

WOMAN AND HOME.

A HOSTESS WHO PLACED GUESTS IN AN AWKWARD SITUATION.

Children Should Consult Their Parents. Untruthfulness - Unconscious Cruelty. The Old Baby - Let the Girls Romp. Open the Blinds - The Hair - Notes, Etc.

A hostess is supposed to give her attention both before and after an entertainment to the enjoyment of her guests, and so natural is the instinct of hospitality that women do this to a certain extent invariably, but many other times, with perfect unconsciousness, they place their guest in an awkward situation. I was forcibly reminded of this at witnessing recently a joke a merry fellow played upon his fellow guests at a large dinner given at a beautiful country house.

Among the knives, forks and spoons found at each cover the guest soon observed a very singularly shaped spoon, the like of which not one of all the twenty or more assembled had ever seen. It was long, and the bowl, over which was a little handle, was triangle in shape. It lay a quite harmless looking affair and yet a weapon which doubtless sent dismay to many an apparently indifferent observer, for its shape suggested to reason of its why and wherefore.

Course after course of the elaborate dinner went on, and if the least edge of enjoyment for those persons who always worry over trifles was gone it was because the specter of the feast was this mysterious spoon, and that it was a ghost which would not be laid in the minds of more than would seem possible was openly confessed by a merry party of eight who drove home together through the moonlight.

It chanced that the joke loving man mentioned had been assigned the honor of escorting his hostess to the table. Being a careful student of human nature, it did not take him long to reach the conclusion that his neighbors were filled with a sense of the possibility of making a faux pas, and he quickly determined that somebody should do this if he could effect it. What cared he whether it partially fell upon his own head if he could get a joke on somebody else? So when the table came on and proved to be an elaborately made dish for which this singular affair might possibly be the article of use, there was an almost imperceptible lull, a succession of quick glances toward the head of the table, and a hesitating flutter of hands, and this joker submitted his hostess to such a running fire of questions that she was the very last person to take up her fork and calmly begin to eat. Then followed a succession of courses for which the article of use so obviously suggested themselves that there could be no mistake, and then came a punch in which were frozen rum, cherries, while on the plate which held the pretty punch glass was a little of something which afterward proved to be a strange sweet East Indian condiment. Again the half anxious lull, and again was the attention of the hostess excited and diverted until some woman more bold and self confident than those about her seized an ordinary little gold spoon and straightway, like a flock of geese, every one followed the leader. Then came terrapin served individually in paper cases, and now Mr. Joker had his fun. His hostess was in such absolute convulsions of laughter over his funny story that eating would have resulted in choking, should she attempted it, and by the time she dipped this new queer spoon into the dish he had the satisfaction of feeling that two-thirds of his friends had made an exhibition of greenness.

So much did this amuse his highness that he declares some day he shall give a dinner in which everything shall be served in and eaten with newfangled dishes and implements, and the only regrets shall be to know everything, never mistaken sort of persons. The moral of the contretemps is that a hostess, thoughtful and kind, whose housekeeping appointments are novel and likely to be unfamiliar to friends perhaps less favored with that power for possessing new innovations should avoid the possibility of making them feel awkward, and instead of keeping her possessions locked away in her silver safe or her china closet, but by setting quick example of what use to put the new thing, or, as might easily have been done in the above case, having the spoon sent to each individual at the same time and on the same plate with the paper case holding the terrapin. There could then have been no mistake and no discomfort, while the service would have been quite as pretty. -S. S. E. M. in Chicago Herald.

The Tendency to Untruthfulness. But coming down to the detail of the thing, there is no surer way to make a child with any tendency to untruthfulness cherish the tendency than to let him know that you are aware of the tendency, and to let him know it, most of all, in any obnoxious way. It is possible that with a child with whom you have established a confidential intimacy, so that he considers you more as his dear friend than as his corrector and overseer, you can let such knowledge of yours be known, and can become agreeably to him a fellow watcher with himself over the fault. But this is not a very frequent possibility, since children's intimates and confidants are liable to be of the same age with themselves, and it is rarely that they do not look up with a little awe and distance upon the person, whoever it may be, that is appointed to take care of their morals and behavior.

Let the Girls Romp. Most mothers have a dread of romps, so they lecture the girls daily on the proprieties, and exhort them to be little ladies. They like to see them very quiet and gentle and as prim as possible. The lot of such children is rather pitiable, for they are deprived of the fun and frolic which they are entitled to. Children—boys and girls—must have exercise to keep them healthy. Deprive them of it, and they will fade away like flowers without sun and soil. Running, kicking, skipping, climbing—these are the things that strengthen the muscles, expand the chest and build up the nerves. The mild dose of exercise taken in the nursery with calisthenics or gymnastics will not invigorate the system like a good romp in the open air.

