NEAL IN KANSAS CITY.

No Doubt But the Douglas County Murderer is Caught.

HE IS IN THE WYANDOTTE JAIL.

Cattle Stealing Causes His Arrest in Kansas City Where He Gives His Name as Caton - He Will be Held.

From Friday's Daily. This morning's Omaha Bee in specials from Kansas City gives the following account of the arrest of a man who is undoubtedly C. E. Neal, who murdered Mr. and Mrs. Jones on the Pinney farm in Douglas county, two weeks ago: KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 20. - Last Tuesday evening a young fellow giving the name of Caton was arrested here on a charge of stealing eleven cows from two dairyman named Green and Hooper, who live near Argentine, a Kansas suburb of this city. He is strongly believed to be the man wanted for the murder of Allan and Dorothy Jones on the Pinney farm, near Omaha three weeks ago.

Caton, who is confined in the Wyandotte county, Kansas, jail on the charge of theft, stoutly denies that he knows anything of the murder, but his manner does not inspire belief in the truth of what he says.

Caton disposed of his theft here, proceeding in a business like manner. It was while he was finishing the deal that the cattle owners came up and caught the thief. Caton told conflicting stories and finally confessed that he was the thief. He gave no account of himself further than that he was needing money.

Being pushed for his story, Caton said that he came from Omaha, and that he had worked on a farm near that city. Among his effects was four pawn tickets on Kansas City shops. Each represented a gold watch.

The pawn tickets were all made out in the name of Livingstone, a circumstance which he could not explain. When asked how he came by so many watches, he said that timepieces were his hobby, and that he had worked hard for them on the Omaha farm.

This afternoon, before the sheriff had heard of the accusation of murder, he was talking with Caton of the big Omaha crime. The prisoner looked at the floor reflectively, and said:

"Jones? Jones? Let me see. Yes, I knew some people in Omaha by the name of Jones, but that was five months or so ago."

The Bee correspondent called upon Caton in his cell at the Wyandotte county, Kansas, jail after 10 o'clock tonight. The first question was:

"Hello, Caton, when did you leave Omaha?"

The prisoner colored visibly and did not reply.

"What's the matter?" was the quiet query.

"O, nothing," he murmured; "I was only thinking."

The correspondent then read the dispatch from the Omaha chief of police, ordering that the prisoner be held. Caton turned deathly pale and murmured, after a choking spell.

"They have made an awful mistake, I fear."

"Do you deny the crime?" he was asked.

"Of - of course I do," he said, and stammered: "I - I haven't been near Omaha for two months."

"Did you know the Jones people on the Pinney farm?"

"I knew one family by that name, I think, but I didn't know anybody."

Here another choking spell interrupted the conversation, and Caton was compelled to stop. After a few moments he proceeded, denying that he had been to Omaha since about Christmas. He said that in the meantime he had been all over the west, spending most of his time in Denver. He could give no account of where he got the watches or the money that he is known to have blown in so freely just after he arrived here. He still maintained that his name is Caton and when told by the representative of the Bee that the Omaha authorities were coming after him, he buried his face in his hands and said nothing.

"I'm in trouble, I know," said Caton, "but to be called a murderer is too much."

In a book Caton had with him was found late tonight a pawn ticket for a lady's Elgin gold watch. The works were numbered 3,099,011, corresponding with the number of the watch Neal, the Omaha accused, was known to have carried.

Photographs of Caton taken in jail are recognized by South Omaha people as the party who sold the stock there from the Pinney farm, and who made the purchase there also. Omaha authorities are confident he is the man they want.

WHITE HOUSE CHANGES.

Mrs. Harrison's Idea of Re-Modeling the Executive Mansion.

Life in the white house could and should be made more comfortable for the inmates by some necessary changes, says A. J. Halford in the March Ladies' Home Journal. Talk of a new president's house is sometimes heard in the discussion of the question. But this would be poorest and worst disposition of it that could be made. The traditions and associations of nearly a century cluster about the white house as the home of the president, and it should remain such. Beautiful for the situation it could not improve in this respect by a new location. Naturally, Mrs. Harrison is deeply interested in the matter, and her views are worthy of consideration. She approves more heartily the suggestion of Secretary Blaine. That is to tear away the present conservatory on the west end and erecting in its place, a wing or extension in which the executive offices shall be placed. Then, on the east side of the house, fronting the treasury department, build a conservatory opening out of the east room, and over that make a picture gallery, the whole being so arranged as to be thrown open together on occasion of large gatherings, such as public receptions. With these improvements, or others that shall serve in the desired purpose, the white house will be in all respects the ideal home of the family of the president of this great nation, and far more than now worthy of the dignity and importance of his position.

ACQUAINTED WITH GARFIELD

Elder J. W. Stark, the Interesting Speaker at the Christian Church.

