Fielden's Prospects Bright.

CHICAGO, Nov., 8 .- In addition to the joint letter of Spies, Fielden and Schwab deploring the loss of life at the Haymarket, and disayowing the use of force, the former employers of Fielden have secured from him a separate letter to the governor confessing that he has been guilty of using extravagant language, which he now regrets, and saying that he recants and disavows all his loyalty to the doctrines that the wrongs of any class of society should be righted by violence. Judge Gray, States Attorney Grinnell and Assistant States Attorney Ingham have endorsed upon the application their views in the case. Lawyer Foster, acting for Schwab, has pursued a very similar course and has secured recognition of whatever claims Schwab may have to commutation from Messrs. Grinnell and Ingham. It may be said with confidence that Judges Gray and Grinnell will take no steps in favor of commutation for any f the other condemned men.

RemovingiQuarantines.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 8 .- The state veternarian of Dakota has informed the Illinois live stock commissioners that the authorities of Dakota have decided to withdraw the quarantine against cattle from the Chicago stock yards and that an official proclamation will be made in a few days. The commissioners were informed that the governor of Kan, issued a proclamation removing the quarantine against the Chicago stock yards.

GLORIOUS HOPE.

Cass County Democrats Cloriously Defeated.

Republicans Victorious.

Yesterday's election of county officers was a grand one. The vote cast was large and went the right way.

This morning came and the news of the republican victory in Plattsmouth cast a shadow upon the countenances of all the democrats and as the different precincts sent in reports of republican voctories the shadow became a cloud and this afternoon when only Tipton and Stove Creek were to be heard from and the democratic majorities were reduced to 27 for J. M. Robinson clerk, and 56 for Louis Foltz, commissioner, while the republicans all had good majorities and the precincts to be heard from are strong republican, democratic hope was gone.

This is the greatest victory ever achieved by the republicans of Cass county. To-morrow evening THE HERALD will publish a complete list of the returns, totals and pluralities of the county, provided all the precincts report by that time in full. It is conceded by democrats that D. A. Campbell's plurality will probably reach 450 to 500.

VICTORY!

Plattsmouth Does Her Duty and Lays the Democratic Ticket Out Cold.

A Heavy Vote Well Cast.

Yesterday's election was one which will long reflect honor on the city of Platts mouth, and her voters deserve th greatest praise for their good work and scratched, especially the democratic, but to the most sanguine expectations of re-

The polls closed promptly at six o'clock and the judges were engaged in counting till two o'clock a. m. Maine street was quite well filled with people this morning to learn the result of yesterday's harn labor.

The first ward went republican on supreme and district judges and for county treasurer, and surveyor, giving a democratic majority for the remaining state and county officers. On the city and ward ticket, A. L. Salisbury (rep. was elected assessor by a majority of 6 for the same. The date has not been fixed votes over his opponent, O. Guthman. L. C. Stiles (rep.) received 102 votes and Willett Pottenger (rep.) 92; against 94 for M. Archer (dem.) and 110 for Wm. Wintersteen (dem.) For constables votes were, M. McElwain, 82, H. Kneller, 85 (reps.) against 116 for Ben Hemple and 121 for W. H. Mallick, (dem.) For judges and clerks of election, the democrats carried the whole ward ticket, consisting of J. R. Cox, Chris. > The second ward gave republican ma jorities for Judge Chapman, Henry Beeck and A. Madole, making democratic majorities for all other democratic nominees, state and county. On the ward and county ticket D. M. Jones (dem) was elected assessor by 16 majority over E. B. Lewis (rep.). For justice of the prace M. Archer got 137 votes and Wm. Win-Willitt Pottenger 147 votes, For constables Ben Hemple got 148 votes, W. H. Malick 149 (dem.) to M. McElwain 94 and H. Kneller 117. The democratic judges and clerks of election were also elected in this ward. 257 votes were polled in this ward. The third ward gave handsome majorities to every republican nominee, state and county, with the fourth ward overbalancing the democratic majorities in the other wards except on clerk supt. and recorder. For assessor H. C. Ritchie received a majority of 70 votes over his democratic opponent. For justices of the peace L. C. Stiles' vote was 171 and Willitt Pottenger's 152 to 121 and 103, respectively for M. Archer and Wm. Winterstein. For constables M. McEl wain 170 and H. ART ON SAFE DOORS.

A Glimpse at the Artists Who Put Off Paintings on the Iron Doors,

"There are more than 400,000 safes in use in the United States," said a Broadway manfacturer to a reporter a few days ago, "and with a few exceptions their great iron doors are brightened with artistic designs in oil. The center of the safe painting trade is in this city. Half a dozen artists are engaged in the work. They are all men who have left the private studio and buried their identity for money.

"One man in particular was an artist of recognized ability. His studio up town was one of the finest in the city. Rich draperies and costly brie-a-brac were on every hand. The floor was inlaid with choice woods, and valuable specimens of his handiwork greeted the visitor from the walls. A tropical sun bursting through fleecy clouds shone down from the ceiling. This man got a good start from his father, and, as I remarked, his ability was recognized; but it didn't pan out in cash. When he found a customer for a $100 painting he lived in clover, and when the art mart was drugged and pictures went slow he found it hard work to make both ends meet. 'I've made a name,' said he one day, 'but the artist who lives on his name without money can do more than I can.'

"A week after that," continued the safa manufacturer, "he applied to me for work.

