TARIFF LITERATURE FOR ALL.

- 1. The American Protective Tariff League is publishing a series of tariff documents. These are prepared with a view to state the facts and arguments for protection, which will be of great value to laborers, merchants or professional men. Each issue of the series appeals to those engaged in separate industries, and presents disputable facts—comparisons of wages, cost of living, and other arguments showing the benefits of protection.
- 2. Any single one will be sent on receipt of cents in stamps except "Wages, Living and Tariff," which will be sent free of charge. The whole list will be sent for 25 cents, or any five for 10c, postage paid. Order by number.

EDITORIAL ETHICS.

The people do not care half so much for tariff reform as they do tax reform, and an even money market.

The democratic primaries will be held to night, the most casual observer on the streets today can see plainly that there's fun ahead.

The Journal's idea of drafting unwilling victims into the service of the democratic party as majority candidates is refreshingly original.

Missouri's democratic state treasurer beats his Missouri compatriot in regular New York City style, the defalcation of the latter only amounted to thirty-two thousand dollars while that of the former amounts to the princely sum of three hundred fifty thousand dollars.

The Herald is in favor of home first, for world afterwards. If people living in this vicinity would only bear in mind that it is the steady growth of the city that makes their property valuable, they would surely spend their money where it would improve their own homes. Try it, good people.

The calendar year opens auspiciously in foreign trade. In January and February, taken together, the country's exports exceeded its imports to the extent of $19,000,000. The indications are that the margin will remain on the credit side of the account throughout the year. This is a gratifying change from the record of a year or two ago, when the balance was against us.

The following card in the Lincoln Call, shows how they do it up where there is more fight on a councilman than is usually shown in a U. S. senatorial contest:

LINCOLN, March 26, 1890. I participated last night in the Third ward caucuses held in Baird's hardware store and am consequently in favor of Joseph Burns for councilman and shall support the ticket in the field for him at the primaries. I. M. RAYMOND.

ACTING under the advice of the attorney general, Secretary Windom is buying up Union Pacific and Central Pacific bonds. To an outsider it would appear that the government had had enough experience with the Pacific roads, which could be replaced mile for mile for less than half the money they are bonded for. Why purchases of shady securities should be made, we must confess, we can't understand. The money would be better lying idle in the treasury.

THERE has been so far no outbreak in the Indian school at Genoa against the rotten government of the United States and the state of Nebraska, notwithstanding General Van Wyck's inflammatory oration to the little Indians the other day. The red man is getting so civilized that he will soon cease to be of any account in this great country. A few short years ago the result of such a burst of eloquence before an aboriginal audience would have been war paint, whoops and scalp within forty-eight hours.—State Journal.

To build a city requires the united effort of many men. To support a city requires the judicious and unanimous support of all people in and about that city. What is the secret of Chicago's magic growth? It is not lucking and inharmonious of the resident citizens and business men, but united effort and continuous harmony in all public enterprises. It is the fruits of labor which bring happiness to the laborer and wealth to the employer. Encourage home enterprises which give employment to laborers and whose object is to build up your city and country.

PEOPLE who talk of the bitterness of the political personalities of the present time ought to have heard the late Robert C. Schenck and C. L. Vallandigham, who died twenty years ago, discuss each other in public. They were opposing candidates for congress in the Dayton district in the sixties. They were both perfect masters of vituperation, and in their speeches they dealt in nothing else. Schenck used to tell how the name of Vallandigham, the traitor, would go down to posterity with a load of infamy attached to it; how children then unborn would be taught to despise it and to groan at its mere mention. Next day Vallandigham would tell what the children would think and say of Schenck, "the petty tyrant of Baltimore, who, lacking the courage to face the foe in the field, made war upon innocent women and children, and filled the military prisons with them." Vallandigham was the more scholarly man of the two, and the more skillful in the use of words. "But what Schenck lacked in polish he made up in vigor. The crowds were always large, and violently partisan. There were no half-way people in the audiences of those days. The meetings, however, were generally conducted without any attempts at violence. If Schenck was speaking every man in the audience was a republican; if Vallandigham was on the stand his crowd was entirely democratic.—Globe Democrat.

THE GREAT REPUBLIC.

