The Ben Hur engagement under the auspices of the local branch of the Women's Christian Association, opened at the Lansing theatre Wednesday evening before an appreciative and cultured audience and one that did not fail to demonstrate their pleasure at frequent intervals. No home talent entertainment has ever been so sumptuously staged, the scenic effects being fully as magnificent and perhaps even grander, than has ever been exhibited by any attraction on the local stage. The paintings are works of art. Each piece of canvas bearing a faithfully depicted representation that is bright and new. The home auxiliary which acts the pantomime has been most excellently drilled, the dancing being marked by a finish and grace seldom seen among amateurs, while the posing in the tableaux was, it might be said, simply perfect. The several bits of statue posing calls for special mention. While the marches among them, being several new and intricate maneuvers, fully deserved the applausus that was tendered each change. But the bewildering and most enchanting of all is the magnificent transformation scene with which the evening's bill closes. Not that the Bancis or Kralys have devised can excel it and when that is said, it means nothing.

The stage management was certainly in efficient hands and unlike most home talent affairs everything moved smoothly, there being no hitch and wait of any consequence, at any time. There are a great number of changes of scenes, but each was made with almost faultless regularity, showing conclusively that Messrs Clark and Cox are anything but novices in their line of business. Thursday night the house was again well filled and last night the largest audience of the engagement witnessed the third production, many first night's faces being again present. The engagement closes tonight and those that have not seen Ben Hur should certainly make it a point to attend. At the matinee this afternoon the prices will be 75, 50 and 25 cents and if in dication count for anything, the house will be crowded. The production is certainly deserving of the most flattering success.

THE LEGITIMATE DRAMA.

"Var" is the spice of life," says an old proverbi, and the people want some of that spice. The reign of farce comedy and other light matter is seemingly at an end and the public is now looking for something more substantial, and a better opportunity to satisfy that craving could not occur than that which will be offered local theatre goers next Tuesday and Wednesday, when Thomas

Keene, the great tragedian and his carefully selected company of players will begin a two night engagement of the Shakespearean drama, opening in the much talked of scene revival of Richard III. The company that will support Mr. Keene during his coming engagement is probably the strongest he ever had. The roster includes:

Frederick Paulding, Frank Henning, Julius

Scott, Carl Albrant, Percy Linden, C W

Vance, Misses Henrietta Vaders, Mauda

Craigen, Mrs S A Baker, and a number of others.

Monday night they will have the pleasure of presenting the great comedy drama in five acts entitled "My Country." This is a strong comedy drama, bright and sparkling.

A play that reaches the hearts of the American people who love their country. Mr.

Corse Payton in his own original creation of "Dickey Doodle" with new songs and dances which will be introduced throughout the piece. In Miss Etta Reed, the leading lady, you will find a strong emotional actress of exceptional ability. Monday night one lady and gentleman or two ladies will be admitted on one paid reserved seat ticket.

Thursday a grand Thanksgiving matinee will be given. Prices 10 and 20 cents.

morning.

THE "STOWAWAY," THANKSGIVING.

Lovers of the melodramatic, who sympathize with the unfortunate, rejoice with required honesty and love and grow enthusiastic over the punishment of villainy, will be pleased to learn that "The Stowaway" will be seen at the Lansing theatre, Thanksgiving matinee and night. There is something in "The Stowaway" that touches a common human chord. It is not that it is produced

A Brother's Love.It was Beverly's wedding day, and he was teasing his kid brother-in-law. "Well, Johnny," he said solemnly, "I'm going to take your sister away off and have all to myself, where you won't see her any more."

"No, really, are you?" said the kid curiously.

"Yes, I am. What do you think of it?"

"Nothing. I guess I can stand it if you can."—Texas Sifting.
