ing a number of Lincoln guests. Among others stopping there recently were Captain J. E. Hill and daughters, Misses Gertrude and Winifred, and Mrs. Joseph Bigger, Mr. M. D. Welch, Mr. and Mrs. Wadsworth and Mr. T. C. Fiske.

Rev. C. B. Newman has resigned the pastorate of the Christian church. His services during the summer will be employed in the interest of Cotner university. Mr. Newman has been a devoted pastor and during his residence in Lincoln he has made hosts of friends including many outside of his church.

Mr. Lou Wesell left Friday for St. Joseph, where he will join his family, who are visiting at his wife's home, and proceed from there to Atlantic City, N. J., to spend the heated term. Incidentally he will visit the world's fair, Philadelphia, New York and Saratoga, and Co. readers may anticipate an occasional letter from him while sojourning in the east.

Prof. Franklin Eaton, late of Terra Haute, Ind., and Washington, D. C., but now a full fledged Lincolnite, and by the way, one of the best piccolo and flute soloists in the west, has taken unto himself a wife. It is the old story retold with all its original freshness.

Dr. Dunn has been confined to the house with rheumatism for the past week or two. Miss Alice Eikentary, of Plattsmouth, is in Lincoln, the guest of the family of Dr. W. S. Latta.

Every one should know by this time that it is dangerous to ask a doctor's or a lawyer's advice even in the most casual and public manner unless one expects to pay him for it. There is a well authenticated story of a man in New York who chanced to remark to a celebrated physician once: "Doctor, have you any sure means of preventing sickness?"

"Certainly," said the doctor. "What is it?" "Stay on shore!" said the physician and sent the man his bill.

"Any letters for me, miss?" "No." "Any for grandma?" "No." "Aunt Sally?" "None." "The Jenkins gals?" "None." "Why, you hadn't giv' us any letter in three weeks!" "Can't help it." "Got any side meat?" "Yes."

Dr. X. (the celebrated physician who makes, we are told, 150,000 francs a year by his practice)—Well, sir, where do you suffer? Patient—Here, sir, in the pit of my stomach. It hurts me dreadfully when I press against it.

CRUSHED. How Mrs. Jones Got Even With Her Husband For Staying Out. Mr. Jones went home late the other night and found Mrs. Jones sitting up for him with an expression of countenance that instantly rendered him as sober as a judge when holding court.

"No, that wasn't what he wanted. He asked me if I had any pictures of you taken in youth and early manhood and at later intervals." "What?" "So I gave him the one you had taken for me when we were first engaged—that old daguerreotype, you know."

"That meansy thing! I look like a murderer in that, Maria, and you know it." "Yes, I always thought so. You said you had it painted because the artist was a poor girl who had a family to support. They will have you at three ages, Jephtha, and you can send the papers home to Jasper county and show how you've got famous at last. It's all the style to be triplicates now."

Lacked Business Sagacity. Father—Yes, I admit that our boy ain't lazy. He's as smart as can be when it comes to tending traps and running errands, but he don't seem to have any business sagacity at all.

Her Letter. Mrs. Mary Clay, colored, did the washing and ironing for the family of Mr. Jones, the Green street grocer. Pay for her work was frequently taken out in groceries. This is a verbatim copy of a note sent with one week's laundered clothes:

The Meanest Yet. Mrs. de Gabb—Of all the mean, selfish, inconsiderate people, I think that Mrs. de Blank is the meanest. Mr. de Gabb—What has she done now? Mrs. de Gabb—She was the only resident of this neighborhood who had a telephone in the house, and she's had it taken out.—New York Weekly.

A Good Guess. "Oh, ya-as! I am a college graduate. Guess from where?" "Vassar?"—Life. A True Lover. Mrs. B.—My dear Mrs. Croesus, may I not put your name down for tickets for Professor Pundit's course of lectures on Buddhism?

Good Grounds. Pension Agent—I don't see on what grounds you ask for a pension. You were never in the war. Applicant—No, but I've been listening to war stories ever since.—Rochester Post-Express.

Sub Rosa. Smith—May I make a confidant of you? Jones—Why, certainly! Smith—Well, I'm hard up and want $50. Jones—You can trust me. I am as silent as the grave. I have heard nothing.—Truth. A Name For It. "I was careless this morning at church and put $1 in the box when I intended to give only a dime."

Murder Will Out.

A True Lover.