There are some eloquent figures which cannot be repeated too often and which men are too apt to forget. The fashion in which this great land has paid its debts, while others have increased theirs, is one of them. Here are the figures for just a quarter of a century, a mere span in the life of national debts:

Date	Principal	Int. rest
Aug. 13, 1865	$2,155,966,275	$1,822,661
March 4, 1869	$2,525,461,250	$1,939,570
" 1877	2,088,781,142	1,408,745
" 1881	1,679,910,207	713,657
" 1885	1,405,561,250	47,013,529
" 1889	865,162,929	41,660,000
" 1890	757,257,000	36,000,000

Reduction... $1,994,714,525... $125,000,000. While we have done this, Europe, with about five times our population, about four times our wealth, and twice our natural resources, has added to its national debt in the last twenty years $8,200,000,000, or over twice our total original debt, and the interest charge today is thirty fold our own. In 1845, when our figures began, Europe owed $15,000,000,000. It owes today over $25,000,000,000, it pays $1,088,000,000 a year interest and is loaded besides with $887,000,000 for military, war, and naval expenditures, including pensions, where our own are $130,000,000.

This is the lesson of liberty; these are the fruits of freedom, and the Great Republic, without debt, without an army, without a navy, goes on in the great race of prosperity and industrial supremacy, distancing these heavily loaded competitors.

Since General Grant was president of the United States it has happened but once that all three branches of the national government, whose assent is required to a law, were in the hands of the same party. The democratic party has not had control of all three since the first congress under Mr. Buchanan, for although it had a nominal majority in the second congress, yet it was divided so hopelessly on national policy that the Douglas democrats helped the republicans to elect their speaker rather than put one of the president's friends into the office. Now, after years of responsibility the republicans have the presidency, the senate and the house; and their majorities in the two latter, if not large, are sufficient to control the course of legislation, especially since the speaker effected the reduction of the rules to common sense. As a consequence the responsibility of the republicans is greater than in any recent congress, and the country will be quite justified in holding them responsible for any failure to pass those measures they have declared so vital for the welfare of the country.

The first should be a revision of the tariff bill, the proper adjustment of which will require more wisdom on the part of the national congress than any measure placed before that body since the war. The next measure demanding the immediate attention and of almost as much importance is the silver bill. Senator Stewart's silver bill should speedily be enacted into a law, the result of which would be most salutary especially in the west. And finally of great and nearly equal importance to the last is the ballot reform or election bill that will give the south as well as the north an opportunity to express an untrammelled opinion at the ballot box and have it registered as full and freely in Mississippi as in Nebraska. The passage of these three great measures together with safe economical legislation on smaller matters will in-republican supremacy and an honest administration of the government for many years. The republican party has always been equal to any emergency that faced it, and we believe it is the same patriotic organization today with nought in view save the welfare and the prosperity of the whole country.

"A TRUST has no right to live. It is a conspiracy against the welfare of the people, and its continued existence is a reproach to the public spirit and common sense of the public. Laws for the extinction of trusts coming within constitutional requirements and limitations, and at the same time rigid and comprehensive enough to accomplish the purpose in view, can be framed. The framing of them, however, is a task calling for great discrimination and delicacy."—Ex.

"It is worth noticing that 25,000 tons of American steel rails have just been sold in Mexico for the construction of a new railroad in that country. The President of the road says the cost was 'less than it would have been on the same quantity of European rails of the same grade.' In this connection, the following extract from a recent number of the London Iron and Coal Trade Review may be commended to our free-trade organs and orators: Protection, which, it was thought, would only impede the progress of the American iron industry, has proved to be the very 'rock of its salvation.' And much as we may regret the result for our own sake, the American people, it must be admitted, have shown a much keener appreciation of what was essential to their progress than our own doctrinaires would be willing to admit.

I hate the weeping pessimist that's always painting up his troubles with a cemetery hue. He sees a path, but gives a sign as if it were a ditch, and tries to throw it over everybody like a stone. He pines away at all he meets and tries to make you think that his is the bitterest of bitter drugs to drink. He tells you that his trouble is an overgrown cur. An' never stops to reason that it might be worse.—Chicago Herald.

TRUCK-DAY.

District Court Proceedings. Theo. Olson et al, vs. City of Plattsmouth; defendant given ten days in which to answer, and plaintiff filed a bill of particulars.

A. B. Smith vs. Carl M. Dodge, Moses Dodge and C. H. Parson; trial by court evidence submitted. On trial all day today.

Isaac Phillips et al, vs. Martin Kiker et al; defendant of Martin Kiker and Rachel Kiker called.

