A Grand Musical Gathering. From Saturday's Daily.

As a result of cancet personal work of the young people of the Presbyterian Sunday school in selling tickets to their concert given last night, there gathered at Rockwood hall a large audience of both young and old. The entertainment more than pleased those present. All the programme was given in good style, but the most taking exercise of the evening was the music by the Zyther Club. The club was under the leader ship of Miss Lillian Kanble, who, though up with park benches. At the ends of but a girl, displayed musical talent and each car is printed the number which deability worthy an older head. The Zyther Club appeared twice on the programme, and was each time encored.

The Riembroudt was encored on his solo, and responded with a song or his garlie pudding. This popular relish own composition, which was a parody every Spaniard takes with him, in an At the close of the concert the older forks took supper and left the hall, while the young folks had a fully time with music and games for about an hour,

AGAINST THE SETTLERS. Judge Brewer Renders an Important Decision in a Railway Case.

TOPEKA, KAS., Nov. 3.-Judge Brewer has just handed down an opinion in the famous Allen county case, in which certain alternate sections of land granted by the government to the Missouri, Kansas and T as rathway were claimed by the settlers thereon Judge Brewer holds that the land in question legally belonge to the railway company. The settlers will therefore be compelled to Chronon, Nov. 2 - At a late hour lass evening, as a car on the Garli of avenue Hue was passing Contor strong John Mile ler, was log a lerve's bulgs of the North Callings the rational company, threw a show at the car, which crashed through the window after hitting the driver. An offices on the car jumped off and chased Miller, who refused to stop. The officer Just after the shot was fired the man disappeared and he was not found until an hour after, when he was discovered in a hale with his neck broken.

The Babylonian Expedition-PHILADELPHIA, PA,. November 3 .monaging the safe arrival of the University of Panasylvania Babylonian expedition at Singh after the brief detention by shipwrock in the Mediterranean. Prof. Peters denies that any or the scientific apparatus of the party was damaged and says that no baggrage was lost,

A Lingain Journalist Dead.

Discount Non. Nov. 3, -Chas Root, one of the editorial staff of the Nebraska Daily State Journal, secretary of the Lincoln Press club, and state delegate from Nebraska to the late meeting of the Prison reform association in Boston, died at his home in this city vesterday from Ayphold toyer.

Mora Wages Demanded.

DANGGOR, ILL., NOVEMBER 8 .- At mass not tong of the Grape Creek miners This are it was resolved to make a channel on the company for an increase of the a ron. The present price is 65c The company will probably refuse and a strike will follow. The company employ 300 men.

Impaled on a Pitchfork.

HASTINGS, NEB., Nov. 3 .-- The son of a farmer named Calkins, living near this city, was yesterday impaled on a pitch fork when sliding down a grain stack. The prongs pierced the boy's leg and until related held him suspended with his head downward.

Locused at Grand Island

tion of the denomination yesterday. The robust in appearance. e my ntion closed last might.

the Metherlands King Improving THE HAGER, Nov. 3 .- The condition of the king of Holland was improved

Francisco Don to

a delegate to the democratic convention, Demorest's Monthly. and became insane on the road, was arrested, examined, and returned to his home, the attack being thought to be from Wabash this morning again and in from Wabash this morning again and here wide mouthed stoppered bottle is kept charged with an ounce of chloroform. is now confined in the jail here. Appli- When a chicken has received sentence of death, it is held firmly under the left arm cation has been made to have him admitted to the hospital at Lincoln. That bottle. A few deep inspirations follow, institution, however is crowded and there may be no room for him, but until a retimually. Political excitement seems to American. be too great a strain for him.

with respective of the family dwelling lead "in fashion." Out of 500 toilets and place the greate and summer real 750 bats surveyed on a recent afternoon on Broadway no two were alike, while all were fashionable.—Detroit Free Press.

TRAVELING IN SPAIN.

LIFE AS SEEN FROM THE WINDOWS OF A RAILROAD CAR.

