LOCAL NEWS.

The mud deepens.

The post office windows tell the wayfarer its place.

For a game of billiards call at the Palace hall.

Dr. Meade is now settled and located in physician's row.

Insurance men have done an increased business since the fire.

Wescott's room in the Rockwood block is nearly ready for occupancy.

Work has already commenced on the new buildings.

Skating rink in Fitzgerald's block basement. New skates and more fun.

Sherwood will occupy the new room in Rockwood block with C. E. Wescott.

The ice in the Missouri still remains intact and waiting for the floods.

The German theater in Liederkrana hall Sunday evening was largely attended

Dr. Clutter has secured a room in Fitzgerald block where he will open his dental office.

The prospects for the spring trade are good, the merchants will be ready to meet it, and all will be happy.

The large panes of glass in Warrick's drug store, that were broken during the recent fire, have been replaced with new ones.

A number of the young people were plesantly entertained by Will Kline and sister at their residence last Friday evening.

The mud, the mud, the muddy mud, the muddiest kind of muddy mud; such muddy mud mixed up with mud, makes muddy mud much muddier mud.

The HERALD returns thanks to the mayor who has had a temporary walk laid on Fifth street, which lifts our feet from the mire and connects us with the world at large

Let us have a city government this year that will widen the sidewalks on Main street and put in good gutters, sufficient to carry off the water, this is due to our business men.

Jno. D. Simpson, our ubiquitous fleet footed expressman and accomodating business man is safely ensconced in Johnson Bros. hardware store with his express office.

A certain young man in the city accidentially got his coat tail caught in Mathew's store door yesterday, and it cost him 22 cigars to get loose. Willets smoke and say no more about it.

Mr. Ezra Sampson, residing on the old Eikenbary homestead south of town, pronounces the doom of the peach crop for 1883. He says after a careful examination he finds the peaches are all killed by the hard winter which, by the way, is not over yet.

The necessary preleminaries for reducing six hearts to three were arranged last Saturday by Judge Johnson; he having issued marriage licenses to Joseph D. Skiler and Clarissa A. Crimer; Joseph Wildi and Christine Muoth, and Charles A. Harvey and Josephine Morgan.

It is but a small token of respect to the presence of ladies at a public assembly, for the men and boys to remove their hats; yet it was demonstrated at the Opera House last Thursday night that there are those who either have no such respect or are inclined to disregard it. It requires no work and costs nothing and its cheapness recommends it.

Some of the superfluous dirt upon the bluff on which Mr. Blake's residence stands is being chipped off, which will avoid any more obstructions on the sidewalk in that vicinity, caused by large chunks breaking loose and tumbling down, of their own accord.

The historic hog and festive bovine, either have no fear of the city officers, or are not well informed in regard to the city ordinances, which is evidenced by the persistency with which they roam, unprotected, through the business portion of the city. Who belongs to them, and why is this thusly?

One of the HERALD force is indebted to Mr. Simon D. Mayer for a remembrance in the shape of a wedding invitation, which wedding occurs in New York city the coming month, the high contracting parties being Mr. Mayer and Miss Rachael Hess, of that city. The HERALD desires to thus early proffer congratulations to Mr. Mayer who stands in such an auspicious position.

In last week's HERALD there was an omission in the testimonial in Dr. Fishblatt's ad., signed by Alex McIntosh. It is not our Alex McIntosh who has been so miraculously snatched from the grave, but another man possessed of the same name, who resides at Schuyler, who is stil a living fact of the truth of his statement.

Rev E. Powell, state missionary of the Unitarians, was in the city over Sunday preaching morning and evening in Rockwood hall. On account of the insufficent notice the attendance was very small but all who were present speak in the highest terms of both discusses.

The DAILY HERALD starts out under very favorable auspices, and with a circulation which is very gratifying to the company. The HERALD is very gratified to receive so many words of encouragement from citizens and business men and will try and prove itself worthy the warm place the citizens seem so willing to accord it among themselves,

A good one is told on one of the boys in the B. & M. store house. One day last week general manager Potter dropped in to take a look at things, and after seeing all he wanted to down stairs, started for the second story. "Hold on," said the employe ... Dawson don't allow ...

Our Own Uncle Sam.

Uncle Sam Barker, the father of seventeen children, all alive and well, observed the item in regard to the parents of fourteen children in yesterday's Journal, and straightway left his Cass county farm to come up and get acquainted with the father and mother of the fourteen children, now in Lincoln, Uncle Sam interviewed the family yesterday, and says the sight of those fourteen children brought tears to his eyes.—State Journal.