If you want to talk with him, come with me." The reporter then went into the rear apartment and found their man at work. One was painting a scene in the Catskills on the cold black front of a 5,000 pound safe that was billed to be delivered within ten days to a western manufacturer. "Don't imagine," said the artist after the introduction, "that I have given up being an artist. Oh, no! I am still turning out original studies, but my work goes with the safe like the chromo with the pound of tea. We paint two six by nine landscapes in a day. Ordinarily one man lays in the ground work, another fills in the middle ground and a third adds the fore ground. We get up quite a number of designs to order. On the inner doors of that safe over there you will find a good painting of the lower falls in the Genesee. That picture is to please the fancy of a Rochester man who ordered it. "We have several orders for the Volunteer in oil. It requires more time to paint waterscapes and boats than anything else. Every will be found with it. If a landscape happens to be a little too red or brown or green, we can account for it by saying that the green painting shows the scene in early spring and the brown in midsummer and the red in autumn. That, of course, is one of the tricks of the trade.

"What do you consider the nature of your work on safes?" "We turn out work here," replied the artist after a moment's reflection, "that would sell on canvas and with frames around them for $50. When you are moving around from be particular to observe the paintings on safe doors and see if you don't agree with me."--New York Star.

Changes in Parisian Habits.

It is curious to remark how greatly Parisian habits have changed within even the past few years, and that, too, not a little owing to particularly riding and drivi and from 9 to 11 in the morning the Bois de Boulogne is the rendezvous of the prancers and piaffeuses, who, after their morning tob (Anglice, tub), take a drive in their boguet (Anglice, buggy) or in their speedair, which we pronounce spider. But that is a detail.

The grave thing is that these gentlemen and ladies "very selected" get up early and go to bed early, and the consequence is that they do not go to the theatre so much as formerly, and, above all, they do not care any longer about first nights. For that matter the managers of the fashionable theatres are now much exercised to know how to arrange their programmes, for the Parisian dinner hour is getting later and later and the bed hour earlier and earlier. At home few people dine before 7:30: at dinner parties one does not sit down clerks of election. 209 votes were polled to table much before 8 o'clock; what time remains for the theatre? Either one must dine exceptionally early or else arrive in the middle of the fourth act. At the Opera things are managed better. By tacit agreement some old opera is performed for the benefit of the foreigners and country cousins, and then toward 11 o'clock the ballet begins for the benefit of the subscribers, who drop in about that hour, and many of whom have never heard the overture or even the first two acts of any opera of the repertory. Nor are they any prouder or happier on that account. But still this state of affairs is unsatisfactory, terstein 125 to L. C. Stiles 122 and and the theatrical managers feel uneasy in consequence.-Paris Cor. London World.

The Boy and the Elephant.

Many years ago one of the most famous elephants that traveled in this country was Old Columbus. During one of his summer trips through Virginia he stopped at the town of D-. In the neighboring town of H- a boy, familiarly called Dave and notorious for leadership in all kinds of mischievous tricks, determined to show off before the other boys at Old Columbus' expense, and invited several of his companions to go

Having come to the elephant's stable Dave gave him first candy, then cake, and then finally cried: "Now boys!" and slipped a piece of tobacco in his proboscis, intending to get out of danger and enjoy Old Columbus' disgust and anger.

Unhurt by his unexpected rise Dave dropped on the hay mow. The other boys below, supposing this to be the trick promised them, cried out in admiration:

Dave, comfortably seated out of harm's way, very earnestly answered: No, boys! I only do that trick once a y."—Youth's Companion.

A Million Postage Stamps.

Within the last year hundreds of benevolent people were actually busy begging for canceled stamps in order to obtain admission for an old lady in a Philadelphia "home." A Germantown physician took the matter in charge, and it was understood that when the necessary 1,000,000 had been collected they were to be handed over by his wife to a friend, who was to give them to another friend, who was to give them to a third, who knew some one who would arrange with somebody else for the old lady's final reception. The craze spread so far that packages of stamps arrived by every mail from New York, Washington, Chicago and Boston. Little schoolgirls and fashionable young women will be proceeded with at once. vied with each other in their eagerness to aid this good work, and half the requisite number had actually been scraped together before it began to dawn on people's minds that the only possible use that any "home" could make of 1,000,000 stamps would be to sell them for

Then an enterprising Philadelphia reporter undertook to hunt up the old lady, whose name was Peterman, and having found her, had the pleasure of hearing from her own great success at his first effort in raising Pherson (dem.) received a majority of lips that she had no idea of going into any Leave or loss a family.

AMERICA'S HISTORY.

A Sort of "Hiawatha" by Bob Burdette.

When he landed, C. Columbus Found the people with no clothes; Found them dressed like Lydia Thompson; Dressed for going to the opera. Now they undress more than ever, But it costs much more to do so; Costs like smoke to put on nothing. Then he found the people painted, Ringed and streaked from heel to eyebrow; Now they paint above the shoulders, But it costs as much as ever. Then the young men smeared their bodes; Now the young men paint the town ed. Then he found the maids assembled, Waiting on the sandy seashore; Waiting for the Spanish sailors. Now as ever, they are waiting, Giddy girls and anxious "mommers." Reporters may observe him at a distance of eight feet. Lingg was restless, and every few moments he would jerk his head around and stare through the grated door with a wild look. Presently he got up, planted himself in front of the cell door, thrust his hands into his pockets and looked straight before him upon the contracted field of his vision. He saw nothing but watchful clusters of reporters and suspicious muscular bailiffs. He was nervous. He would lean against the wall, sit down on the edge of the cot, get up, put his elbows on the cross-bars of his cell and rest his face on his hands. A favorite attitude was to stand firmly erect, fold his arms over his broad chest and gaze out bristling and ferocious.
