Satan promises large wages if we will serve him, but he clothes his victims with rags and he pinches them with hunger.

In the time of Queen Mary of England a persecutor came to a Christian woman who had hidden in her house for the Lord's sake.

The resolution of this text was formed in disgust at his present circumstances. If this young man had been by his employer set to cultivating flowers, or training vines over an arbor, or keeping account of the pork market, or overhauling other laborers he would not have thought of going home.

Some man comes and says to me: "Why do you talk about the ruined state of the human soul? Why don't you speak about the progress of the nineteenth century, and talk of something more exhilarating."

When Napoleon talked of going into Italy they said: "You can't get there; if you knew what the Alps were you wouldn't talk about it or think of it; you can't get your ammunition wagons over the Alps."

That is the heart of the matter. It is a sad thing that a father has done everything for a child to have that child be ungrateful. How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is to have a thankless child.

shore? Will you come back? When you come back will you come in the rags of your sin, or will you come robed in the Saviour's righteousness? I believe the latter. Go home to your God today. He is waiting for you. Go home!

There is a man who had the prodigal fever. He said, "Oh, if I could get over this terrible distress, if this fever should depart, if it could be restored to health, I would all the rest of my life serve God."

"Oh," says some man, "I'll attend to that when I can get my character fixed up; when I can get over my evil habits. I am now given to strong drink," or, says the man, "I am given to uncleanness," or, says the man, "I am given to dishonesty."
