A FOOLISH OBJECTION.

A religious paper published in Omaha criticizes the Bee for giving a faithful account of a prize fight. Prize fights are, unfortunately, an incident of the life we live, and as such are properly within the reportorial scope of the daily newspaper whose mission it is to report current happenings.

Burglaries and yacht races, and railroad accidents and battles and fires are reported without objection. Why, then, must the line be drawn at the prize fight?

There must be something radically wrong with our religious contemporary if, as we take it, the article to which it takes exception was written by Sandy Griswold.

Sandy Griswold's base and pugilistic gems can't hurt anybody. In fact, unless a man's liver is past all hope, he must necessarily derive much good from Mr. Griswold's brilliant contributions.

The other day Ferdinand W. Peck, on behalf of the World's Columbian exposition, paid to John J. Mitchell, trustee of the bondholders, the balance due the holders of the bonds issued by the exposition company. The money was paid by check and the amount was $1,505,330.76.

ARRANT NONSENSE. One Phelps Paine says that the banquet of the Young Men's Republican club recently held in this city, will cost the republican ticket one thousand votes.

Paine is silly. If the republican party in Lancaster county can't stand a banquet such as that given by the Young Men's club, it had better die. But it won't die. It isn't an easy thing to kill a party that can stand Paine.

Thus far three-fourths of the enthusiasm of republicans for the cause in this campaign has radiated from the Young Men's Republican club, and the activity of the young republicans who compose it will cost the democratic candidates many votes.

Whatever incites republicans to activity, whatever arouses their enthusiasm, is a good thing, whether it be a banquet, a mass meeting or a street procession.

When it comes to coal contracts it must be admitted that the board of education can't knock the city council silly. What some of the members of the board do not know about juggling with bids isn't worth knowing. The board may not be much of a success in running the purely educational department of the city schools; but it is a great and glaring success in the manipulation of deals to make the city pay extortionate prices for coal and other supplies.

THE MAYOR PONES. Mayor Weir and his veto are becoming very tiresome.

There is a large sized suspicion that the mayor uses the veto solely for the purpose of manufacturing political capital. He has just set the seal of his disapproval on the ordinance permitting sacred concerts to be held on Sunday.

He allows so-called "Dutch dances" which are sometimes rather hilarious orgies, to be held regularly every Sunday evening in the down blocks; he permits Sunday spiritualistic entertainments to be held in the Lansing theatre and he winks at no end of shocking things that are done on the Sabbath, and yet he violently opposes sacred concerts, which are guaranteed to be precisely what the name implies.

If Mayor Weir is in earnest let him run the whole gamut and stop the Sunday dances and the other "amusements" that are allowed full swing on the Sabbath.

Very few people want to see what is known as the "Open Sunday" in Lincoln out it is difficult to understand how there can be any valid objections to Sunday evening sacred concerts.

The News, a pronounced Maxwell organ before the convention, is supporting the nominee, Judge T. O. C. Harrison, with a zeal that does credit to its good sense and its republicanism. There is no reason why any republican newspaper should refuse to give Judge Harrison the heartiest kind of support, and there is no reason why any republican should not vote for him.

We like Judge T. O. C. Harrison because of the so called republicans who are opposing him. Rosewater's opposition is a pretty good certificate of character.

FOOT NOTES.

As Rosewater continues on his way, making a dismal spectacle of himself every day, the conviction is irresistibly brought home to the observer of his peculiar and unparalleled antics, that the diagnosis of Rosewater's case made by the Journal some months ago was entirely correct. The little man must be insane.

The Call has within the past few days renovated its office, had the walls freshly papered and scattered a lot of good paint in a rather promiscuous fashion.

THE STUDY OF A WORD.

The Resources and Variety of Information It is Likely to Furnish.

The great dictionaries are a library in themselves and furnish an exhaustless source of information. A study of a single word like cross in the Century Dictionary shows the resources and variety of information that a familiar word may furnish.

The fundamental idea is, of course, the cross, the crux for crucifying, but it has come to have a variety of meaning as a monument, a crucifix, the atonement, the Christian religion itself, any suffering for Christ's sake, anything that thwarts or vexes, a mixing of breeds in animal breeding, a term used in changing plants, a joint in a pipe, the accidental contact of two electric wires, a sportsman phrase for a contest dishonestly decided.

