Trial of Davies' Assailants. The outcome of the shameful attack made upon Mr. John A. Davies yesterday afternoon by the man Askins and young Sage, is a long and tedious trial of the assailants today in the county court to a jury upon the charge of assault and battery, Attorneys A N. Sullivan and D O. Dwyer, proscenting County Attorney Gering being a ent from the city, and Attorneys O. H. Hallou and S. P. Vanatta, defending. A multitude of witnesses has been introduced and at this writing the case is being are u d to the jury.

As to the facts in the case, there seemed to be but little contention except some witnesses did not see Sage as an attacking party, but that Askins continued his attack and Davies only trying to avoid his assailant, seemed to be the impression of most all the witnesses.

No matter what the verdict of the jury may be in this case, the HERALD has no disposition to write up inflammatory articles that may keep men arrayed against | each other, but prefer to see peace and harmony among our citizens,

Some weeks ago, it will be remembered one of the large flint plate glass was broken at night time in the O'Neill Misses Maude and Alice Ray arrived building in which Gering & Co keep their drug business. It was a mystery,, till within a week or two ago, who the perpetrater of the deed was, when it came to light that a company of young men were loitering about the front of the store, and it is alleged that one, Jack Rev. Quist. pastor of the Swedish Hanrahan, of the company struck the glass with a shrub, shattering it to pieces, then the parties present agreed among themselves not to divulge the name of the guilty party, and that one of the police knew the whole party, but remained quietabout the matter because his brother was connected with it, and thereby shifted the blame on to Jim Grace for not being more vigilant and preventing the unlawful act. But not long agoit came out who the guilty ones were and they very gladly compromised the matter with O, Neill by as we have been able to gather them. that Hanrahan' intentionally struck the glass and broke it, the other boys knew of it, one officer knew it and because hat efficer's younger brother was connected with it they all concealed it, till pushed to give it away, then came forward and paid the sum above named.

The Final Debate and Vote in the Senate.

CONFERENCE REPORT AGREED TO

The Republicans Caucus as to the Method of Proceeding in the Face fillibustering Against the Elections Bill-Wyoming a State.

WASHINGTON, July 11 .- Mr. Morgan poke for three hours and closed with an appeal to senators not to allow to enator from Ohio (Mr. Sherman) to hrast his stilletto again into silver.

He was followed by Mr. Call, who arned against the conference bill, suggesting that it was only a variation of the Farmers' Alliance warehouse bill. mouth fire department at their meeting and that the only difference was that in the case of silver it was to be bought

Mr. Plumb said that in the particulars which he regarded as essential the bill was comparatively unobjectionable -supposing always that a compromise had to be made. The conference bill weald give to the country as much me ey during the next year as the free pleage of silver would give. The amount of treasury notes now issued at the present price of silver was about $30,000,000; under the conference bill it could not be less than $60,000,000, and would probably be $70,000,000. That was a very important gain.

Mr. Vance-How long will that last? Mr. Plumb-Just as long as silver is roduced and the act remains on the tainte books. Failing to get the conurrence of the other house, sitting under he shadow of a presidential veto that has been freely threatened (no doubt without authority) we shall get out of this whole controversy more than we have ever gaine I since the days of the greenback issue, to the financial well-being of the country. We shall get that which will prevent serious financial disturbance in the coming season. It is 50 per cent. better than anything I expected to get when I learned the result in the house of representatives. Mr. Vance-It is admitted that the bill is not what it ought to be. mon sense would dictate, then, that we try to make it what it ought to be. Mr. Vance went on to argue that the bill would not result in an increase of the currency, inasmuch as the four or five millions of treasury notes issued each month for silver would be presented at the treasury and exchanged for gold coin and would then be used for the next month's purchase; and so on.

This suggestion of Mr. Vance's was influented by Mr. Alason. it as different from free coinage as night is from day; and because he feared that its rejection might result in the passage of a free coinage bill. In the course of his remarks Mr. Delph referred satirically to the change of views of senators who had voted for free couage and who now favored the confer-

Mr. Teller resented this allusion to ...mself and others, and said that he had noticed that the people who were the most fearful of the mancial situation were those who were most ignorant on the subject. He admitted that there was no free coinage in the conference bill, but he insisted that, objectional as not be able to give the verdict till it was to him because it was not free coinage, it was a step in the direction of free coinage. He (Mr. Teller) had never been afraid of an executive vets But when senators had exhausted their efforts to secure that which they be lieved the best interests of the country required, they were justified in accept-

