LIGHT INFANTRY TOPICS.

The elegant time given the Infantry boys by the Guards of Omaha at their reception Saturday night will never be forgotten. It was a brilliant affair and enjoyed by all present.

The Light Infantry has been invited to give several exhibition drills at the Manufacturers' Carnival which takes place next week.

The new members elected at the last regular meeting have all been measured and uniforms ordered. They will arrive before the 11th so the entire company of fifty members will go to Omaha in full uniform the night of the minstrels.

There are many friends of the company who wish to go to Omaha to see the show and in order that they may have this privilege there will be special arrangements made—possibly a special train coming home the night of the show.

At Boyd's opera house, March 11, the Lincoln Light Infantry minstrels will be produced. The Omaha Guards will see that tickets enough are sold to insure a large house.

Captain Campbell told the boys when they visited Omaha that they would have a good time if they went. He had formerly been a member of the Guards and knew what he was talking about.

Lieutenant Hickey was absent from drill Monday night owing to a severe cold. He was out again yesterday, however.

When the weather becomes more "summerish" the company expect to give an occasional out-door drill.

The new members seem to take hold with a vim and energy that is characteristic of Lincoln blood.

The drills are progressing nicely and Lincoln will always have cause to feel proud of her L. I.

John V. Beachley has posted an application for membership.

Doctor Victor is in Chicago.

When you want prompt service and fair treatment and the selection from the largest stock of groceries in Lincoln call on W. A. Coffin & Co., successors to J. Miller, 143 South Eleventh street.

A Newspaper Premium. The man had informed a number of his friends that he was going down and give the editor a thumping, and his friends, who knew the editor, tried to dissuade him, because they had seen a few wrecks who had escaped.

"Hello," they said in surprise, "he wasn't there, was he?"

"Yes, he was."

"But you didn't see him?"

"Yes, I did, and I slapped his jaws and walked all over him."

"Come off; what are you giving us?"

"Straight goods."

"Didn't he make any resistance?"

"Not a bit."

"What was the matter with him?"

"Nothing. I had one of his papers in my pocket containing an insurance policy good for $1,000 if I were killed, and for $50 a week if I were injured. I showed it to him, and then I went for him, and he didn't raise a finger."

"Now is the time to subscribe!" shouted the crowd, and they all went in behind a green shutter.—Exchange.

A Lady Who Was Baled in the South.

"I tell you the power of the will is something enormous."

"That's so. I remember at the battle of Gettysburg seeing a man with both legs shot off running like a blue streak for the rear. It was nothing but his will that held him up."—Harper's Bazar.

Awkward Youth.

Little Dick—Seems to me the older folks grow the more awkward they get.

Mamma—Why so?

Little Dick—I can fix on sister's skates in two minutes, but it takes Mr. Niccetto 'bout half an hour.—Good News.

Better Than Nothing.

Rev. Mr. Pryor to Rev. Mr. Retient—And how much does your congregation pay you a year, my dear brother?

Rev. Mr. Retient to Rev. Mr. Pryor—About half my salary, my dear brother.—Elmira Gazette.

Queen of the Realm.

Shadbolt (in the crowded car)—McStab, this is the first time I ever saw you rise and give your seat to a woman.

McStab (of the suburbs, in an awestruck whisper)—Sh! That's our hired girl.—Chicago Tribune.

An Incomplete Plan.

"Ere, 'Arry, you wait till I collars the prog."

"Blow me, somebody coming. Must do a sneak."

The Lover—I have the honor, madam, to venture into your presence with a view to my future happiness.

"Bow-wow-wow-wow-wow!"

A fierce attack and general consternation!

OPPI! —Pick Me Up.

A Weather Indication. "They must have been having wet weather in the Sandwich Islands," ventured the snake editor.

"On what do you base your presumption?" asked the horse editor.

"On the fact that the people are anxious to come in out of the reign."—Pittsburg Chronicle.

Disproved. Friend of Mamma (to little girl)—Lottie, if you drink so much tea, you will be an old maid.

Lottie—Oh, I don't believe that at all, Mr. Harold. Mamma drinks tea and she has been married twice, and she isn't an old maid yet.—Harper's Bazar.

Class in Geography. Teacher—For what is Switzerland noted? Pupil (after a pause)—Switzer kase.

"Yes, but for something much more grand, awe inspiring and majestic. Try again."

(Making another effort)—Limburger.—Chicago Tribune.

Counted Out. "I understand Bobby Fenton has been snubbed by the swells."

"Yes."

"What for?"

"He went to dinner the other night and got his forks mixed."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

duct of numerous heavy manufacturing plants that have given employment to hundreds of laboring men. They are exceptional men in the matter of investment, one of their chief aims being to so plant their money as to give work to the greatest number of men while yielding a fair profit.

A local writer has inaugurated a campaign to require the churches to set apart suitable rooms for cloak rooms. It is very probable that the only reason he has no cloak this cold winter is because there is no church in Lincoln with a cloak room in which to put it.

The new city directory is a remarkable book. It has within its pages the names of high-minded and ambitious people. Nearly all of them are candidates for mayor, and the few who are not are riveting their aspirations upon some other city office.
