For the month of Sept. 1889.
Mean temperature 61.1°
Highest 89° on the 1st.
Lowest 31°
Rainfall 2 1/2 inches.
The last part of the month of Sept. 1890 was remarkably still and quiet. First half of month moderate winds. Temperature of spring water 52°

Two new switch engines of the mogul pattern, numbered 269 and 250, with six drive wheels were received here by the B & M folks this morning.

Everybody come to the Presbyterian church this evening. Ladies tea at five o'clock. Supper from 6 to 9 to which the gentlemen are especially invited to attend. Tea 25c; supper 25c; oyster supper 35c.

C. O. Bates of district No. 72 is determined to have a school house erected in accordance with the wishes of the voters in that vicinity; and on yesterday he filed a petition in the Supreme Court, asking for a peremptory writ of mandamus, compelling the Board to have the work done.

Dave Young's little boy, residing near Murray, fell from a tree yesterday and dislocated both wrists. Dr. Brendle dressed the injured members, which were very painful, and the little fellow is getting along all right.

Bird Critchfield borrowed a gun of Will Streight and went hunting yesterday afternoon. If the feathered tribe understood themselves they would wink complacently as Bird aims his shot gun in their propinquity—they are perfectly safe.

Joe Tighe brother of the Sheriff, from Bradshaw is in the city today.

Republican Speaking.

From Fridays Daily
Republican speakers are booked for Cass county for the following dates:
Elmwood, Saturday, Oct. 18th, afternoon and evening, Hon. J. Caldwell, of Lincoln and Rev. J. G. Tate.
Weeping Water, Saturday October 25th, afternoon and evening, L. D. Richards, candidate for governor, John L. Webster and Hon. J. C. Watson.

Plattsmouth, November 1st, L. W. Colby and others.
Other and more recent dates will be announced as soon as arrangements are made from headquarters.

New Elevator at Elmwood.
The Missouri Pacific have granted to the Elmwood alliance, 150 feet of ground from their right of way, for the purpose of allowing the association the privilege of building an elevator thereon. Editor Mayfield consummated the arrangements and secured the necessary papers from Rathboun on Tuesday at Omaha.—Weeping Water Republican.

And yet Mayfield is a radical republican. Where was the people's party of Elmwood that they did not do this, they were probably posing as reformers but as usual they failed to reform.

Good Authority.
The following good words appeared in the Weeping Water Republican, written by a prominent resident of that city. The millennium is doubtless getting in its work:
"We left Iowa on Sunday and stopped at Plattsmouth until Wednesday, with Postmaster Streight and family. We were driven over that city and saw where the M. P. have graded for new depot grounds, and were surprised to see the amount of building going on. We attended the Cong. convention on Tuesday evening and listened to some stirring speeches by our next governor, Sam Majors, W. J. Connell and others. We got home Wednesday night after a week's very pleasant vacation."

The HERALD together with every citizen of Plattsmouth is very sorry to learn that Mr. J. V. Weckbach's condition is much worse, and that at a consultation with local and Omaha physicians Wednesday no assurance of recovery was had. We hope that the worst fears of his friends may not be realized, and that the dread ravages of disease may be stayed. He seemed to be affected for a time with kidney trouble and of late strong symptoms of paralysis have attended him which causes the serious alarm.

E. H. Wooley as attorney for the Western Engineering company has engaged T. L. Murphy, James Fitzgerald, Richey Bros. and Wm. Tighe, the sheriff from leaving on and selling any of the street railway property awaiting the outcome of a suit now pending by this plaintiff against the street railway company in the U. S. court. They also ask that a receiver be appointed to care for the property and account to the court.

Silas Long is plastering and building over the residence on his Eight Mile Grove farm.

Chilly, oh chilly are growing the nights,
The honkers are southward flying in flocks,
The maiden her bean to the parlor invites,
For we've passed the autumnal equinox:
Soon the shivering robin will cease his lay,
And swathe his throat in a flannel band,
And the hungry tramp be steering his way
From the north to the sunny southern land.
—Boston Courier

Rev. Meredith, of St. Louis, will lecture in the Presbyterian church tomorrow evening.