Mr. Mitchell said that he had voted for Mr. Plumb's free coinage amendment because he favored it, and because the people of Oregon favored it. As he could not get the bill he desired he would give to the conference bill his arnest and unqualified support. Mr. Blair said that after listening to one senator from Oregon (Mr. Dolph o found in the bill a gold standard. and to the other senator from Oregon (Mr. Mitchell) who found in it free coinage, and to the senator from Kansas Mr. Plumb) who was satisfied that it was a free coinage bill, and to the sen ator from Colorado (Mr. Teller) who vas not satisfied with it precisely, he Mr. Blair) thought he would vote for it. The vote was then taken, and the conference report was agreed to-yeas, 52: nnys, 26—as follows:

Mr. Outhwaite, as soon as the prayer was delivered, raised the point of "no quorum." Proving to the British That Our Live Stock Are Free from Disease. Washington, July 11 -In February last Secretary Rusk represented to the state department that contagious animal diseases had been so effectually stamped out in this country as to war rant that department in urging upon the British authorities the perfect safety of removing their irksome and unjust restrictions imposed on the shipment of American live cattle and sheep to Great Britain. Secretary Rusk declared that the time had come when our diplomatic office in London should make an effort to secure this concession in behalf of our greatest industries. Negotiations were at once inaugurated by the state department resulting in the removal of the restrictions relative to sheep, contingent apon action by this government which wild prevent the introduction of discas of sheep into this country. The b. tish government, however, persisted in his refusal to grant any concession regardin, live cattle, alleging the confinued existence of contagious pleuromeumonia in the United States, and that cattle affected with this disease had been discovered in recent shipments to Great Britain from this country.

Secretary Rusk met this allegation with a prompt denial and the proposition that his department should be repsented in Great Britain by veterinary inspectors, charged with the duty of inspecting all American cattle landed in that country. The department of state adopted the secretary's suggestion a:4 as finally effected an arrangemen. brough Minister Lincoln, for the appeintment of three inspectors for the purpose indicated. The secretary ha already taken steps to carry out this arrangement, and the inspectors have been appointed. One wilt be stationed it Liverpool, one at London and one at Glasgow. They will sail for Europe at mce, accompanied by Dr. Salmon, chief of the bureau of animal industry, and also by a special agent. The secretary said that the restrictions of the British dovernment upon the importation of beef cattle from this country, upon the groundless plea of continued existence of contagious disease in the United States, were unjustifiable and had lasted long enough. He now proposes to prove satisfaction that British authorities no diseas; exists in this country to war-rant these restrictions. If maintained Mr. Dolph said that he would vote for in spite of this evidence, some other cause must be assigned for them. said further that as soon as legislation now pending was enacted he would institute a thorough system of inspection of cattle for export in this country, and all cattle exported would be so tagged that should disease of any kind be dis-

Long Debate Over the Programme on the Washington, July 11. - The Republican members of the senate held a caucus to consider the order of business for the rest of the present session of congress with reference to the federal election law and the tariff bill. It has been understood generally that the Democratic members of the senate intend to prevent the passage of the Federal elec-tion law if possible, and to achieve this purpose they are prepared to filibuster against the tariff bill and any other measure which may be brought up for consideration with a view to prolonging the session and tiring the Republicatsenators into agreement to a compronise by which the Federal election law will be allowed to go over until the next

Members of the finance committee who are interested in the enacting of a tariff law have urged upon their brethren the advisability of coming to an understanding with the Democrats, under which the tariff bill will be passed within a reasonable time and the Federal election bill allowed to go over. But friends of the election bill have brought a great deal of pressure to bear in favor of forcing that measure to a passage before the adjournment, and with a view of testing the possibilities of action they have examined the rules of the senate and the record of past contests under similar rules. The result justified them in the belief that in spite of the filibustering of the Democ. its the bill could be passed. In support of this claim it was recalled in the caucus that when the bill to provide for supervisors of election was under consideration in 1871. Mr. Thurman offered, one after another, thirty amendments, intended to delay the consideration of the bill, and by concerted and agreed action by the republicans, under which one Re-publican senator was recognized regularly to move to lay each amendment on the table, all of these dilatory amendments were disposed of within twentyfour hours. It was proposed that the senate should sit out the consideration of the elections bill if it took three months. This proposition was debated at great length.

An agreement was finally reached by which the postal subsidy bills, which have been under debate for several days. will be taken up to-day with a view to taking a vote on them before adjournment, and that on Saturday the sundry civil appropriation bill will be called up.

The caucus adjourned at 11:10, with the understanding that another caucus will be held Saturday night to come to a final determination on the subject.
