NATIONAL REPUBLICAN TICKET.

FOR PRESIDENT, BENJAMIN HARRISON, of Indiana.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT, LEVI P. MORTON, of New York.

The Omaha Republican has been and is, under its present management, doing splendid work in discussing the industrial question.

We wait with concern and also with curiosity to see the Journal of this city hold up its hands and admit that it has been lying about the Hon. Levi P. Morton.

MR. HARRISON'S popularity in Indiana seems to be increasing; at least we judge so, by the increasing thousands who are daily calling on him to inform him he is, so unpopular.

MR. BLAINE is a very bad dangerous man! and very naughty too; to come home for a visit to the old world and poke his finger under the democratic nose and threaten to pull it if the poor old concern doesn't stop fighting the working men of this country.

THAT whisky bottle so exquisitely drawn by the world renowned Bluso, is exactly the shape of the democratic instrument which carried the late lamented democratic convention at Louisville. It certainly furnishes an inspiring theme for a revenue reform artist.

SINCE the Omaha Herald has admitted the falsehood it published about Levi P. Morton and the Irish, will the Journal of this city acknowledge that the item it published charging that Mr. Morton charged the poor starving Irish for the goods and provisions he donated them was a falsehood?

THE county convention held at Weeping Water yesterday elected delegations to the state and congressional conventions. The state delegation goes instructed for Captain Baird, of Weeping Water, for State Treasurer, and a better, more competent man has not entered the arena of Nebraska politics to compete for that office.

IF anyone wanted to hear of a stark case of free trade lunacy just read the purported editorial in last evening's Journal, which is in fact a plagerism from the free trade literature now in circulation by the Cobden bureau of America.

THE EXPOSE.

Our prohibition friends may read the following from the pen of Fred Nye, of the Omaha World, and then wonder what Rhet. Clarkson, Senator Gorman and Dr. George L. Miller will have to say. That St. John is laboring in the interest of the democratic party no sane man can deny; especially when his late performances in Iowa are examined.

MURDER WILL OUT. At last, after repeated, passionate denials, the democratic party, through one of its leaders, incontinently admits that in the campaign of 1884 it bought and paid for the prohibition party or the leaders of that party in the United States!

MR. NYE had considerable to say about Prohibitionist St. John and mentions his proffered prostitution to Clarkson of the republican national committee in 1884. It may be well to remind Mr. Nye that the most egregious dunderhead connected with that memorable campaign was the same Ret Clarkson to whom he refers.

THAT Mr. Morrissey knows what he is talking about no one can doubt. Under the administration of Dr. Miller he was the confidential associate editor of the Omaha Herald, and after the doctor sold his paper, Mr. Morrissey became editor-in-chief.

DR. MILLER communicated the news to Senator Gorman, who was managing the democratic campaign, and money was furnished by democrats to keep the prohibition campaign going. Then Clarkson raised his bid, but the prohibition was not at auction and Clarkson has ever since been babbling over his own failure and cursing everyone connected with it.

ST. JOHN and his crowd did not support the republican ticket; they attacked republicanism malevolently and especially as they are attacking it today, and they did it on money furnished by the democrat! Mr. Morrissey says so, and his word is absolutely good.

IF St. John sold himself last year as Mr. Morrissey says that he did—as Mr. Morrissey's statement proves beyond all question that he did—what is this year's inference? St. John is still stumping for Cleveland—still slandering republicanism.

WHAT'S THE USE.

"When I am convinced that a party is consistent which favors a protective duty and at the same time does not protest against European cheap labor coming to this country and competing with our American workmen, I shall vote the republican ticket," said a democrat in our hearing the other day. To reason with that democrat is a thankless task.

TO ask him what the difference would be to keep the cheap labor out of the country and admit the cheap results of that labor without restriction would perhaps be useless. To ask him who would be benefited by such a policy would also be useless, because he is engaged in supporting the democratic position on the industrial question and not in trying to arrive at the truth of the question in its application to the laboring man.

THESE fellows will not stop and examine the physical fact, that the necessities of life are as cheap in this country; while the social condition of the working man is immeasurably above and his wages almost double, that of his brother in free trade England; they rush over these known facts to grasp at the theoretical fallacies of the free trade doctrine which tickles the ear with his "robber tax" cry.

