Jail Delivery.

Charley Edis gets into the public prints once more, this time as a jail breaker. The city jail is partitioned off on the north side of the jail and has a been used to fix up the plumbing; Ellis seems to have found a pick under the floor which he used industriously by digging out under the wall, last Saturday night. A woodpile out side was in his way but he pulled the sticks inside under the floor which is about 3 feet high, and thus secured his liberty. A glance at the jail and surroundings clear the sheriff from any blame whatever. It is only a wonder that some one has not got out of the city jail before this.