The Rock Island bridge across the Platte at South Bend is nearing completion, the iron being laid two thirds of the way across.

George O'Neill, is erecting a fine cottage in O'Neill's addition, where he expects to reside; Wm. Royal & Son, being the contractors.

Four weeks from Tuesday next, will come the fatal frost, and nip many a precocious political boom, that would better be had ne'er been born.

The Moore residence in the west part of the city is large, convenient and will be heated with steam. Lew is evidently determined to have some solid comfort this winter.

The HERALD calls attention to the advertisement of the new lumber firm in another column. They are here to do business, and will make prices that will give them their full share of the trade.

C. S. Dawson is busily engaged today putting a boiler in his cellar, preparatory to heating his beautiful riverside cottage with steam this winter. We know of no one that could or ought to enjoy the comforts of life better than Mr. Dawson.

Ben Ward returned Monday from Yuma, Colorado, where he owned a stock of hardware, which he brought back with him, and has opened up a hardware store in this place, in the building just north of Nichol's store. Success to you Mr. Ward.—Louisville Advertiser.

The Presbyterian ladies are splendid entertainers, and their church festivities last evening were no exceptions to the rule. There was the best of refreshments and a crowd that from appearances had been fasting for a day or two in order to get their money's worth, and no one doubted but what they got it.

The benighted Bryan delivered his basket of chestnuts to an expectant audience at Union last night. H. D. Travis also held the boards and preached democracy as "it is, carefully avoiding any reference to it as "it used to be." The converts to the Bryan faith were not observable to the naked eye.

Charley Cherry wagered a dollar with Col. Dick Barr the associate editor of the Independent Eagle, that he, Barr, could not tell the difference between a hill of beans and a hill of corn. It is needless to add the colonel lost the $1. This is one horse or Dick.—Weeping Water Republican.

The "Jolly Six" met at Miss Dora Fricke's to celebrate her birthday in an appropriate manner last evening. Miss Fletcher appeared in place of Barbara Gerig while Janet Livingston's place remained vacant. The girls had a delightful time, the young hostess serving elegant refreshments and entertaining the company in a satisfactory manner. The favors were friendship cakes tied with pink ribbons and were very pretty. At the breaking up of the party all heartily joined in wishing the fair Dora many happy birthday anniversaries.

The visit of a HERALD representative at republican headquarters in Lincoln yesterday was decidedly pleasant. The news from all over the state grows better every day. An educational campaign is always fraught with disaster to the democratic party, and that is exactly the kind of campaign that is being carried on by the republicans this fall. McKieghan started out with flying colors, he is now on the defensive and his alliance republican followers are deserting him at an alarming rate. Connell's election is conceded by the best posted men in both parties, a prominent democrat in Lincoln says Connell's majority will be more than 2,000 in the district.

Cook Wont Come.

From Saturdays Daily.
A telegram just received, bears the information that Fred Kroehler's requisition papers were held bad in Des Moines today and that he will have to come home alone. Clint evidently feels elated at his victory.

The Journal in trying to explain one of its customary bad breaks takes occasion to say that Col. Kroehler is a constable acting under the authority of the county attorney. We did not know before that the county attorney had any authority in that direction. We supposed Mr. Kroehler was elected to his office by the votes of the people.

H. J. Streight, our postmaster, went to Lewis, Iowa this morning to see his grand-mother who has arrived at the remarkable age of 99 years. The old lady is the mother of Mr. Streight's mother and is still hale and hearty never having been sick but one day in her life. She was living when Geo. Washington was president of the United States and might if the opportunity had been afforded have seen and remembered that distinguished personage.

Demorest Contest.

