Jumbo Social.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. will give a Jumbo social, Friday evening, May 16th, in the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. This will be the first of a series of Dime socials to be given under their auspices. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Salt Lake Letter.

EDITOR HERALD:—I started from Omaha Tuesday at 2 o'clock and came to Denver, then took the Rio Grande and came across the mountain at or near Pikes Peak. At some future time will tell you more about the sights I saw. I will stay here till 4 o'clock this evening and go on to Portland. When I arrive there will tell you about what I saw on the journey. I assure you the sights are wonderful to behold. The most magnificent sight is the great mountains covered with perpetual snow. To climb the high mountains in the cars to the height of 11,000 feet above sea level and be in the winds of winter cold is something strange for May. The passengers got out of the cars and had a game of snow-balling. Salt Lake is something worth seeing.

Cut Rates.

CHICAGO, May 13.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—The era of $1 rates is at hand. It was inaugurated today by the Burlington, quoting a $1 rate between Kansas City and St. Louis. Word was also received that the Ohio & Mississippi had quoted the same rate between Cincinnati and St. Louis, though no explanation of the reduction could be learned. Early in the day the "Q" met the $1 rate from Kansas City to Chicago, but later countermanded the notice. The Alton now has as companions the Burlington and St. Paul in the attempt to make the situation as bad as possible and thus obtain a settlement. All agree that a season of $1 rates is the only way out of the difficulty.

HENRY J. STREIGHT, P. M.

The Louisville Courier Journal says that Young Degendorfer, while planting corn near Plattsmouth, was so blinded by the meteor which fell in western Iowa last week that he could not see to work until the next day. This was C. Whopper's meteor, it wasn't the HERALD meteor seen by Mr. Johns and Mr. Shoemaker.

Prof. Rakestraw.

Some two thousand years ago Caesar wrote: "All Gaul is divided into three parts." That shows the ignorance of Caesar or the need of a revision to his famous commentaries. Had he lived in this community, and written in our day he would have said: "All Gall is concentrated in Prof. Rakestraw."

The Professor is quoted as saying that he would now accept the position of superintendent of the schools only upon the following conditions:

That Prof. Ostrom resign and cease his connection with the schools; that the board of education resign; that the people elect an entirely new board upon the issue thus made; that such new board unanimously tender him the position of superintendent. Then he would probably accept.

All men have a streak of sublimity in their natures. With Prof. Rakestraw it is bigger than a streak, it is a broad glare of sublime cheek.

Unless the Professor can be induced to reconsider his determination it is much to be feared that our schools will be gall-darned.—Nebraska City Press.

Jumbo social Friday evening in the Y. M. C. A. rooms. Everyone invited to attend.

A NEWS reporter of Ft. Worth after hearing Sam Jones preach, criticised him in a manner that made Sam wrothy. Jones chanced to meet him and raked him over the coals as follows:

"I knew your folks in North Carolina. They are good members of the church; why don't you do better, you old long, hungry looking scape grace, you? your old nose looks like suspension bridge and your shoes like ferryboats. Your old fingers look like a muckrake, and your neck is stringy. I wouldn't be as mean as you are for six bits, you old pale gawk you. S'pose old Brother Southgate could see you now. Am't you a dandy. If you was kin to me I'd make you do better or I'd mash your mouth, you old reporter, you old news noser, you old Jones jotter you. I'd fix you, you old leoparded backslider you."

"Peggy's Navy-yard," by Charles Ledyard Norton, with four illustrations, showing different stages in the building and launching of a great ship, will be published in a four page supplement to the number of Harper's Young People, May 13th. William Hamilton Gibson's illustrated article in the same number will tell of the toad's "bagpipe" and the "pensive witchery" of his song.