THE prohibition party of the county is to be pitted on account of the man St. John, who is ever present at its conventions and in close states, making democratic speeches under its banners. His harangue in Omaha the other evening certainly lays him open to grave suspicion in view of the charge that he is in the employ of the democratic party, and his appearance in Iowa delivering the coarsest kind of democratic harangues against the prohibition party of that state is evidence which we can see no other way of explaining.

DEMOCRATIC LIES.

The other evening the Journal printed the campaign lie, which had been sent forth by the Omaha Herald, to the effect that Levi P. Morton, instead of donating food to the suffering people of Ireland, sold the ship load of provisions (sent by himself) to that hungry people for the highest market price.

NEW YORK, March 10, 1880.—I learn from the secretary of the navy that the ship Constellation, which he proposes to send with contributions of food to Ireland, under authority of both houses of congress, approved February 25, 1880, is at the Brooklyn navy yard, but that no tenders of cargo have been made.

EIGHT days later, when the total cargo had been subscribed, the Herald, without consulting Mr. Morton, made his name public, explaining: "As his offer was conditional and it was uncertain whether the condition would be complied with he had a reluctance to see his name connected with an offer which he might not be able to fulfill."

THE Journal has at last joined issue with us on the tariff question, and disputes our proposition that the direct way to cheapen goods and wares, the free-traders demand, is to pull down the wages of the American laboring man.

WHY HE "THANKED GOD."

The Exact Words of Prohibition Candidate Brooks. DECATUR, Ill., Aug. 17.—[Special].—The publishers of the Decatur Daily Republican have prepared the following in printed form in answer to many letters of inquiry from different sections of the country:

"DECATUR, Ill., Aug. 17.—The recent utterance of Dr. John A. Brooks, the prohibitionist candidate for vice-president, at Decatur, to the effect that he 'thanked God he had never been a republican,' has called forth so many inquiries from all portions of the country that to satisfy them the affidavit of Mr. John J. H. Young Jr., the city editor of the Decatur Daily Republican, has been procured to the same effect."

"I have lived in the south and I owned slaves there. I sympathized with the south and prayed for the success of the confederate cause, but my prayers were not answered. I have been a democrat, but, thank God!—here the speaker shook his head, at the same time raising his arm and shaking his finger at the audience—"I have never been a republican. I will never have that sin to answer for."

"I have further stated that the above language of Dr. Brooks was taken down by him at the time of delivery as a reporter for the press. "JOHN J. H. YOUNG JR. "Subscribed and sworn to before me this 13th day of August, A. D. 1888. "THOMAS LEE, "Notary Public for Macon County, Ill."

BLAINE-PHOBIA is the name of the plague which is so rapidly running through the ranks of the democratic party. This disease was lately imported, duty free, to our shores by a new steam ship which was not properly quarantined at New York harbor.

OUR democratic neighbors are borrowing trouble over the Blaine reception; they report dissatisfaction among the republicans over the magnificent manner in which Mr. Blaine was received. Never mind gentlemen! The republicans are managing that side of the affair; the democratic lie with fear right behind it.

Will our democratic friends please read this statement from the Omaha Republican which brings out the national feature of the "revenue reform" the northern dough-face editor is so fast to recommend to his readers. It speaks for itself in a language frightfully plain, like that of "truthful James." Look at the facts:

From beginning to end the Mills bill is a sectional measure, but it contains no more glaring evidence of that fact than the provision which admits cotton ties without a duty and places a duty of $6 per ton on pig iron, the raw material from which the ties are made.

This is the democratic way of protecting American labor—reversing the tariff and giving the protection to foreign workmen! Every laboring man, we take it, will see the point, and understand why it is done. It gives the cotton planters the benefit of cheap labor of the old world by taking it away from the workmen of the United States.

The circumstances will not have been forgotten that this bill was drafted by the democratic members of the committee, behind locked doors. No republican, whether or not a member of the committee, was permitted to see it. Who was engaged in the work?

Roger Q. Mills, Texas, late colonel of the C. S. A. Henry G. Turner, Georgia, late captain, C. S. A. Clifton R. Breckenridge, Arkansas, late private in C. S. A. William C. P. Breckenridge, Kentucky, late captain, colonel and general C. S. A. William L. Wilson, West Virginia, late private in C. S. A.

Benton McMillan, of Tennessee, not in the confederate army because too young. William L. Scott, of Pennsylvania, and William D. Bynum, of Indiana, both free traders and the former the mouth-piece of President Cleveland.
