

Washington to represent the people, by exactly the same men, who now count him out and count in his rival, Gen. Manning.

Ballot boxes in this Mississippi district have been blown up, burned up and ravished, in every conceivable way, to enthrone democracy in power; but let it be shown that the republican national committee have invested a little wealth down there to enable a man of nerve, like Gen. Chalmers, to hire a band and make a canvass among the colored population, and at once the heightened sensibilities of the democracy are shocked and outraged. The HERALD cares nothing for statesmen of the calibre of Chalmers, it is the welfare of the Mannings we are concerned about.

The interview we published Monday from the Des Moines Register, in which Mr. G. F. Woolston, the manager of the Diagonal road, states clearly the intentions of the parties building the same, i. e., to build south-west from Des Moines through this section of country; one other fact is also established by this interview, and that is, that as yet, no definite route has been agreed upon from Des Moines south-west, but that its final location will depend altogether upon the encouragement the road receives from the people and communities through which its line will pass.

Council Bluffs, as will be remembered by our readers by reading the proceedings of a public meeting of her prominent business men, published in the HERALD a couple of days ago, has already taken steps to bring the Diagonal to that city; and it is high time our people would have some expression of public opinion and resort to some concert of action in regard to the matter. The HERALD has endeavored to do its duty, by calling the attention of the public to the Diagonal in time for our people to secure its presence here among us, if they so will it; there is no reason why the towns on the line of this proposed road south-west from Plattsmouth, should not wake up and take hold of this enterprise; concert of action, gentlemen, is what boosts along great enterprises like this one.

Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly.
The April number is already out filled with delightful reading and elegant embellishments. The chromo presented with it, "A Basket of Flowers," is a gem. "The Architectural Progress of New York City," the opening article, has twelve illustrations of prominent new public and private buildings. "The Descent of the British Crown," by A. H. Guernsey; "Edinburgh," by Noel Ruthven; "Leon Gambetta," "Ancient Laborers and Princes of Grand China and New Granada," etc., etc., are exceedingly interesting and profusely illustrated. The serial, "The Beautiful Countess of Clairville," is continued, and there are admirable short stories, sketches, adventures, etc., by popular writers. Geo. Meredith, Geo. Weatherly, etc., contribute some excellent poems, and the miscellaneous articles, paragraphs, etc., are interspersed with entertainment and information. There are 128 pages quarto, and embellishments in each number. The price of the magazine is $3. a year, and it is sold by Mrs. Frank Leslie, 37 Park Place, New York.

The late interview, the London night's ill health, and hope the returning spring may "again restore the roses of health upon her cheek."

This is right, the democratic party tackle this question in congress, where its record cannot be disputed after it is made. It does very well to play free trade for a decoy during a popular campaign, where the degree of the doctrine advocated can be adjusted to suit the climate and condition of the natives; but when it comes down to the square test of attempting to make a national issue against the protection of American industries from abroad, we imagine we can see the little row that will be kicked up in the democratic Sanhedrim, when the free trade wing of that party attempt to place such a plank in their national platform for 1884.

Mr. Randall, and democrats of his stamp, who have attempted to learn something by studying the causes of the people's distrust for the democratic party, see very plainly that the further agitation of this tariff question at the present time, will be both impolitic and unwise; that the commercial interests of the country require and will demand rest and quiet. A revision of the tariff has just been had, over the effects of which, there is such a diversity of opinion, that its practical workings will have to be tested, before the public will be willing to set it aside. These gentlemen represent a section of the American Union, whose material interest they dare not disregard, and any political party which requires a sacrifice of those interests at the hands of its followers, is bound to fail.

The MILLER has published a news paper in Nebraska for many years, and has done and said many mean things which he has afterwards modified and corrected, and while we have no particular interest in the fight now waging within the ranks of his party in Omaha, we think the fellows who attempt to put down the Herald or banish the Doctor from the councils of the democratic party in this state, have an all summer's job on their hands.