W. Jennings Demorest of New York City, proprietor of the Demorest fashion magazine has arranged for a series of elocutionary contests for which he supplies free of expense, silver, gold and diamond medals to be awarded to the successful competitors under certain conditions. The diamond medal contest will be held in Omaha the last of this month. Over 10,000 medals have been distributed since the work began in 1886. Mr. Demorest is in this way giving from $200 to $300 towards prohibition in Nebraska every month as all the recitals are in favor of prohibition and are selected by the superintendent.

The first contest in this city took place last night at the Methodist church and was not attended as largely as it should have been owing to the threatening weather, the second contest will be at the same church on the 17th of this month.

The first thing on the program was a song by a quartette composed of Mr. and Mrs. Groom, Mrs. Loverin and Mr. Charles Brown. It was a good selection and was well rendered. The first speaker was Margaret Davis who has a pleasant, easy delivery and appropriate gestures. The song which followed by Mrs. Burris, "Dare I Tell," delighted the audience.

Bessie Gyger had a selection very suitable to her voice and manner; her effort was quite an elocutionary triumph and won her the silver medal. Nettie Waybright had a very difficult selection and acquitted herself with credit. Messrs. A. F. Groom and Johnnie Moore favored the audience with a good duet that was well received. Rose Myers had a selection that did not give her voice full scope. She has a good strong voice well modulated and did well. Emma Poissall spoke with much fervor and animation and had her subject been more thoroughly memorized would have been among the first. Mrs. Burrus sang "Tit for Tat" and completely captured the audience. Blanche Kennedy spoke remarkably well and gave Bessie Gyger a close chase for first place. Miss Lizzie Bibby presided at the organ. Everyone was so well pleased with the entertainment that the next one will be greeted with a crowded house.

An adjourned meeting of the Cass County Agricultural society is in session this afternoon at the court house.

C. O. Berger today purchased the Mart Ruby farm near Eight Mile Grove of Cal. Parme for $5,600—$35 per acre.

George Edgerton, of Stanberry, Mo., where he pulls an engine for the Wabash, is seeing his Plattsmouth friends today.

A. C. Mayes, the county surveyor, left this morning for Adair county, Iowa, where he will be detained for about a week.

Jesse McVey received by express this morning a very fine Poland China porker that will be a valuable addition to his herd of blooded swine.

Eighty cars of material for the Rock Island was sent out of the yards here yesterday for Louisville and South Bend. An average of fifty cars a day has been handled here for several days.

Albert Streich, aged 26 and Mary Dittman, aged 19, both of this county, received a permit to wed. Mr. Charles V. Howard, aged 35 and Miss Clio Floyd, aged 23, residing near South Bend, received a similar parchment, yesterday evening.

James McGee, one of the graders, got too full last night for a peaceable and law abiding citizen and was landed in the bastille. Judge Archer administered on his estate this morning to the amount of $5 and costs. Being a little short financially he was sent to board out the amount with that popular landlord, Mr. Wm. Tighe.

The genial goodnatured Billy Woodard has sold the city laundry to young Cal Walton's stepfather, Mr. I. S. McReary, who will continue to run it in first class style. Mr. McReary is a colored man of large experience in laundry work. Mrs. Woodard is in St. Joe at the bedside of her mother who is reported to be dangerously ill.

S. A. Davis the agent of the Standard Oil company in this city, received two carloads of coal oil and gasoline last week. Mr. Davis informs us that his average sales for the year is considerably above one hundred barrels per month, and he has noticed quite an increase in consumption, notwithstanding the growth of the electric light, and gas plants. Plattsmouth demands and receives a great deal of light.

It is quietly rumored in political circles that Bird Critchfield has gone out in to the second district to meet McKieghan. He is expected to tackle him in joint debate as the "unknown" and will if we are not mistaken knock out the galvanized Irishman in the first round. He went to Hastings incog. last night and may meet the public enemy there. Critchfield's movements are kept secret that his identity may not be discovered; we trust our readers will say nothing about it until he gets McKieghan paralyzed.