Spring Building.

The spring months promise much to Plattsmouth in the way of business houses. They will bring with them the completion of Mr. Sherwood's brick building and business house on the corner of Main and Fifth. The removal of the old frame hotel in block 29 on Main St. by Mr. S. S. Billings, and the erection in its place of a substantial brick block; also the erection of a brick block upon the burnt district, in block 34, by Messrs. Sherwood and O'Neil and Mrs. White. These are only a portion of the projected improvements on Main street.

It was a pitiable sight upon the night of the performance of the "Merry War," to witness one young man, alone, piloting seven young ladies through the mud and small boys to the Opera House. They were "way up" young ladies, too, and occupied way up seats. It was as good as a circus to watch the boys of "our crowd," as they sauntered in by themselves and sought seats in the dress circle, and casually glanced up into the gallery—the girls were all there—"seven up" and the girls held the top hand. Boys, boys, "perhaps you shouldn't have been there."

Dr. Fishblatt wishes us to publish the following testimonial from the Schuyler Alex McIntosh, who is the genuine one who was cured of bodily ailment instead of our own Alex McIntosh as many supposed:

SCHUYLER, NEBRASKA, Feb. 7, 1883

My Dear Dr. Fishblatt:—now you a debt of gratitude which I will never be able to repay for the scientific skill you have displayed in curing me. I have for a long time been considered a hopeless consumptive, and everybody, including myself, considered my days numbered. My good fortune led me to apply to you for treatment last November and in the incredible short time you have effected what numerous other doctors have failed to do a complete resignation. I have since gained fifteen pounds and consider myself now thoroughly cured. You are at liberty to use this as a reference for others similarly afflicted.

Yours gratefully, ALEX. McINTOSH.

At last Plattsmouth is to have a pork packing establishment, a firm of energetic capitalists here having embarked in the pork business. The gentlemen who have made the final effort and who are deserving the thanks of this community, need no introduction to the public. They are young men but possessed with the energy to make their efforts an entire success. The firm consists of W. C. Showalter, Fred Black and W. C. Cushing, and the facts that led them to embark in this business are as follows: Saturday night Jim Antill had a raffle to dispose of a watch and three pigs Thirty-six numbered tickets were sold at one dollar each, and the above three drew the pigs; and are ready for business. It is rumored that Fred Black insisted on starting a stock farm, but the other two voted him down and we will have a packing house; this is as as it should be, and we have only one reccomendation to add and that is that the man who won the watch be employed as time-keeper in the new pork house.

Last Saturday a well known Cedar Creek J. P. was in the city preparing himself for the performance of a duty heart-rending in its nature, solemn to witness, and of the greatest moment to those immediately concerned therein. He came not alone but was accompanied by friends of those parties whose deep interest in them was magifested by the extravagance displayed in the selection of their tokens and also the character of them.

The event transpired yesterday, a day propitious in every respect. The scene can better be imagined than described. Imagine Judge Jim Smalley wrapped in all the dignity of his official position, calmly pronouncing the words that join two hearts and two fortunes into one. The fluid extract of hops and barley had not been forgotten, and after the transfiguration all hands joined in the melee, the flowing bowl taking a prominent part.

So far as heard from, all hands, at this writing, are doing well

The entertainment of the season thus far, was the production of the "Merry War," last Thursday evening, by Haverly's English Opera Co. The audience, while not so large as might have been desired, was an appreciative one, as was proven by the repeated encores, which, each time, were responded to. The parts were all well taken and admirably carried out. Miss Dora Wiley, as Violetta, fully sustained the reputation the lady has gained as a prima donna. Richard Golden as the Marquis, had a good conception of the part, and has his singing been as good as his acting, the character would have been complete. Artemesia as represented by Pauline Hall was all that it could be. Little Miss Richardson as Elsa, the wife of the tulip planter, even surpassed herself, in the manner other singing and acting. Bathassar, the tulip planter, himself was faithfully represented by J. Sturgis, who notwithstanding the loss of his wife and bulbs," entered into the spirit of the scheme, and acquitted himself in fine style. The choruses were all evidences of skill and training, and the appearance of so many charming ladies and elegant costumes added materially to the success of the play.

The orchestra was an exceptionally good one. Should the English Opera Company again appear in Plattsmouth they will be greated with a house they so well deserve, even though the price of admission exceeds that ordinarily charged.

