mr. S. T. St. John composed the quartette of tourists. In last week's issue speaking of the party the types made it read "Mrs. St. John" instead of S. T. St. John, and the Journal, as usual, accidentally made the same error.

The Bryant school has a spunky lot of young base ball enthusiasts and the boys put up a clever game. They had a contest Tuesday with the East Lincoln Juniors which they won twenty to three, Davis and Jones doing battery service for the champions while Sterns and Kimmer done the work for the losing team.

Mr. Sam Walters went to St. Louis Sunday, and after a few weeks visit there, during which time he will also get his samples ready, he will again take the road for fall trade.

Miss Lillie Harman has been visiting with friends at Nebraska City and Peru the past week.

A pleasant sociable was given Tuesday evening by the young folks of Dr. Huntington's South M. E. church and a delightful time was enjoyed by the large assembly of amusement seekers. The arrangements were cleverly carried out affording an evening of unusual pleasures. The young ladies who assisted in making the affair a success were attired in costumes of 1776 and made a pretty appearance. The refreshments were delicious and the social features generally were of a pleasing nature.

The big outing of the Lincoln dry goods and grocery merchants will be an unprecedented success. The meeting held at L. Meyer & Co.'s store Wednesday evening was very enthusiastic, and reports of the committees showed that the day, August 17th, would be generally observed, and that business houses as a rule will close and join in the festivities at Lincoln park. Another meeting to further complete arrangements will be held at the same place Wednesday evening.

A Proof of Woman's Great Vanity.

It is estimated that nine-tenths of the women of the globe spend their time in making ornaments and fancy dress fabrics for the remaining tenth to wear. There are thousands of women lacemakers, weavers and needlewomen who never wear a particle of the work upon which they spend their lives. All the delicate garments which they make are destined to be worn by others more fortunate in the distribution of riches. It is regarded as a proof of woman's great vanity—that fact that so large a population of the globe is kept busy making clothes for the few fortunate ones to wear.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Men Can Help.

The state is an aggregation of families, and it is appropriate that woman's place in the law, as well as under the law, should be clearly defined, and that the disabilities which have been put upon her as a citizen should be removed. Women have done much for the advancement of the globe but men have done far more, and it is to men that we must look for the enfranchisement of the sex, not through favor, but through sense of justice; not by antagonism, but by harmony. As man advances along the road of progress he will scorn to put upon the sex physically weaker any further limitation than is theirs by nature.—Chicago Graphic.

Always Seek For Reliable Firms.

There are few stores in Lincoln that enjoy a constant run of trade like that of Louie Meyer & Co. Having come to Lincoln in the seventies, they have grown with the city, and the business they are one of the most substantial and largest in the capital city. And in all these years they have confined themselves to the one legitimate line—that of dry goods and groceries, in which they continue to lead and prosper. The large store, 140 feet deep, is arranged equally for each line, groceries occupying the south half while opposite is the dry goods department. Both gentlemen drying the firm are anything but novices, and with long years of careful study of the business and what the trade wants, they are better fixed to fill their wants than any other Lincoln store. It pays to trade with an old and reliable firm. You know by experience, and if not by personal experience then by that of your neighbor, that when you buy goods at such a place you get just what you bargain for, and if you find that your purchase was unsatisfactory when you get home, you can return the goods and they will accord you the same liberal and pleasant treatment as when you bought originally. Yes, it pays to trade with Louie Meyer & Co.