New Survey. The M. P. folks have just finished the survey of a new route through the city coming in from the south along the side of the west of Chicago avenue, through the Fitzgerald forty, northwesterly past east side of residence of Perry Galt, thence through the divide of the hollow back of John K. Adams and Dutton, crossing Main street a little west of the high culvert, coming out on the flat near the residence of A. Goldman, in the Second ward, thence in a straight line nearly to the old survey in the Shafter hollow. This is a very feasible route, it would place the depot ground probably east of Dr. Shippen's residence, a point that would come as near suiting everybody as any that could be named.

W. J. Hesser. The Herald has just turned out the handsomest catalogue of any we have seen this year, for Nebraska's leading florist, W. J. Hesser.

Mr. Hesser has a very large collection of fine plants of almost endless varieties, his collection of palms being the finest in the country west of Chicago. Nebraska people will find it greatly to their interest to buy home-grown plants, that will be sure to reach them in fine condition. Twenty years experience in this business has enabled Mr. Hesser to grow nothing but the best stock, which he sells at lowest prices.

The Hotel Riley. Omaha, Neb. Tonight the hotel Riley of Plattsmouth, owned and built by J. E. Riley, of this city, will be formally opened. A magnificent banquet is to signalize the event, and which some of the most distinguished personages in the state will assemble. The hotel is a bijou. It is richly furnished and decorated and supplied with every modern improvement enjoyed by the largest hostleries in the country.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Knapp and Mrs. Robt. Knapp, of Shenandoah, are visiting their daughters, Mrs. H. N. Duvoy and Mrs. Kelly Fox.

The outlook for busy times among the carpenters was never so good as at this time. Plenty of work at living prices is what makes every body prosperous.

In the county seat contest yesterday before the supreme court, motion to advance cause on the docket was agreed to and submitted on part of appellant. We will doubtless get a hearing this term.

Corn was selling in Superior last week for 17 cents per bushel, as a result of a falling competition. The advent of the Missouri Pacific will certainly be of immense benefit to our city as well as to the country adjoining.

A couple of fellows overloaded with democratic caucus, had quite a start last night on Main street; in the middle that followed a bartender got a smack in the face, and one of the Yankee boys that happened to be looking on received two or three blows that he won't forget for a day or two.

A very pleasant time was had last evening at a high-five social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Fox. The kin prize for 2000 cents was won by G. O. E. Duvoy; Mrs. J. M. Chase bore away the honors for the ladies. The guests booby prize fell to Mr. Gay Vandervoort, who for the 1000 cents was earned by Mrs. Maggie Duvoy.

It was clearly understood in the second ward, last night, that the only way neighbor Sherman secured a place on the delegation, was by permission of Col. Fred Koehler, who issued a proclamation to that effect, and told Sherman that if he behaved himself and acted right with the boys he might go on again. The Colonel seems to have a corner on the second and carries it with him.

Father Lynch went to Omaha this morning.

Bird Irish returned to Madison Neb. this morning.

Sam'l. Eccles returned to his Beatrice home this morning.

Mrs. Frank Bradley returned to her home at Alliance this morning.

Mrs. M. D. Polk and son Oakley are visiting relatives in Greenwood today.

Health Better Than Wealth. The doctor's advice appeals to all persons, especially to those who are in poor health, and who are unable to do their duty, but on whom the doctor's advice is made that their health is not what it should be.

Many ailments that may be relieved in a short period, only appear again or recur in time to time, and the doctor's advice is to take the medicine at the first, and early stages with the pressure of the water, and at length let in a rigid diet.

To guard against or to remove disease is the one and most important thing to remember in health or sickness.

To know whom to advise with should be our foremost duty, many do not get the public at large should demand and receive good medical advice for the preservation of health.

The Arakoff Medical Co., with its worldwide reputation in seeking to follow out the principles and aims of the eminent Russian physician, Dr. Arakoff, of Moscow, and his celebrated Russian Hospital treatment, has secured the services of an efficient and experienced medical corps, who will upon application give advice by letter free of charge to persons suffering from any form of disease.

A Lady's Perfect Companion. Our new book by Dr. John H. Dye, one of New York's most skillful physicians, shows that pain is not necessary in childbirth, but results from causes easily understood and overcome. It clearly proves that any woman may become a mother without suffering any pain whatever. It also tells how to overcome and prevent morning sickness and the many other evils attending pregnancy. It is highly endorsed by physicians everywhere as the wife's true private companion. Cut this out; it will save you great pain, and possibly your life.