Then cross becomes an adjective, with several meanings, as falling, athwart, passing from one of two positions, perverse, etc., to the other, being opposed, being peevish or fretful, ill tempered, thoroughly contrary, in the breeder's vocabulary. Then it becomes an adverb, meaning transversely or adversely. Then it becomes a verb, with all kinds of significance, from the running of a line to cross a thing, to cancel by crossing, to cross one's self in devotion, passing from side to side of a man, to go over a body of water, to obstruct, to cause to interfere, to cross plants, to hoist from the deck to its place on the mast any of the lighter yards.

Then there is the preposition, in riding cross-country or walking cross-lots. All this with the simple word itself, which goes coveting from the most sacred thought in the world to the breeder's and the sportsman's language of the coop and ranch.

After this the mysteries begin. There are crosses—anserated, arellane, beazaty, bretesse, catosse, commisse, crenelle, estoile, fliche, fleury, gringole, lambaux, moline, nowed, nyle, quatre-foi, sailier, sarele, resarcé. Then there are the innumerable compounds of cross from cross-armed, cross-bated, cross-biter, cross-bar and cross-bun, through cross-fucan, cross-ruff, cross-ower and cross-spale to cross-wort.

Then there are a cross-grained set of crosses, such as crossarchinal, cross archus, crosse, crossepal, crosopterygia, crosopterygian, crosopterygiae, crosopterygii, crosopterygia, crosopterygium, crosopus, crosorhined and crosorhiniae.

It is incomprehensible that a word so simple should have gone rollicking all over the earth, into the bowels of the earth, into the depths of the sea, among the fowls of the air, the horse upon the turf, to card table, to the ships upon the sea, to the fishes in their glee, to the sharks in their ferocity, to the architect and plumber, to the farmer in his harrowing, to the railroad in its building, to the engine in its working, to the seaman in his labors, to the spider in his webbing, to the spinner in his loom, to the lawyers in their pleading, to a shrew in her wrangling, to the gunner in the fort, to the miner at his lode, to the Turk as he sits, to the sword of the gladiator, to the expert with his telescope, to the woman in her gazing and in her dressing, to the athletes in their wrestling and to the windler at his arts.—A. E. Winship in Journal of Education.

Queer Phenomena of Falling Bodies.

I am unable to say who first noticed the peculiar caprices of a stone or other heavy body dropped from the top of a high tower, but it is nevertheless a curious fact that such objects invariably fall slightly to the east of the perpendicular line. Persons of inquiring turn of mind who ask why this is as it is may find an answer in the following: All falling bodies partake of the earth's eastward motion to a greater or lesser extent. Therefore during the time occupied by a stone in falling from the top of a high tower or other eminence the earth's rotary motion has carried it an appreciable distance to the east. The initial impetus of the stone has carried it to the eastward also, therefore it strikes the earth to the east of the perpendicular, varying in degree according to the height from which it has fallen.

A curious article on this subject may be found in the Leipzig Zeitung of May 9, 1890, page 8. The author of the article, who has given it the title of "The Nonperpendicularity of High Towers," claims that the tower on St. Peter's cathedral at Rome leans 18 inches to the east.—St. Louis Republic.

Lawyer—And now please state the remainder of the conversation between you and the defendant.

Witness—I do not remember it, sir. The substance of it escapes me.

Lawyer (witheringly)—Never mind the substance of it. Tell us the words, and fancy the jury will have the intelligence to get at the substance.—Harper's Bazar.

A Card From Fred Schmidt.

As the withdrawal of the nominees for the office of county treasurer on the democratic and independent tickets has created a vacancy thereon, and having been urged by prominent republicans, democrats and independents to accept the nomination for that office, I have this day done so. Not having the opportunity in the brief time between now and election day to see all my friends, I take this method of informing the voters of Lancaster county that I will be pleased to have their support in my candidacy for the office and their votes on November 7 next for county treasurer, pledging in return that I will do my best to faithfully execute any trust that may be confided in me.

Yours most respectfully, FRED SCHMIDT.
