DOES 'TRUCK FARMING" PAY!

New York Gardener Says About It-Rates of Rent. Finding the farmer willing to talk, the re-

"For the amount of capital invested," was the reply, "it pays well, even better than most people suppose. We can raise vege-tables and salads at all seasons of the year and receive cash when we market our truck, To do tiptop a garden ought to contain frem five to eight acres, but a neighbor of mine cleared $1,000 last year off of two acres, a third of which is covered with glass. By glass I mean hot beds. This is the best paying part of the work, as it is by the use of hot beds that we are enabled to work the year round. About 100 glass frames, 3x6 feet in size, can be placed on a city tot, with plenty of space to pass between the rows. There are sixteen city lots on an acre. The space under a single frame can be worked so as to pay a profit of $3 clear of all expense of rent, labor and marketing. Figure this up and you will see how easily my neighbor men would be help enough to care for an acre of glass properly. "Oh, yes," he continued, "there is some stuff that we have considerable trouble in raising. For instance, we haven't been able to get good spinach in several years. This is owing to the fact that since the cows were driven out of the city we have had to depend on horse manure for fertilizing purposes, which we obtain in large quantities from the breweries. This is excellent on wet land and for forcing plants in hotbeds, but it is too coarse and dry for general field use. Worked over for a couple of years into a compost it is nearly as good as cow manure. The latter we consider the best natural fertilizer we can usa, and prefer it even to guano, which is largely adulterated. It is stronger, and retains its strength the longest, keeping the soil

stant labor, especially in the winter, when we have to cover up our beds with mats of bay to protect the plants from frost. But three moist and cool. "Rent? Rent is all the way from nothing up to $5 per city lot for a year. This makes $80 an acre, about ten times what ordinary farms rent for. After the owner gives notice that he wants his land for building purposes we pay no rent; then he can take possession in thirty days. If we paid he would have to wait a year. That gardener across the way has paid no rent for two years.

Another gardener said he had worked his ten acro farm for twenty-eight years, but did not expect to stay on the place more than five years longer, there was so much building going on. He believed he would live to see the time when the gardeners would be driven entirely out of the city .- New York Sun.

Raising Popples in Florida.

We take pleasure in welcoming to the river Dr. W. W. Winthrop, of St. Paul, Minn. This gentleman has traveled widely, and is a keen observer of what he met with in his travels. His primary object in coming to this state is to encourage the growth of the poppy and the manufacture of opium. His experience in this branch of production is of cessfully in the East Indies, Persia, Germany, France and in the Levant, while on the American continent he has experimented in Massachusetts, New York, Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Dakota and Florida, The plant grows everywhere, but best of all in Florida, producing larger hulbs and capsules. The difficulty hitherto of producing opium in the United States successfully has been the high wages paid to labor. Dr. Winthrop has invented a plan, however, by which opium can be produced here better and cheaper than in India, where the average wages are ten cents per day, and the cultivation is so perfect by this method that sixteen plants can be made to produce a pound of opium. The gentleman assures us that at the present price of the drug a net revenue of $1,000 per acre is an exceedingly moderate estimate. Every orange grove can be laid out between the trees with this plant, and the demand for the same at good prices is illimitable. An English syndicate of capitalists is going into the cultivation of the poppy largely on the Indian river, and Dr. Winthrop is prospecting and perfecting the arrangements of the company. The poppy will grow and ripen every month in the year, and thus, doubtless, another large source of wealth will shortly be added to Indian river.—Titusville ton Irving Bishop, the mind reader, have re-called attention to the fact that Rev. James M. Bishop, of Green township, has a well established reputation for his ability to locate hidden streams of water, and in his early life was many times called upon to tell his less highly endowed neighbors where wells should be dug. It is said that he never failed to give the proper location and to tell how many feet of earth and how many of stone it would be necessary to dig through. Rev. James M. Bishop is of the same family as the great mind reader, all the Bishops on this continent being descended from one branch of the family. The Bishop family was originally from the German states of Europe. Then a portion of the family emigrated to France, where they received the name of L'Eveque. Going thence to England it was changed to Levick. The branch which settled in the United States retained the name Bishop .-Chambersburg Valley Spirit.