How Peasants Sleep En Boute-The Horrors of Garlie-The Spaniard's Inevitable Cigarette-A Chat with a Jolly

A third class carriage is not a very pleasant place, even if you can see the beauties of Spain from its dirty windows. I can but describe the one I traveled in as resembling an American cattle car fitted

Mr. Eigenbroadt was encored on his of the car was redolent with the smell of on "I Stood on the Briage at Midnight," earther pot, whenever he travels. If he is only going a few miles the pudding your too, to be handy in case of emer-

As alght grew on apace, my companions, the peasants, prepared themselves for sleep. The preparations were speeduly accomplished, each man muffling himself in his cloak up to his eyes, and all leaning in one direction on each bench, as if by previous agreement, those on the next bench leaning the other way. But for this equalization I should have thought the car tipping and about to slide down one of the steep sides of the mountain. They breathe through this cloak. Sometimes the cloak is an heirloom, and the continual breathing through it by a few generations does not make this article of their apparel more presentable.

GARLIC PUDDING. Some stayed awake for a while to smoke their eighrettes. You would imagine from the assidnous way the peasants of-fered each other tobacco and that garlie settlets will therefore be compelled to give up possession to the company.

Many of them here occupied the lands for terms of fifteen years and here made extensive improvements.

Broke H s Mank

Chronos, Nov. 2.—At a late hour last offered each other tobacco and that garlic delicacy of which I have spoken, that they were very polite by nature. I found out afterward, however, that in Spain you are expected to decline when anything is offered to you—if you understand etiquete. Not being aware, at the time, of this social law, I took some garlic pudding which a villatious looking peasant offered each other tobacco and that garlic delicacy of which I have spoken, that they were very polite by nature. I found out afterward, however, that in Spain you are expected to decline when anything is offered to you—if you understand etiquete. Not being aware, at the time, of this social law, I took some garlic pudding which a villatious looking peasant offered each other tobacco and that garlic delicacy of which I have spoken, that they were very polite by nature. I found out afterward, however, that in Spain you are expected to decline when anything is offered to you—if you understand etiquete. Not being aware, at the time, of this social law, I took some garlic pudding which a villations looking peasant of the property of the propert please kim, showing that f was not too ground or "stuck up" to cut what he and the test ate. I paid dearly for my experi-ment, for it nearly strangled me with its er; yet I found strength to murmur lateno," though the tears surged into by eyes white I thanked the donor.

In my perambulations around the world I have come upon many villainous smells, but never before such a concentrated combination of odors as that garlic pudding emitted. Later I learned to distinfired, hitting the man in the left leg. guish localities and streets by it. The Spaniards cannot cook without garlic. Often as I have asked for something without ajo, never did I find anything but had some taint of garlie

It may be unnecessary to speak of the inordinate smoking of the Spaniards. They are unequaled by any nation in the world as smoke producers. It is very hard to meet one, morning, noon or night Word has been received from Prof. without the inevitable cigarette attachment. I mention it as a discovery that I riard who did not smoke. THE SPANIARD'S CIGARETTE.

The Spaniard bends his eigarette downward, at nearly a right angle. At home and abroad, except in cathedral or museo, the rings of smoke are always rising in perpetual incense. The senora at her toilet in the window smokes her cigar tte. The beggar asking alms, and ratag at the iron gate of the patio, smokes | family. mwhile. Only burro, the patient tume, with the mantilla. They had the grace of leopards in their movements, and eyes that seemed full of hidden fires. One was dark, with blue black eyes and a golden brown skin, that lovely color which only comes from a life in the sun, it work in the fields. The other had the bloude hair Murillo so loved to paint. Though simply dressed, there was something strangely picturesque and poetic sent, whether in foreign lands or in some other part of his awn countries to the tongue of the north." To looks upon him. me there is no language under the sun as an exile, is always under hy a worm of Castile. It is like the marriage of a brook flowing over pebbles and full of dreamy harmony like the oles and full of dreamy harmony, like the life. murmur of water at night, which the Spanish call "the sigh of the Moor."

IN A JOVIAL MOOD. This family party, the rotund father and his two graceful daughters, were in a jovial mood. As we sat on the same beuch, we soon entered into conversation. They thought it great fun to make me the subject of their badinage. My future was prophesied by one of the daughters. Was I a bachelor? Did I expect to escape all the fair Castillans unmarried. They were indeed a jovial set, and did much, by their talking and singing, to enliven the

I was surprised to find many of the Lancount, Nam., Nov. 3. -- The Baptist Spaniards in the car were of enormous stature. Usually the Spaniard of the university was finally located at Grand towns is slight and undersized. The numerous cloaks, sashes, knives, and so Island by the action of the state conven- forth, make the slenderest Spaniard quite

I must say there is one thing about the caballero that wearies me, and that is his insufferable conceit and braggadocio. These "children of the sun" are very eculiar. They have a conceit of locality. lany I saw dressed in the costume of the time of "Don Pablo of Segovia." The wearer being more proud of his province than of his country, wears the costume of the province. The most boastful of these John Garger, of Wabash, who four braggarts are generally arrant cowards, weeks ago today came to Plattsmouth as tured cowards.—W. Parker Bodfish in Chloroform in Killing Poultry.