J. C. Brown the gentlemanly advance agent of the Andrews Opera company, came in last night, and on account of having an open date his company will give us "The Pretty Persian," a comic opera of great beauty; the costumes being oriental and very handsome. The "corps du ballet" is not large but it makes up in style what it lacks in numbers. The company is composed of thirty people and ought to have a good house Monday night.

A grey team belonging to some one herein town came near being killed yesterday afternoon. It seems the driver did not wait to see if the track was clear, but bolted right ahead to cross the tracks at the foot of Main street; at the same time switch engine No. 22, which was hid from view by a line of box cars, was bearing down toward the crossing at a lively rate. But the vigilant eye of Engineer Joe Lloyd saw the danger in time to avert it, and stopped his engine within less than six inches of the team, which by that time were standing square across the track.

THE TRUTH ABOUT IT

To read the democratic Journals, one would suppose the McKinley bill was a gigantic scheme to bankrupt the people; worse and more far reaching in extent, than a scourge of pestilence or famines. This tirade of the democratic press is largely hypocritical with a strong sprinkling of ignorance, for as a matter of fact the Mills bill which they all espoused so warmly, did not put as much on the free list as the McKinley bill, and neither did it reduce the aggregate of the tariff more than one half as much. A very clean plain statement of this tariff matter is given by Mr. Dingley, of Maine, a member of the conference committee, who is as profound a student of the tariff as there is in either house. He says:

"I affirm that it is a measure to diminish the burdens of the people and increase the prosperity of the country. The protective policy proceeds on the assumption that a duty imposed upon an article which we cannot produce is a tax which increases the cost of such article to the consumer to the extent of the duty; but that a protective duty imposed upon an article which we can produce here substantially to the extent of our wants is not a tax which increases the burden of the consumer. This is due to the fact that the duty in the latter case simply secures the production or manufacture of the article here instead of abroad at the lowest price possible with the payment of wages of labor 77 per cent higher on the average in this country than in Europe; and this encouragement of home industries not only makes everything cost the consumer less than in any other country in the world, but also exerts a potent influence in reducing the cost of production by giving a stimulus to skill and inventive genius. Carrying out this protective policy the proposed tariff transfers to the free list imports which in the last fiscal year were valued at $109,323,090, and which paid a duty in this case a tax on consumers amounting to $6,936,536. The Mills bill so called transferred less than $23,000,000 to the free list. The effect of this large addition to the free list is to make nearly 50 per cent. of the imports into the United States absolutely free of duty inasmuch as on the basis of last years imports the value of those which are to be admitted free of duty under the proposed tariff would be $366,806,710, against $375,624,987, dutiable. This would give us the largest measure of 'freedom of trade' ever accorded by any tariff in this country. Indeed, prior to 1820 almost no imports were admitted free of duty. Even under the so-called 'low tariff' of 1846 the imports free of duty were only 12 per cent; under the Mills bill the free goods would have only 40 per cent, while under the proposed McKinley tariff nearly 50 per cent of all our imports will be absolutely free of duty. When it is borne in mind that the articles transferred to the free list by the proposed tariff includes such materials used by our manufacturing industries as jute, jute butts, manilla, sisal grass, nickel and nickel plate, and such articles of food as sugar, moasses and dried currants, the importance of this legislation will be appreciated. The proposed tariff not only reduces the revenue (estimated at $50,000,000) but also reduces the average rate of duty on all imports (which of course is the true measure of the tariff) from 30 per cent ad valorem under the present law to 27 per cent ad valorem, against 28 1/2 per cent proposed by the Mills bill. In 1830 the average duty on all imports was 43 1/2 per cent; in 1868, under our war tariff, it was 46 1/2 per cent. The proposed reduction of the average duty on all imports to 27 per cent shows how large has been the tariff reduction which has been made by the republican party since the war, and is a sufficient answer to the unfounded charge that we are maintaining the war tariff.
