 ment should be addressed.

Drink says an exchange, weakens the system. Yes, but think how it strengthens the breath.

Women have now the right to vote in municipal elections in Scotland, and their influence is already felt in the movement for the introduction of temperance literature into the common schools.

A list of the township drunkards has been issued by the authorities of St. Marie-aux-Mines in Haute-Alsace; and saloon keepers are forbidden to sell intoxicating liquors to any one named on the list.

The Law and Order society of Philadelphia, which charges itself with the duty of seeing that the laws against the selling of liquor on Sunday are enforced, has started the publication of a little sheet called the Law and Order Advocate.

It will not surprise those who are familiar with the saintly character of the very Rev. Charles John El-licott, Bishop of Gloucester and Prist-ool, whose books of New Testament exegesis are known and valued over the whole civilized world, to learn that he is one of the seven total abstainers among the prelates of the Church of England.

At a conference of liquor dealers of the North-west recently held in Rock Island, Ill., the speakers with rare unanimity, acknowledged that prohibition had made the outlook for the liquor business in the North-west, rather gloomy; and the best of it was that when they came to canvass the outlook in the South and East they had to admit that that was gloomy too.

With great pleasure we have read an article in "The Church Guardian" of Oct. 10th, entitled "Temperance in its relations to the Church" by Rev.
 Dean Millsbaugh, of Omaha. The paper was read at the joint convocation of Episcopal ministers held in Lincoln in October. It is timely and instructive and will amply repay perusal.

Here is the indictment which the Inter-Ocean writes upon the moral

THE ASSASSINS CAPTURED.

The Muden Murderers Dead and Im- prisoned.

From Sunday's State Journal.

The arrival of the Atchison train at the penitentiary shortly before noon yesterday closed the third act of one of the most terrible tragedies ever enacted in this section of the western country. With the details of the first act of this tragedy our readers are familiar. Four reckless cowboys, in possession of a drove of ponies stolen in northern Kansas, were traced to Kearney county, Nebraska, where Sheriff Woods, of Hitchcock county, attempted to arrest two of them while eating supper at the hotel in Minden. The order to hold up their hands was almost instantly followed by a shot from the revolver of Dick Belmont, the leader of the gang, which reached a fatal spot in the body of the brave sheriff. The cowboys jumped to their feet, killed another man sitting at the supper table, and after firing a cowardly shot into the body of the dying sheriff, rushed out, shooting recklessly at everyone in sight. A third man was thus killed and a fourth wounded. After some difficulty they secured a couple of ponies and fled southward. Two of the confederates had left for Hastings before the shooting occurred and were there arrested.

The murderers passed rapidly south and west through Phelps and Furnas counties and into Kansas. A posse of men, under the Adjutant General of the state, was soon in pursuit, but the outlaws, by stealing fresh horses and making their way through a country in which they were personally familiar succeeded in distancing their pursuers.

It then seemed that the law was powerless to vindicate itself. It seemed that the

RED-HANDED RUFFIANS had reached a section of the country where they could defy pursuit and capture. An outraged people saw themselves powerless to inflict the vengeance which the crime deserved.
 But justice was not thus to be baffled.
 Nemesis chose her own instruments, and following her victims with tireless hate, inflicted the just penalty of broken law. Individual interests accomplished what the organized powers of two states had found themselves unable to perform.

Passing the northeast corner of Trego county the fugitives stole two fresh horses from the ranch of Mr. Charles Fouts, of Wa Keeny. This act was doubtless necessary, but it sealed their fate.

use, can be restored to its origination by adding the water which is said that neither salt nor any extraneous matter is employed during desiccation, the egg merely reduced to a consolidated of yolk and albumen by the removal of the water. An excellent feature of this process is that an egg that is all tainted, be it ever so slightly, can not be crystallized at all. The preparation of eggs in this way is still very limited; the chief companies engaged in the business are in Chicago and St.
 Louis.

Passing Comments.

Eleven sophomores have been sent home from Lafayette college for hazarding freshmen. This is pretty rough on their parents—Boston Post.

The Czar has become so courageous and self-confident during the past months that he now goes to a tailoring establishment instead of a hatter's shop when he wants to get measured for a new suit of clothes.—Norristown Herald.

In all the boarding houses where there is not much else for dinner, it should not be considered impolite to send twice for soup. A boy grows fat on enough of what he wants, but style will starve a cat.—N. Orleans Picayune.

Nine out of ten of brands of stomach bitters sold in Maine have been found to contain whiskey. Those who have used them would never have suspected such a thing if the chemist's had not been mean enough to give it away.— Philadelphia Kronicle-Herald.

Next summer Jay Gould will make a bridal trip around the world. He will stop off at Laramie and pick up a hot spike at the rolling mill, and then he will put it down and ask General Nock if the hen that laid those spikes wasn't a little feverish.—Laramie Boomerang.

Some one has discovered that smoking cigarettes has a most injurious effect on the moustache. Young ladies who are addicted to the habit may be come alarmed and discontinue the practice when informed of this fact, but we doubt it.—Norristown Herald.
