

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

THE most striking feature of the Pitcher reception last Friday evening was the exquisite taste displayed in the decorations. The mantel in the spacious hallway was almost entirely hidden with palms and red geraniums, while red carnations were also to be seen in every nook and corner. The Nebraska state orchestra was stationed on the east side and was surrounded by lamps with beautiful red shades, presenting a most charming appearance. The reception room on the right, where the receiving ladies were stationed, was profusely decorated in white, while in the back parlor red was again the predominating color. Carnations and American beauties, with piano lamps glowing with red light, formed the decorations. Immediately back of this room was the dining room, which was resplendent in pink and which called forth many exclamations of admiration from the guests as they tarried there a few moments for refreshments. All the lights in this room were covered with pink shades, and the center table was trimmed with pink carnations. Smilax was draped from the chandelier to the four corners of the table. Mrs. A. E. Kennard presided over the refreshments. She wore a beautiful gown of black lace over pink silk. She was assisted by Miss Minnie Gaylord and Miss Marie Louise Underwood, who served ices in beautiful pink china cups. Miss Underwood was beautiful in a pink china silk gown with chiffon trimmings, while Miss Gaylord was equally charming in a pink corded silk with pink lace bertha. After being refreshed in this room the guests passed on to the yellow room and received delicious Russia tea before ascending the stairs for something more substantial. This room was decorated with Marchal Neil roses and daffodils, and the tea was dispensed by Mrs. Charles Keefer, Miss Olive Latta and Miss Jeanette Underwood. Mrs. Keefer was attired in a yellow crepe gown, trimmed with black velvet. Miss Latta, yellow crepe and brocade satin, trimmed with jonquils, and Miss Underwood wore white swiss with yellow ribbon trimming. Passing out of this room and ascending the stairs, the guests entered the billiard room and were again surprised by the vision of beauty confronting them. This room was elaborately decorated in white and green. The billiard table was covered with a white cloth and draped around the sides with smilax. In the center and strewn around the table were beautiful clusters of La France roses. The lights in this room shed subdued rays through rich green shades, while carnations were also profusely used, being placed in green vases. White smilax was draped from the chandelier to the corners of the table. The mantel was trimmed with white and green, and pistachio cream bearing the letter "P" was served on white china with white cake and coffee. Mrs. C. F. Ladd had charge of the refreshments; she wore a white silk gown with chiffon trimmings and white roses. Miss Carnody and Miss Steen acted as assistants and proved to be very accomplished waitresses. They both looked very charming in white silk toilets.

There is a certain tolerably well defined rumor that there is to be a wedding in the younger set sometime about the middle of April. It is not understood that the wedding has been formally announced, but it is freely talked about, and there seems to be good reason for believing that it will take place. The young people are among the most prominent of the younger members of society, and there is a good deal of interest in the rumored match. When it is said on all sides that a gentleman is engaged, and when the gentleman receives congratulations on the reported engagement with becoming naivete and with no attempt at denial there is certainly good ground for supposing that the report is true. Therefore it would seem that Mr. W. F. Kelley, who has been such a success as a bachelor, is in a fair way to assume a new role. Mr. Kelley has everybody's best wishes. Fatality has recently followed the family of Mr. H. D. Hathaway in a most singular and distressing manner. Within two weeks of the death of the son comes the death of Mr. Hathaway's mother and Mrs. Hathaway's brother. Society young men are evincing a marked predilection for politics, and those who have entered the political field seem to be meeting with flattering success. An interesting announcement is that of the engagement of Miss Mianna Hawke and Mr. Charles Scovill. The Hawke family residence is at Nebraska City; but Miss Hawke has lately been living at Omaha with Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Rector. She is well known all over the state, especially in this city. Mr. Scovill resides in Chicago. The wedding is expected to occur in April. It is worth the price of admission, any time, to witness the procession of the striking young Omahans, to whom I referred last week, down the aisle in the Lansing theatre. He gives several exhibitions during the evening, and it's a splendid sight to see him mosey up and down the aisle in his dignity and fetching clothes.

CYNIC.

Mr. Pitcher's Reception.
The large reception given by Mrs.