Mr. F. Baden Benger, the president of the British Pharmaceutical conference, more or less temporary, is again far off adopts and recommends the following and its head slipped into the mouth of the unconscious. Then, holding it by the ply is received he will be kept here. He is very restless and walks and talks coninglet be generally adopted.—Scientific

No Two Were Alike.

The tones wife now busieth herself | It must be pretty hard for a woman to

INTERESTING OBSERVATIONS.

The Effects Produced by Earthquakes Upon the Lower Animals.

In the last issue of the "Transactions of the Seismological Society of Japan," Professor Milne, the well known student of volcanic phenomena, discusses the effects of earthquakes on animals. The records of most great earthquakes refer to the consternation of dogs, horses, cattle and other domestic animals. Fish also are frequently affected. In the London earthquake of 1719, reach and other fish in a canal showed evident signs of confusion and fright; and sometimes after an earthquake fish rise to the surface dead and dying.

During the Tokio carthquake of 1880, cats inside a house can about trying to escape, foxes barked, horses tried to kick down the boards confining them to their stables. There can, therefore, be no doubt that animals know something unusual and terrifying is taking place. More interesting than these are the observations showing that animals are agitated just before an earthquake. Ponies have been known to prance about their stalls, pheasants to scream, and frogs to cease croaking suddenly a little time bofore a shock, as if aware of its coming. The Japanese say that moles show their agitation by burrowing. Geese, pigs and dogs appear more sensitive in this respect than other animals. After the great than other animals. After the great Calabrian exthquake it is said that the neighing of a corse, the braying of an ass, or the cackle of a goose was sufficient to cause the inhabitants to fly from their houses in expectation of a shock.

Many birds are said to show their uneasiness before an earthquake by hiding their heads under their wings and behaving in an unusual manner. At the time ing in an unusual manner. At the time of the Calabrian shock, little fish like sand eels (cirricelli), which are usually buried in the sand, came to the top and were caught in multitudes. In South America certain quadrupeds, such as dogs, cats and jerboas, are believed by the people to give warning of coming danger by their restlessness; sometimes immense flocks of sea birds fly inland before an earthquake, as if alarmed by the commencement of some sub-oceanic disturbance. Before the shock of 1885 in Chili, all the dogs are said to have escaped from the city of Talcahuano.

The explanation offered by Professor Milne of this apparent prescience is that some animals are sensitive to the small tremors which precede nearly all carthquakes. He has himself felt them some seconds before the actual earthquake came. The alarm of intelligent animals would then be the result of their own experience, which has taught them that small tremors are premonitory of move ments more alarming. Signs of alarm days before an earthquake are probably accidental; but sometimes in volcarie districts gases have emanated from the ground prior to earthquakes and have poisoned animals. In one case large numbers of fish were killed in this way in the Tiber, and at Follonica on the morning of April 6, 1874, "the streets and roads were covered with dead rats and mice. In fact, it seemed as if it had rained rats. The experience, which has taught them that it seemed as if it had rained rats. The only explanation of the phenomena was that these animals had been destroyed by emanations of carbon dioxide."—Scientific

The Chinaman's Love of Home.

The ties of locality are very strong among the Chinese, and hence new familife in the immediate vicinity of that from which they sprung. Thus one commonly sees groups, or nests, of families gathered about the parent stock. Whole villages may be found composed almost exclusively of persons of the same name, and containing four and even five generations of one

"Smithville," "Jonesville," or, to trans-Honkey, doesn't amoke.

