Rock Creek, is all right again. But he thinks he will stop trying to make a squirrel of himself by trying to go from the top of one tree to the top of another without going down to the ground.

Mrs. Dr. Reynolds is recovering very slowly from the injury that she received two weeks ago in account of the runaway of the Doctor's team. Inflammation set in and she has been very poorly and is still confined to her bed, unable to sit up at all, but is thought to be improving.

Mrs. Fisher of Roanoke, Ill., and a niece of Robert Fitch of this place, came to make him a visit last Saturday. They had not seen each other for thirty-five years, not since they were school children away back in old Virginia. But strange as it may seem each claims to have recognized the other. He recognized her because she looks the very picture of his sister; and she recognized him in account of the large and prominent nose peculiar to the Fitch family.

Cotner University Notes.
BETHANY HIGHTS, Lincoln, Neb., We are truly thankful to the HERALD for having published the items sent from here two weeks ago, so we will send you another excuse of a letter.

The students of Cotner have settled down to business in dead earnest for the coming year. Our numbers are steadily increasing and before the end of the year we expect to have enrolled at least one hundred and twenty-five students.

A number of Cotner's students paid a visit to one of the literary societies of the Wesleyan University last evening, and report having listened to an interesting program.

The Delphian and the Athenian literary societies of our own University now hold their meetings in their own respective hall, which are in the fourth story of the building. The Delphian society has incorporated under the state laws and is therefore the first society of the institution.

We are about to organize a military company here of about forty cadets, with Lieutenant Griffith of the State University as drill master.

Bethany Hights has grown to be quite a village, as there are as many as fifty dwellings within less than half a mile of the University.

There is a lumber yard owned by Mr. Stevens, at the switch of the M. P. R. R. track three quarters of a mile south of here, and is doing a good business.

The store of general merchandise owned by M. A. Rathbun, two blocks south of the University campus is doing a splendid business.

The Christian Educational Board has caused to be erected on the campus a green house in which to store the University flowers. This is a large and commodious structure; is heated by steam and is already filled with many beautiful plants and flowers of different varieties. It compares well with the green house owned by W. J. Hesser near Plattsmouth, with the exception that it has no mammoth century plant nor large climbing rose bush. It is cared for by a Mr. Mosier.

The congregation at Bethany Hights numbers about one hundred members. They have no church but hold service in the University. Prof. A. P. Ayilsworth who is vice president of the college does most of the preaching.

We have a good attendance at Sunday School here; also have a Young People's Christian Endeavor which meets every Sunday evening and whose meetings are growing more and more interesting.

The president of the college, D. R. Dungan A. M., went to Iowa last Friday to hold a debate with a Catholic priest on the subject, "The Catholic Church, the only true church." But when he arrived there, lo, the bird had flown. Tomorrow evening there will be held a meeting of the citizens of Bethany Hights to devise means for carrying on the campaign this fall, in favor of the prohibitory amendment. We can say for the people of Bethany Hights that they are in for prohibition with fists and heels and all their might.

Last Tuesday evening was celebrated the first anniversary of Cotner University. During the evening we were favored with a short address by Mr. Cotner of Omaha, the man for whom our University is named, and an essay by Dr. Warren, a student of the medical department of the college. But the pre-eminent feature of the program was the lecture delivered by Prof. J. A. Beattie A. M. who is one of our best workers.

We will endeavor to secure a copy of Prof. Beattie's lecture and send it to the HERALD for publication in the near future. Enough for this time.

The Strauss Opera.

The Strauss Opera Company will give their entertainment in Omaha Saturday afternoon and evening, and also on Sunday evening. The B. & M. will sell round trip tickets to parties of 25 or more, for a fare and one-third, good returning the next day after date of sale. Many of our Plattsmouth people will probably take advantage of hearing this world renowned musical organization and attend one of their performances.

gown as ornaments of the party, and the... of Paul Lislimon.

By and by he saw the planter leave the box to order the carriage at the close of the performance.

Determined to watch to the last, he quitted the pit at the same moment, and reached the porch before the theater in time to see Augustus and Camilla enter the carriage that was waiting for them.

He also heard the brief dialogue that passed between them at the door of the vehicle.

But the indignation of the honest sailor was unbounded when he saw Augustus take his seat in the carriage by the side of Camilla.

He thought that his Captain's new friend was betrayed, and immediately resolved to know the truth.

As the carriage drove off, he flung himself into the roadway, almost under the hoofs of the horses of other vehicles in order to follow that which contained Camilla and the planter.

In this manner he pursued it until it turned out of the principal thoroughfare.

Then, favored by the obscurity of the street and the darkness of the night, he sprang forward, and clambering like a monkey, contrived to seat himself on the board at the back of the vehicle.

He was sufficiently well acquainted with New Orleans to recognize the quarter through which they drove; and when the carriage stopped, he slipped noiselessly from his position, and, lurking in the shadow, watched Camilla and Augustus as they entered the gambling-house.

He saw enough to convince him that some description of treachery was on foot, and that in any case, Paul Lislimon's happiness was in danger.

The carriage drove off without the black coachman having noticed Joe; and the sailor had ample time to examine the exterior of the house, and the street in which it was situated.

He recognized the locality as Columbia street.

Then, without a moment's hesitation, he ran to the quay, and got a boat to convey him on board the Amazon.