Mothers, therefore, who counsel their little girls to play quietly make a mistake. Better the laughing, racy cheeked, romping girl than the pale, lily faced one, who is called every inch a lady. The latter rarely breaks things, or tears her dresses, or tires her mother's patience as the former does; but, after all, what does the tearing and breaking amount to? It is not a wise policy to put an old head on young shoulders. Childhood is the time for childish pranks and plays. The girls will grow into womanhood soon enough. Let them be children as long as they can. Give them plenty of fresh air and sunlight, and let them run and romp as without the game; and his fate, which the tact and watchfulness of which we have spoken might have made very different, is early sealed. -Harper's Bazar.

Should Consult Their Parents. One is often tempted to smile at some of the questions relating to etiquette, asked through the columns of the press by young men and women. The answers are so obvious—to persons of more mature age and experience—that one cannot help wondering why these young people do not consult their parents, for making due allowance for the case of orphans, many of those who seek information in this way must possess fathers and mothers. Alas! it has probably never occurred to these young persons that they should consult their parents in kindred matters; and viewed in this light, the subject becomes both a sad and a serious one.

The fathers and mothers of our day are certainly to blame for this state of things; they have, in many cases, allowed their children to grow up much like unbroken colts, in the matter of social discipline and restraint, and when they at last begin to see for themselves the necessity of finding out and obeying social laws, they turn away from their parents to seek other sources of information, because they have never been taught to take counsel of their natural guardians.

Many mothers seem to think that if they attend to the details of housekeeping, provide their children with clothing and shoes, and their school bills, they have done all that can be required of them. Others, again, forget that what is so familiar to them is unknown ground to their children, and the latter are only too willing to assume control of all their own actions, till, by and by, some of their caprices turn into pain and mortification, and they perceive that the world is polite, like every other world, has laws which cannot be violated with impunity.

In nine cases out of ten the best rule is to "ask mother." She may not always be able to tell her daughter the newest "fad," but newest fads are not always desirable—are followed often by a certain fast set only when they are almost invariably followed by the old ways, and one should know about these first, just as a lawyer must read Blackstone and Coke before he can understand modern statute law. -Florence Howe Hall in Demorest's Monthly.

Unconscious Cruelty to Children. Some loving mothers are very cruel to little girls. I remember an excellent lady, whose children attended the same school I went to, who made their lives miserable by tacking around the skirts of every white dress they wore a curiously beautiful piece of embroidery. The thing in itself was charming, but in that year a little girl's dress was plainly hemmed or tucked. The other children laughed at the trimming they could not appreciate, the victims wept. The mother kept on the even tenor of her way, and regularly did up the trimming when it was soiled.

The picturesque, the odd, the grotesque, has been fashionable now for years, but the formal was then the order of the day. Viewing the distress of my friends, I then and there resolved that if I had children when I was grown up and married, they should never be tormented by a whim of mine. The world of small people is less tolerant than that of "grown ups."

Method of Marking Clothing. With Payson's indelible ink and a steel pen, write on the small hem of the sheets, and the inside of the pillow case hem either her name or initials like this, C. O. A. 1 x, C. O. A. 2 x, C. O. A. 3 x. That is to know whether her number is correct as a guide. As they get older and she buys new number them in the same way, commencing with 1, then 2 and so on, and put after each number the single cross (x), then mark another cross on the first lot like this, xx. As they take their turn among the old, number the new ones in the same way. She would know then that C. O. A. 1 x, C. O. A. 2 x means the new one, C. O. A. 1 xxx, C. O. A. 2 xxx means old. C. O. A. 1 xxx, C. O. A. 2 xxx means old. C. O. A. 1 xxx, C. O. A. 2 xxx means old. C. O. A. 1 xxx, C. O. A. 2 xxx means old. C. O. A. 1 xxx, C. O. A. 2 xxx means old. C. O. A. 1 xxx, C. O. A. 2 xxx means old.

Use of a Clothes Tree. A clothes tree, as you may know, is a stiff affair, looking very much like the trunk of a tree with several short, bare branches left at the top. If you have one of these convenient articles in each bed room the masculine members of your household may be induced to use the pegs instead of hanging up their clothes on the floor. A walnut or cherry clothes tree is just the thing for a small hall where an ordinary hat rack would be in the way. -Home.

There are numerous ways to remove warts. A good, simple and harmless way is said to be the saturating of the wart with lemon juice two or three times a day for several days or a week. The wart will then disappear gradually and without pain, leaving no mark. Another way is to use common washing soda and apply it frequently.

much as they please. By all means give us hearty, healthy, romping girls, rather than pale faced little ladies, condemned from their very cradles to nervousness, headache and similar ailments. -Farm and Manufacturer.