By and by the train stopped and a portly peasant and his two daughters entered, the latter clad in the national cost of the latter clad in the national class of the latter class of the lages and cities are so frequent throughout China that they give a large fraction of all the names to places in the empire. The class of "globe trotters," as they are called-persons of wealth who travel around the globe sight seeing-form a never solved puzzle to the mind of the Chinese. A Chinaman never leaves his home except from necessity. While ab-

The Chinaman is not, and, without are entire change of his nature, cannot, become a colonist. He is an acute and careful merchant, a patient, faithful and dillgent laborer, but, above everything else, his home ties are strong. While he wan-ders all over the earth and submits to all sorts of privations, abuses and hardships, he is only a wanderer whose deepest de sire is for home, a quiet old age with his family, and, above everything else, burial in the tombs of his fathers.—Chester W. Holcombe in Youth's Companion.

Andrew Lang's New Game.

It is "my own invention;" alone I did it, and can recommend it as more than common, tedious and destructive of the happiness of nations. By this game alone a company may be driven to bed an hour earlier than usual, and the comfort of the families may be wrecked at the lowest possible figure. Directions for playing the new intellectual game of poets and painters: Each person being provided with a sheet of paper and pencil, which the owner will never see again, the dealer makes a nonsense rhyme. An example is here given for the instruction of country gentlemen. Example:

There was an old man of Toronto, And people cried: "Where has he gone to? Here's his table and chair, But where is he, where,

This invisible man of Toronto? When the dealer has composed a gem of this kind he does not show it, but illustrates it by a drawing. This he circulates among the company, and each of them has to make a nonsense verse on the incident illustrated by the sketch. The worse you draw the better. The dealer then repeats the true original rhyme, and the others are read aloud by the person in the com-pany least skilled in deciphering hand-writing. A box containing the game and rules for playing it, with pencils or crayons (lead pencils 2s., colored 5s.), may be obtained at the office of the society for propagating intellectual games.-Longman's Magazine.

metres. Thirty centimetres make a foot. -New York Sun.

Patti's Uncomplimentary Andlence.

When Adelina Patti first sang here-I think It was in 1881-she sent over as manager a man utterly ignorant of the country and its customs, a Frenchman who scarcely understood a word of Eng-lish. The tickets were sold at $10 apiece, but the sales were few, and the evening of Patti's first appearance, or rather the afternoon, arrived without more than a few rows of seats sold in Steinway ball. At the last moment it became evident that if Patti was not to sing to an array of empty benches, either the price of the tickets must be reduced three quarters or they must be given away To reduce the price after having sold some tickets at $10 would have been a concession of fail are and something of an aggravation to those who had paid $10. So it was whis pered about that reputable persons who wanted Patti concert tickets could have them for nothing by applying at the box office. Immediately a descent was made by all the habitnes of Fourteenth street Every office boy, every waiter in the neighborhood who could beg or steal a sheet of writing paper sent in an applica tion for seats, signing any name which might be thought effective.

that afternoon has been preserved as a curiosity. One boy brought a letter ask ing for four seats, signed by the dake of Harlem, and got them. The mayor of Long Island, of New Jersey, the president of Brooklyn and a number of other high flicers wholly unknown in real life got tickets. Before evening the boys along Courteenth street had their pockets full of Patti tickets, which were hawked about at 50 cents apiece. The effect upon the business was, of course, discovers and Mme, Patri had to give up her con-certs in disgust. I shall never forget the face of the famous prima donna as she gazed upon that audience in Steinway ball. Instead of the elite of the town in dress coats and white chokers, silks and satins, the front rows were filled with persons who had evidently never possessed dress coats in their lives. It was all that Patti could do to keep back her tears of indignation.—Philip G. Hubert, Jr., in The Epoch.

The collection of letters upon which some hundreds of tickets were given out

Craze for Variety in Diet.

There is a positive virtue in a certain amount of routine in dlet, and a positive sacrifice of happiness in the continucraze for variety. One falls into a way of looking forward pleasurably to a dianer that he knows is coming, and sits down to it with a kind of engerness—provided of course, it does not come too often. The cople who live to a great age generally account for it by the regularity of their something new.

Not every person is born with the gift to be an epicure; and the mass of us who were not born with that gift had betteadapt ourselves to a cheerful and con-fortable routine. Even the born epicures are seldom happy. If they could always get just what they wanted to eat, and were not made miscrable by the cook lies, as they are formed, settle down in | of at least two meals out of three, they would not be happy, because good diges tion seldom waits on highly accomplished palates. It was Brillat Savarin, the "Listener" believes, who said that "heaven is where we eat." and the place where we digest he called by mother name.—Poston Transcript "Listener."