Reviewing politics, everybody who has lived in Nebraska long enough to become dry behind the ears and who can and has read the newspapers of the state, must admit that the Omaha Herald has been a champion of Nebraska interests, and one of the foremost agencies this side the big Muddy, in giving our young commonwealth a healthy respectable reputation abroad. We should regret to see any calamity happen to either the veteran editor of the Omaha Herald or to that great journal itself. That's the kind of a republican we are.

We notice Omaha is being overrun with thieves and burglars to such an extent that her citizens are beginning to talk about organizing a vigilance committee. If her law and order citizens will do their duty and come to the front in municipal affairs and see that the right kind of a city government is elected at the coming election one which will have regard enough for their own reputations, and respect enough for their neighbor's property, to organize and maintain the right kind of a police force these sand-baggers will very soon disappear, otherwise your city government is as good as you deserve.

Mr. Jno. A. MacMURPHY is home once more from his few weeks hard work on the Omaha Republican whose editorial page he furnished up in good style during Mr. Nye's absence. We regret to learn of Mrs. MacMURPHY's ill health, and hope the returning spring may "again restore the roses of health upon her cheek."

THE REFORM SCHOOL

Location of the New Building—The Management—Miscellaneous Notes.

Hon. E. P. Roggen, secretary of State, returned Friday from Kearney where the board of public lands and buildings went to inspect the reform school and select a site for the new building. The other members of the board, Attorney General Powers, Treasurer Starvedout and Mr. Kendall, president of the board, went from Kearney to their homes at Dakota City, Geneva, and St. Paul respectively.

The site selected for the new building is within 150 feet of that of the building occupied at present. The present building will be converted into work shops, for the training of the inmates of the school.

Mr. Roggen says that there are not nearly sufficient accommodations at present to satisfy the demands for admission for children. He does not doubt that if there were sufficient accommodations there would be 100 inmates within three months. He believes that this will become a very important and useful institution and will have five hundred inmates within the next five years. The board design putting up a barn at once, an appropriation having been made for that purpose, and this can be utilized for a time for sleeping apartments. The board will advertise on the first of June for plans, and on the first of July for bids under the plans.

The board were well pleased with the management of the institution. There are thirty boys and eleven girls in the school, and the discipline among the inmates is said to be wonderful. They are trained like soldiers, and they are controlled in their movements by a simple movement of the hand of the superintendent.

The superintendent believes in moral suasion, and does not administer corporal punishment of any kind. There are certain privileges which the inmates have and they forfeit these by an infraction of these rules. This is generally all the punishment that is required. A citizen of Brownville took his son to the school some time ago, and he assured Dr. Collins that no moral suasion would have any effect upon the boy, that he would have to whip him. The doctor said that he would do nothing of the kind, and has been as good as his word. The boy is obedient and trustworthy, and is frequently sent up town with sums of money to make purchases. In no case has he failed

Bill Case and his lady made a brief call at our place of business one day last week.

Dee Shrader's horse got loose from him Sunday night some where over north, he wouldn't tell where, but we guesse! He was around early before sunrise Monday morning looking for him, and just in time to get this item in this week's HERALD.

We heard the remark made some time ago by a friend, that it would be an excellent idea for some fellow to hunt up and find out who "Big Sis" is, with a view to matrimony, especially such cold winters as the present has been. We wouldn't care very much if the fellow was a nice, genteel young man, who owned a good farm, and a nice buggy to ride around in, and keeps his hair parted in the middle, with his boots and moustache blacked up every Sunday, and his sideburns shaved off close, who don't drink (they would be hard to find though around Three Groves,) nor chew tobacco; such ones might have a slight chance; old bachelors had better keep at a safe distance if they don't want a nice job of sewing buttons on their coats and trousers. But winter has passed and warm weather is coming and Big Sis will have to be summered over until next winter.

The HERALD made a mistake last week in printing the names of church trustees, where it read John Allen, it should have read Johnny Allison.

LEGAL NOTICES.