Cora Pitcher last Friday evening in honor of her guest, Miss Eva Wilkinson, of Knightstown, Ind., was one of the most brilliant social gatherings of the season. The entire house was a vision of beauty, the decorations being of the most elaborate and tasty nature. The Irvine orchestra was stationed in the hall and furnished delightful music throughout the evening. Mrs. Pitcher was assisted in receiving by Miss Eva Wilkinson and Mrs. Lou K. Riggs. Mrs. Pitcher was attired in brocade silk and velvet, decollete, point lace, and carried a beautiful bunch of cream roses. Miss Wilkinson wore a strikingly beautiful gown of canary crepe silk with moire silk trimmings, lace decollete; she carried white carnations. Mrs. Riggs' gown was of heliotrope silk, black velvet trimmings and ribbon bertha; she carried Marchal Neil roses. Later in the evening as the guests began to thin out and the rooms became less crowded, the orchestra filled the house with dance music and the closing hours were devoted to Terpsichorean pleasures by some of the younger and more enthusiastic guests. The beautiful toilets worn by the ladies also added to the beauty of the scene, and the reception was one that reflected much credit upon the accomplished hostess and one that will be long remembered by those who were so fortunate as to be present. The invited guests: Messrs. and Mesdames Burnham, W. B. Hargreaves, A. M. Baird, W. W. Ensign, J. A. Kellogg, E. R. Sizer, C. W. Hoxie, R. J. Green, A. G. Beeson, A. B. Coffroth, E. P. Ewing, G. H. Banquet at the Lindell Hotel.
Dr. A. L. Hoover and son, of the Lindell hotel entertained the members of Lincoln council No. 7, Commercial Pilgrims, Saturday evening, serving a most sumptuous banquet. The program for the evening had been arranged with great care and the entertainment was a decided compliment to the traveling men, and testified eloquently of the graceful qualities of the hosts.

Guests were received in the parlors of the Lindell hotel at 10 o'clock by the following reception committee: Mrs. S. S. Whiting, Mrs. M. H. Van Horn, Mrs. Geo. Simon, Mrs. M. B. Pratt, Mrs. F. A. Wilson, Mrs. F. A. Bartholomew, Mrs. L. W. Garroute, Mr. A. V. Johnson, Mr. L. W. Pomeroy, Mr. G. T. Rexnell, Mr. F. C. Wilson, Mr. E. J. Cullen, Mr. T. R. French, Mr. Emer Elliott; assisted by Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Hoover, Mr. and Mrs. De Mott Smith. Music was furnished throughout the evening by Brown's orchestra.

The invocation at the banquet was asked by Rev. C. E. Cox. Mr. S. S. Whiting was toastmaster. Addresses were made as follows: "Relation of Traveling men to the City of Lincoln," Mr. R. M. Simons; Response, Mayor A. H. Weir; "Moral Standing of the Traveling Men and their Relation to Employers," Mr. H. M. Wright; Response, Mr. I. M. Raymond; "The Pilgrim Sisters," Mr. L. W. Garroute; Response Mrs. F. A. Wilson; "The Lindell Hotel and Its Proprietors," Mr. L. W. Snow. Mr. R. H. Rathburn acted as master of ceremonies.

A Pink Dinner.
A pretty dinner was given to a young woman in New York last week on the eve of her marriage. It was a pink dinner, and the heart-shaped table was covered with pink silk. In their dressing room, the men found pink cards, heart-shaped, and tied, two together, with pink ribbon; one bore a man's name, and the other heart the name of the lady to whose escort he was assigned. At the table the dinner cards were also pink and heart-shaped. Around the pink cloth went a vine of smilax, just inside the covers, with cut flowers strewn carelessly across the corners. The pink-shaded banquet lamp was wound with smilax, and a bunch of pink blooms was tied half way up its standard. The same blushing flowers made corsages at each lady's plate, and a single one offered its rosy sweetness at each man's corner.

In every napkin nested two hearts of bread, tied with pink ribbon, and the ices were served in pink heart-shaped boxes, on whose covers were fastened a single pink flower and a bit of smilax.

A clever toast to the bride that was to be offered by the host and drunk in champagne: "May her life be as this wine. Her joys, like the bubbles, numerous and rising from many sources. Her sorrows, also like the bubbles, dissipated at the surface, but essential in the composition to impart strength and character."