Louisville is fast putting on metropolitan airs; on last Thursday night they had two dances, a minstrel show and a dog fight, so report says, which is certainly lively showing up for the rail ... ize up the Farce.

The Stage Bald Head.

Laramie Boomerang.

Most everyone who was not born blind knows that the stage bald head is a delusion and a snare. The only all-wool, yard-wide bald head we remember on the American stage is that of Dunston Kirke as worn by the veteran Couldock. Effie Elisler wears her own hair and so does Couldock, but Couldock wears his the most. It is the most worn, anyhow,

What we started out to say is that the stage bald head and whiskers make us weary with life. The stage bald head is generally made of the internal economy of a cow, dried so that it shines, and cut to fit the head as tightly as a potato sack would naturally fit a billiard cue. It is generally about four shades whiter than the red face of the wearer, or vice versa. We do not know which is the worst violation of eternal fitness, the red haired man who wears a deathly white bald, or the pale young man who wears a florid roof on his intellect. Sometimes in starring through the country and playing to ten or fifteen hundred engagements a bald head gets soiled. We notice that when a show gets to Laramie the chances are that the bald head of the leading old man is so soiled that he really needs a sheep-dip shampoo. Another feature of this accessory of the stage is its singular failure to fit. It is either a little soft at both ends, or it hangs over the skull in large festoons and wens and warts in such a way as to make the audience believe that the wearer has dropsy of the brain.

You can never get a stage bald head near enough like nature to fool the average house-fly. A fly knows in a moment whether it is the genuine or only a base imitation, and the bald-head of the theatre fills him with nausea and disgust. Nature at all times hard to imitate, preserves her bald-head as she does her sunny skies and deep blue seas, far beyond the reach of the weak, fallible human imitator.

Baldness is like fame, it cannot be purchased. It must be acquired. Some men may be born bald, some may acquire baldness, and others may have baldness thrust upon them, but they generally acquire it.

The stage beard is rather dizzy as a rule. It looks as much like a beard that grew there as a cow's tail would if tied to the bronze dog on the front porch. When you tie a heavy black beard on a young actor whose whole soul would be churned up if he smoked a full-fledged cigar, he looks about as savage as a bowl of mush and milk struck with a club.

The Nebraska State Journal makes note of the fact that in the progress of the trail of the accused conspirators and assassins of Cavendish and Burke, at Dublin, it is shown that the prisoners in the dock are not a whit behind Guiteau in their interruption of the proceedings and the boldness of their retorts to the counsel and witnesses. What the great London newspapers than were so horrified at the shameful "scenes" at the Guiteau trial are going to do about it, does not yet appear. Perhaps they will insist upon the impeachment of the judge who "cannot keep order or command decent respect from the defendants."—[C. B. Nonparel.

Burnt Out, but not Burned Up.

As soon as I can procure a new outfit I will resume business, and will be glad to see all my friends and patrons that require any dental work. I also would urge upon those that owe me anything that now is a most excellent and suitable time to "walk up to the Captain's office and settle." My headquarters are almost anywhere on Main street at present.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE

...ost valuable horse remedy ever discovered ...ich is certain to be effective and does not blister. Is an excellent liniment for human flesh. READ PROOF BELOW.
FROM COL. L. T. FOSTER
Youngstown, Ohio, May 16th, 1880.
B. J. Kendall & Co., Gents:—I had a very valuable ... which I prized very highly, so I got a large bone spavin in one joint and a small one on the other, which made the horse very lame. I had used most of the advertised remedies without success when I called to see him. I was about awarding the advertisement to Kendall's Spavin Cure in the Chicago Express, I concluded at once to try it, and after directing a few days for it, they ordered three bottles, I must confess I had thought I would give it a chance, but I candidly confess I had little faith in it, but the horse was so far from lame and so much was done for me in the state, I concluded that I had two of my neighbors have the remaining two bottles who are now using it.
Very Respectfully,
L. T. FOSTER.
Kendall's Spavin Cure
ON HUMAN FLESH.
Fulton's Mills, N. Y., Feb. 21, 1878.
B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—The particular cure on which I used your Kendall's Spavin Cure was a member of my family of sixteen months standing. I had tried many things, but in vain. Your circular drew me the first to the ground within and for the first three days hurt, in a rational position. For a family liniment it exceeds anything we ever used.
Yours truly,
