Look at These Questions College Girls Are Discussing.

The institution of learning presided over by Tennyson's Princess Ida is almost realized in some of the noble colleges for girls that now exist in the United States. A poetic dream often- pensively; "he was buried" times brings its own fulfillment. The brave college girls are just as handsome, just as prettily dressed, just as musical were, and that is one of the old, good fea- black. tures that were brought along and attached to the new system. The girls of Wellesley college have a political society called the Agora. The members have been pursuing a course of study on federal government, and lately held a mock senate, in which they discussed the Chandler bill for restricted immigration, in accordance with the rules of parliamentary usage customary in the United States senate. It is one of the rules of the Agora that members shall make at the beginning of a meeting extempore speeches on various topics. I never have had anything do me more good than to was buried yesterday. read of the subjects tackled in these speeches at a recent meeting. The fair and wise young students made extempore addresses on Irish home rule, Hawaiian annexation and Kansas politics. How much good an association of women can do is shown by Mrs. Underwood's ing up over the cover. story in Worthington's Magazine of the Chicago Woman's club. It has established and maintains a free kindergarten and a protective agency for women and children. and he proceeded with his labors.-Ex Through its persistent efforts women change. physicians were appointed on the medical staff of insane asylums and other public institutions in Illinois. The same kind of effort, at once enthusiastic and gentle as well as steady, resulted in the appointment of women as assistant school superintendents and members of the board of education in Chicago. One of the club members is Mrs. Bertha Honore Palmer, president of the board of lady managers of the Columbian exposition Another is Ada C. Sweet, the pension claim agent, who so long held the office of government disbursing pension agent at Chicago. Yet another member, Mrs. J. M. Flower, is president of the Illinois training school for nurses. One feature that has contributed not a little to the great success of the Chicago club is the fact that ladies of leisure and the highest social standing became active and enthusiastic members, and it helped them quite as much as they helped it.

You will never have any peace or smooth sailing as long as you fly into a rage and permit your temper to run away with you.

What do you think of this kind of law? A negro in Louisiana stole some News-Record. clothing from a woman. It was certain that he committed the theft, but the defense showed that the lady had a husband living. No married woman may sue or be sued in Louisiana, and nothing belongs to her, not even her own bonnets and dresses. She belongs to her husband, just as a negro slave formerly belonged to a master. Therefore the thief was acquitted. This is putting a premium on single blessedness for women.

Dr. Frances C. Van Gasken passed two stiff civil service examinations and got the appointment as assistant medical inspector for the board of health in Philadelphia. The Philadelphia board of health is quite as much to be congratulated as Dr. Van Gasken.

The New York Mail and Express offered a prize of $200 for the best essay in favor of a protective tariff, and it was von by a newspaper woman, Miss Mabel McElheny.

Kansas, along with more politics than any other state in the Union, has something else that not many other states possess-that is, an expert woman accountant. When a business firm's bookkeeping gets into a hopeless tangle, or when a settlement and balancing of accounts is required, Mrs. Thurston is sent for from city to city and is as skillful in her line as the women of the treasury department are in deciphering the words and numbers upon mutilated currency. But women can't understand business and cannot learn mathematics! Oh, not And they have not a use enough to vote No. timberal!