Municipal Police of Paris. The cost of the municipal police of Paris, exclusive of the commissaires and the sedentary service, is over $4,500,000 a year, the material expenses figuring up for about $2,506,000, and salaries $2,128,000. The chief inspectors are paid $1,200 a year, the captains about $700, the brigadiers $360 a year and the 6,800 ordinary policemen receive an average of $262, or 1,310 fra. ce a

DEATH OF "TULE DAD."

A Remarkable Character Well Known to

Old Californians. Old "Tule Dad," a ramarkable old mounporter put the question: "Does truck farming tain man, who early made a name among the hunters and Indian fighters of the Sierras, crossed over to the golden shore about ten days ago at Jess valley, Modoe county, Cal. He had reached the great age of 103 years, and died at last with mind unimpaired and vigorous as when he had but just passed his half century mark. "Tule Dad" was born somewhere in Missouri at the time St. Louis was the headquarters of several big fur trading companies. It was by enlisting as a hunter with one of these that he found his way through the Rockies and eventually across the Sierras to California.

"Tule Dad" is remembered by a number of old Californians who are new in the Comstock. They looked upon him as being a wonderful old man in the "days of '49," when gold was first discovered. He was a man who preferred hunting and Indian fighting to gold digging.

A story is told of him which will bear recould have made his $4,000. It requires conpeating. In the early days some men who were camped on the banks of the Sacramento river, above Marysville, on the Fourth of July, concluded to celebrate the day. They began firing guns and pistols, and for an hour or two kept up a lively fusillade. Presently their attention was attracted to half a dozen black objects bobbing up and down on the waters of the river. As these objects drew nearer they were seen to be men swimming across the stream, with their clothing and guns on their heads. As soon as the swimmers got within hearing distance of the party on the shore, the leader of them sang out; "Whar's the war?"

That was old Tule Dad. He was then 66 years of age, and was able to outswim even the youngest of his companions, especially when he thought there was a chance for a bout with the reds. Such fights he looked upon as regular, legitimate "war."

He and a party of Missouri friends had, it seems, been duck hunting on the opposite shore among the tules, and, hearing the firing, imagined that an Indian fight was going on. They therefore swam the river in order to take a hand in the fun.

The man's right name was Samuel K. Matney. He never married, and the reason he gave for it was that he could not "split an armful of oven wood in half a minute." He said that the women always sang out that they "wanted an armful of wood in just half a minute." Half a minute, he said, was too short a time for him. The old man was conscious to the last, and was aware that his end was approaching. A few hours before his death he talked with those about him; he told that his race was nearly ended, but said that he was ready to go, and remarked: "I haven't been a very bad man. I never did anything worse than kill Indians, and I don't believe that will be held against me, I had to do it," The fact is that the old follow had really no compunction in regard to shooting Indians. He got over that when a trapper, and finally thought that in wiping the heathen off the face of the earth he was doing God a service,-Red Bluff (Cal.) Cause.

The Hotel Type Writer Girl.

is not what it is cracked up to be by any means, that is, if the operator is a young and good looking girl. I don't suppose that homely old maids find it such a bad occupation, though; but young ladies, that is if they are pretty, are annoyed to death. She is stared at, grinned at and talked to so much that after she has been in the business a few weeks she comes to the conclusion that the life of a domestic in a private family is much more preferable than writing love letters for bald heads and dudes. The worst crowd she has to deal with are these dashing young drummers, who are always on the mash and think that everybody else is. They will come to you and open a conversation on the pretense of wanting to write a letter to their firm. Then they will sit down and dictate a lot of nonsense, which we are compelled to write so long as they pay us for our time. We have to treat them civilly, although we know that they really do not require our services, or they will make a complaint. No, the life of a type writer girl is not as pleasant as it might be, but I suppose that there are other occupations that are equally as disagreeable.-Globe-Democrat.

International Cremation Congress. It is intended to hold an international congress on cremation in September of the present year. The place selected for this gathering of the savants of various countries who are interested in cremation and cemetery hygiene is Milan. French will be the official language of the congress; but the speakers may, if they like, make use of any other language. Reports will be submitted as to progress made in the practice of cremation in different countries, and the formation of an international league will be proposed. An exhibition of models of crematories, urns and other objects connected with the campaign now being conducted against the present methods of disposing of the dead will be open during the congress. - Chicago Herald.

Over a Precipice.

Near Mabel, Cal., one day, an Indian woman was killed by falling over a precipice 100 feet high. She was found at the bottom of the canyon crushed to a pulp,-Chicago Times,