From Friday's Daily. A HERALD reporter today met Elder J. W. Stark, who is conducting revival services at the Christian church on Eighth and Locust streets, who proved a very interesting and entertaining conversationalist.

"I understand," suggested the reporter to open the conversation on the desired line, "that you were years ago a personal friend of James A. Garfield."

"Yes, in our early days, we were personal friends, attended school together, and afterwards preached together, and I knew him as well as my brother," and continued Elder Stark, "I was also intimate with his love affairs, which all young men have. His first love was Mary Hubble, a boisterous, jolly girl but his friends thought her not a woman suitable for a man of his great character, and we advised him to that end, so he considered the advice and went to her with that view of the match, and the engagement was broken, though warm friendship continued. Afterwards he married Miss Lucia Rudolph, an estimable, refined young lady, daughter of 'old Uncle Zeph Rudolph,' as we used to call him. Uncle Zeph had two daughters, the other married a man in St. Louis. He (Garfield) was a young man, possessed of noble qualities, and as he grew older they become more manifest. We were schoolmates together, while attending Hiram college, in the Western Reserve, in Ohio. The Western Reserve was his home, he was born and raised there."

Elder Stark is a man about the age of threescore, but is still full of life and zeal, and his discourse or the gospel come from good reason, and hearsers appreciate his words.

Supreme Court Decision.

The following is the decision made Wednesday by the supreme court in the case of Hendricks vs Sullivan: Christina E. Hendricks vs Albert N. Sullivan et al. Motion to dismiss Error from Cass county. Motion sustained. Opinion by Norval, J.

When all parties to a joint judgment have not been brought before a reviewing court in proceedings in error, no excuse is given for not doing so, the defendant may have the case dismissed. It is not necessary that a summary in error should be served within one year from the date of the rendition of the judgment sought to be reversed. If the summons that is served is issued within the year it is sufficient.

A Woman's Discovery.

"Another wonderful discovery has been made and that too by a lady in this county. Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She bought of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night and with one bottle has been miraculously cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Thus writes W. C. Humrick & Co. of Shelby, N. C. Get a free trial bottle at F. G. Fricke & Co.'s.

FROM A CIRCULAR SAW.

Mike Hronek, of Steimke's Department Has a Rough Experience.

From Thursday's Daily. The circular saw in the car repair shop at the B. & M. used by the men under H. A. Steimke, today manifested another way of doing up the men than an occasional cut with the teeth. Mike Hronek was the one who endured the unfortunate experience. He entered the shop with a piece of heavy car flooring timber to have it ripped, and as the saw was just then occupied with a piece of siding, stepped to the opposite edge of the saw from the feeder to watch the board come out. The feeder let go his hold on the board before it was finished, and the rip saw completed the job with a z zip, and shot the board back like an arrow, striking Hronek in the stomach and laying him limp. The breath was knocked out of him and the exhaustion was so great that for some time he could not speak. He was carried home and a physician summoned. As yet whether internal injuries have been sustained or not, cannot be told.

Asking for a Divorce.

A petition has been filed in the district court by Mrs. John Black asking for a divorce from her husband, Dr. John Black, and also claiming a set-off of a large block of the doctor's property interests. These persons for property, high standing and long citizenship are well known, but those familiar with the endurance of the wife since the mind trouble of Dr. Black, manifested two years ago, have much sympathy for the petitioner.

A traveling man who makes many tows and knows what is first class when he sees it - he travels as statistics collector for the publishing house of Rand, McNally & Co., of Chicago - said today I can say this for Plattsmouth, I have seen in every city of her size in Nebraska and there is not a hotel to equal Hotel City in arrangement or modern equipment."

Mr. C. J. Martin returned this morning from Maryville Mo., where he went Tuesday evening to learn the fact, whether or not his daughter May, and Charley Murray were married, and if not bring his daughter home. They are now Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Murray and are present living with an aunt of Charley Murray's about eight miles from Maryville. Application for permit to wed had been made at Maryville but was refused, but going to St. Joseph license was obtained by representing the girl at eighteen, and the ceremony was performed.

The good fortune of Plattsmouth is increasing by degrees, and some of the degrees are very large. The Grand Army men and Woman's Relief Corps now in camp at Grand Island have, by unanimous ballot, chosen Plattsmouth as the place of the next encampment. There are nearly a thousand delegates now in Grand Island, and as many to attend here will make four important gatherings to be held this year, to-wit: Reunion of First and Second Nebraska, next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday; State Firemen's tournament and Tri state Odd Fellows' encampment next summer; and the Grand Army encampment later on. These are gatherings in which thousands from abroad will participate; and those to happen in which residents will be most happy participants are these openings, to-wit: Hotel Riley, Omaha & Southern railway, and Enoc's pontoon bridge over the Missouri.