The People of British Honduras.

The lower classes of people in our country are in better circumstances than those of the corresponding class in this country. I have just made a trip down the Illinois and Mississippi givers to St. Lonis, and I find people at nearly all points living in miserable huts along the river banks and in dirty hovels built on flat boats. Nuch things are not seen in British Honduras. The working classes make a com-

The principal reses make a construction of the country now a pausana. Formerly Honduras was a great sugar producing country, and large areas of land were devoted to raising sugar cane, but owing to low prices the crop became unprofitable and the the crop became unprofitable and the farmers have nearly all turned their attention to the cultivation of bananas Plantains and cocoanuts also flourish there. Lemons and oranges are cultivated to a very limited extent, and the Indians in the interior of the country raise some corn. The banana crop, however, is the chief source of revenue in the country, and it is a very profitable crop. The larger number of inhabitants of British Honduras are Scotch people, who have settled there and are doing well. There are also quite a number of Americans and people of other countries in the state. The province is a small one and is surrounded on three sides by Spanish Honduras, Guate-mala and Yucatan, which countries are inhabited chiefly by the Spanish.—Capt. James Leitch in Globe Democrat.

Cost of Killing a Man.

It doesn't cost so very much to kill men in the west. Of course you cannot cut or thoot a man down with Impunity, and murder is sometimes as severely punished there as it is anywhere else; but what I mean to say is that it doesn't cost much o kill a man by accident. You frequently car of cave ins in mines or fractured skulls by falling down winzes or shafts, and the thought that comes to you naturliv is that the mine owners have to pay $5,000 or $10,000 damages. That isn't so. A shot while ago four men were killed in a mine near Leadville. They were Italigns, and the widows or families of the men were more than delighted to receive $1,000 and the funeral expenses. In the same mine more than ten men have been killed, and never more than $1,000 has been paid. The plan in the west, when a man is killed in a mine and the company is somewhat to blame, is to go right to the heirs and make a settlement. of the laborers are Italians, and their people take $1,000 as quickly as it is offered.—A. J. Gray in Globe Democrat.

Indoor Games for Winter.

As cold weather and our deadly northern. winter comes again to shut us up, some indoors and some in the grave, there are games with balls to help drive the destroyer away. All these are good. They Length of Soldiers' Steps.

Among the Continental armies the Ger.

bring every muscle into play, and especially train the eye, as it follows the flying man soldiers have the longest legs, judging by the length of step. It is 80 centimetres. The step of the French, Austrian, Belgian, Swiss and Swedish is 75 centimetres, and of the Russian 71 centimetres, and of the Russian R from .- William F. Huteldage, M. D., in American Magazine.

SPECIAL Price

and Extra Good Bargains in La? dies', Children's and Misses'

WRAPS

Seal Plushes,

Short Wraps, Cloaks,

Etc., Etc.

Newmarkets, Plush Secques,

Other Branches, such as

In all varieties. Our Stock of

Winter Goods

Is very complete. Remember we offer a Special

15 Per Cent Discount

On All Woolen Underwear.

A Call Will Convince You.

Weckbach.

On November

ESSENTE BOLDETTS BUT TELED San Tarana Maria San San San DESCRIPTION OF THE PROPERTY OF THE

no Una Prica Cal

BEANS JAR OF

In one of his windows. Everybody can guess and need not buy a cent's worth. The one guessing the nearest to how many Beans the jar contains, by Jan. 1st, shall receive

S20 SUIT OF GLOTHES --- The second nearest---

Clear Beaver ----And the Third Nearest----

FINE LEATHER CLUB SATCHEL I The Jar will be filled and sealed up by two responsible parties on November 1st, and counted dy three responsible parties at a Public Hall, on January 1st, 1889, in Plattsmouth. If a lady should be the first nearest guesser she will receive

Twenty - Dollar Trunk. -- The Second Nearest-

Fine Silk Muffler ! - The Third Nearest --

SILK HANDKERCHIEF Bring your guesses with name in a sealed envelope. One guess to and of the same of

Lookout for large hand bills giving you a program before going to fill the Jar and count the Beans. 'The Program will be very interesting.

And Leader of Low Prices.