Improvement of the Hair. But hair must be carefully cultivated to grow even in length, supple, silken and graceful in color. Everything is encouraging for the improvement of hair if time can be given it. The same treatment will not do for different kinds of hair by any means. Strong, stiff, naturally moist hair needs a weekly shampooing and daily and nightly brushing, with exposure to the morning and evening sun, which is a great stimulant to the hair. Thin, soft, dry hair needs tender care, but with either the first step toward improvement is thorough washing of the scalp and hair, which collects dust its entire length. To cleanse it the various alkalies, borax, ammonia, carbonate of potash and washing soda are used, and the strong hair will bear them, but they burn the life out of thin, dry hair.

The Venetian ladies drew their hair through a crown hat and let it stream over the brim to dry, and you may follow the example, sitting in the sun if possible an hour. Light is a great stimulant and preservative to hair, and it is well to open it when dry and let the wind blow through. The sun will cause the natural oil of the hair to flow, and the head may be held to the fire till the dry hair feels moist. A smart brushing night and morning, careful braiding before sleep, and an hour spent once a month clipping all forked ends, will insure a rapid growth of hair, if the general health is good, without other treatment. If you want a stimulant at night rub a little oil of lavender in the roots of the hair with shampoo brushes. Do not irritate the scalp by hard brushing. Regular care is better than overdoing. -Shirley Dare.

Locked Up for Company. Among the strange fetiches that survive among a race otherwise civilized and refined is that of the parlor and best bedroom. These are commonly the largest, coolest and most pleasant rooms in a house, fitted with the most attractive furniture, carpets and pictures—and locked up for company. Was ever such folly? A man who affords himself an agreeable apartment puts himself out of it and will not let himself in unless the clergyman is there, or unless somebody arrives from a distant city or another street.

It is better to turn the juvenile population of the house into the parlor, to wear the best carpets to shreds, to leave finger marks on the mantel piece, to let them jump on the bed in the best room until it has no more spring in it than a restaurant chicken—it is wiser to do this than to close and sanctify these apartments, involving them in solemnity, dampness and a stuffy smell. Open the blinds and windows and let the light and air in. Let the children play in the parlor, and live there yourself. Don't have things too fine to use. If you own a piece of furniture that you think is too good for you, and that you find that you can't live up to it, give it to a museum and have it put in a glass case, or, better, give it to a friend who is not afraid of it. -Brooklyn Eagle.

The best and simplest cosmetic for woman is constant gentleness and sympathy for the noblest interests of her fellow creatures. This preserves and gives to her features an indelibly gay, fresh and agreeable expression. If women would but realize that harshness makes them ugly, it would prove the best means of conversation.

You can only restrain a child from wrong conduct by hurting it, I fear you have little to hope for in its future. At first it should be good from love for you. It should obey because you have proved yourself wise and loving in its eyes. After, because you have taught it to be honorable.

A Republican Majority. BRUNINGTON, Vt., Sept. 5.—The figures of 136 towns, from which returns have been received, give a republican majority of about 17,000. The remaining towns will probably make the majority in the state 27,000. A hundred and thirty-six towns elected a hundred and twenty-five republicans and eleven democrats, state representatives.

An Explanation. What is this "nervous trouble" with which so many seem now to be afflicted? If you will remember a few years ago the word Malaria was comparatively unknown,—today it is as common as any word in the English language, yet this word covers only the meaning of another word used by our forefathers in times past. So it is used with nervous diseases, as they and Malaria are intended to cover what our grandfathers called Biliousness, and all are caused by troubles that arise from a diseased condition of the Liver which in performing its functions finding it cannot dispose of the bile through the ordinary channel is compelled to pass it off through the system causing nervous troubles, Malaria, Bilious Fever, etc. You who are suffering can well appreciate a cure. We recommend Green's August Flower. Its cures are marvelous.

The Clean Sweep in Vermont. WHITE RIVER JUNCTION, Vt., Sept. 6.—One hundred and seventy towns give Dillingham, republican, 38,181; Shurtliff, democrat, 15,497; Seely, prohibitionist and scattering, 930. The same towns in 1884 gave Pingree, republican, 34,479; Reddington, democrat, 15,734; Stone, prohibitionist, and scattering, 630. Republican plurality, 22,684; majority overall, 21,754.

The republican majority in the state will probably be between 27,000 and 28,000. The senate is solidly republican. Fourteen democratic representatives are ported elected.

Asleep on the Railroad Track. A little child, tired of play, had pillored his head on a rail and fallen asleep. The train was almost upon him when a passing stranger rushed forward and saved him from a horrible death. Perhaps you are asleep on the track, too. You are, if you are neglecting the biliousness and constipation which trouble you, in the hope that you will "come all right." Wake up, or the train will be upon you! Constipation is too often the forerunner of a general "breaking up." Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets will regulate your liver, stomach and bowels, and restore your system to its normal condition.