McDonald-Parker.
A beautiful marriage ceremony was solemnized in St. Paul's M. E. church Wednesday evening, uniting the lives and fortunes of Mr. George E. McDonald and Miss Almema Parker of this city. Rev. Dr. Luby officiated. The church was well filled with the friends of the contracting parties and while the guests were being seated a number of beautiful selections were rendered by Mrs. P. V. M. Raymond on the organ. Promptly at 8 o'clock the bride entered the church with her father, Mr. C. B. Parker. She was attired in a beautiful white satin wedding dress with a very long train and tulle veil. She made a very striking and handsome appearance. The groom was accompanied to the altar by his best man, Mr. C. D. Mullen. At the close of the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. McDonald, accompanied by the wedding party, repaired to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Parker, where they were tendered a reception. They will be at home to friends after March 20 at 1538 R street.

Olympic Whist Club.
The Olympic Whist club was pleasantly entertained last Friday evening at the residence of Miss Ada Chapman, corner of Fourteenth and T streets. Those present were: Miss Fannie Rector, Miss Grace Burr, Miss Helen Hoover, Miss Grace Ashton, Miss Emma Sherwood, Miss Josephine Lotteridge, Miss Jessie Leland, Miss Daisy Cochran, Miss Sadie Graham, Miss Flora Winger; Mr. George Johnson, Mr. Wilson Winger, Mr. Arthur Walsh, Mr. Park Garroutte, Mr. Harry Harley, Mr. Harry Evans, Mr. Harry Gruppe, Mr. Ross Curtice, Mr. Frank Kitchen and Mr. Roy Chapman.

Card Party.
Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Kennard entertained a company of friends at cards Monday evening. Among those present were: Mr. Thomas Kennard, Mrs. Riggs, Mrs. Pitcher, Miss Eva Wilkinson, Miss Minnie Gaylord, Mr. and Mrs. Keefer, Miss Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Davis, Mr. Bert Davis, Mr. Slaegel. Mrs. Riggs and Mr. Bert Davis carried off the honors of the evening, cut glass bottles of perfume.

A Hatchet Party.
A merry party of little people gathered at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Brace on Saturday last to assist their little daughter Louise in a joint celebration of Washington's birthday and her own. The fact that Washington is, or would be, something over 160 years of age and Louise only nine made no difference in the joyousness of the occasion. Mrs. Brace was assisted by Mrs. Ladd, Miss Wells, Miss Kingsley and Mrs. F. W. Brown. Games and a general good time were the order of the day. Then dainty refreshments were served, after which followed an exercise which revealed to the puzzled guests why Louise had hidden them to a hatchet party. On a white screen in the parlor was drawn in crayon, the traditional cherry tree with the cut which Washington made with his little hatchet. Each guest was presented with a souvenir hatchet made of pretty crepe paper and tied with ribbons and violets which, after being blindfolded, he was to pin as near as possible to the cut in the tree. Prizes were given to those who came the nearest, as well as to the two who were the farthest away from the goal. The girls' royal prize was won by Margie Lewis and the boys royal by Edwin Guthrie, while the consolation prizes were carried off by Maud Kelley and Ralph Radcliff. The invited guests were: Helen Wilson, Daisy Hargreaves, Gladys Hargreaves, Ruth Raymond, Margie Bell, Louise Burnham, Jessie Outcalt, Clare Funke, Ruth Bell, Edith Burlingim, Lillian Coates, Hazel Brown, Grace Powell, Maud Kelley, Grace French, Francelin French, Vera Laren, Bessie Bixby, Jessie Randolph, Urania Snell, Maggie Honeywell, Claire Cannon, Ella Siedles, Rachael Bayard, Dora Peters, Edna Green, Endora Loomis, Marion Ogden, Dorrance Harwood, Mary Searles, Ellen Osgood, Blanche Kelley, Vincent Coates, Edwin Guthrie, Joe Burnham, Arthur Raymond, Willie Sizer, Wray Lindley, Richard Outcalt, Wells Lippincott, Henry Lippincott, Jamie Harpham, Arlo Simon, Willie Snell, Ralph Radcliff, Paul Humphrey, Hallie Allen, Hyde Clark.

Pleasantly Surprised.
Mrs. William Hopkins was given a pleasant surprise Wednesday evening, the occasion being her thirty-second birthday. The party was planned and successfully carried out by her little daughter Pearl. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Barth, Dr. and Mrs. G. M. Smith, Mrs. Bartholomew, Miss Emma Suter, Mr. Bowers, Miss Mamie Bowers, Miss Emily Bowers, Miss Mamie Beck.
