THE movement to secure the democratic presidential nomination for Hon. A. S. Hewitt will not alarm Mr. Cleveland. So far as regards ability and fitness, Hewitt is immeasurably the superior.

the democratic press has had the effect simply of lessening the circulation and influence of the journals referred to without detracting from the popularity of the president with his party.

Work for Republicans to Do.

To citizens whose politics represent their principles, the success of their party is next to the success of their private business and the prosperity of their city or community.

It is surprising what a large number of dwelling houses are now being erected in the different parts of the city, more than one hundred have just been completed or are in course of erection...

Free Trade.

Last Friday's Journal came out with a full column on free-trade, bewailing the condition of our farmers and wage workers. It says: "A tariff is a tax, is levied as such with such an intent and purpose."

An incident happened in the Grand Army parade in Omaha on last Wednesday that is worthy of print. The procession was marching past the Paxton hotel on Farnam street, the balconies of which were decorated with flags and bunting...

If the editor of the Journal had taken the trouble to weigh his sentences before he gave the copy to the printer, he never would have allowed it to go in print. For he must acknowledge that the wages of operators in factories are very much greater now than they were in 1860...

License vs Prohibition.

Last week there were two great fairs where tens of thousands of people attended. One at Omaha, the other at Des Moines, Iowa. The managers of the Omaha fair for the purpose of making money, permitted the sale of beer and other liquors.

The annual gathering together of the people, and the exhibition of the products of the country, and latest inventions and improvements is a great means of increasing knowledge and helping the masses to early learn how to use to their comfort and convenience the newest and best things. How wise it would be to eliminate from them the cause of disturbance, crimes and scenes of disgrace.

Much attention has been drawn to the Chinese concessions to an American syndicate by the arrival at Washington of a special Chinese envoy accompanied by representatives of the syndicate. It is stated, however, that a number of important concessions have been formerly ratified by the Chinese government...

It is understood that the details of the organization as well as plans for the inception of active operations will at once be agreed upon between the special envoy and the American syndicate. It is, however, no more than proper to remark that some very unfavorable comments have been aroused in regard to the transaction...

Last Friday's Journal came out with a full column on free-trade, bewailing the condition of our farmers and wage workers. It says: "A tariff is a tax, is levied as such with such an intent and purpose."

Take up a free trade journal almost any day and statements of this kind may be noticed. It is probable that they have some influence, too, among the thoughtless or those who are prevented either by lack of time or lack of the requisite rudimentary knowledge to examine the question for themselves.

If the editor of the Journal had taken the trouble to weigh his sentences before he gave the copy to the printer, he never would have allowed it to go in print. For he must acknowledge that the wages of operators in factories are very much greater now than they were in 1860...

Mr. Sherman goes on and says: "No matter who advocates it, it is wrong—basely, inexcusably wrong, and should be at once and forever wiped from the statute book."

So long as a spark of the fire of patriotism remains in our hearts we shall continue the battle against this monster wrong.

He no doubt means when he says "no matter who advocates it" such democratic lights as S. J. Randall who wants every thing taxed except whisky and tobacco. Coal Oil Payne of Ohio, Senator Eustas of Louisiana and the rest of the consistent democrats, who want free-trade on everybody else products...

M'Donald, one of the Chicago hoodlums, made an almost successful attempt to escape by letting himself to the ground with a rope.

The French Federation of 1889.

There has been in progress within the past six or eight years in France, particularly since the death of Gambetta, a silent and peaceful internal revolution which is the crystallization of a sound and strong republican government.

A few days ago an appeal, signed by sixteen senators, 160 deputies and fifty-five municipal councilors of Paris, and nearly all the republican radical press of the capital, was issued to the republicans of France. This appeal calls upon the people to unite and celebrate by a great federation the centenary of the revolution of 1789.

The close student of European affairs must already have perceived the unmistakable drift, in many of the nations of the continent, towards republicanism. There is restlessness everywhere. More freedom and less centralization is the cry of all. The government for the people, not for the aristocracy. Italy, Spain and other countries are eager for a republic.
