

The North-West.

From Thursday Daily. J. W. Barnes, one of Plattsmouth's genial, wholesome, old time residents, stopped over here with friends and made the HERALD a pleasant call this morning. Mr. Barnes is still largely interested in Dakota, especially in the towns of Hot Springs, Custer, Rapid City and the promising tin mining town of Hill City, which will be the next station on the new B. & M. line that leaves the New Castle line at Siding No. 7. The road will be completed to Hill City next week, a distance of sixty miles from the main line at Siding 7. Mr. Barnes is very enthusiastic about the mineral wealth of that country, and thinks that the tin mines will revolutionize business in the north-west. The Harney Peak Mining Co. has a capital of $3,000,000 and a pay roll as big as the B. & M. Shops. The McKinley bill has quickened the tin business to such a point that much capital is flowing in there from all points, which makes money plenty and every kind of business good. Mr. Barnes is interested in forty three mining claims in the tin district that he thinks are bonanzas. The outlook for that country as a great home market for our fertile fields is indeed very flattering. But Bryan and the free traders generally would rather help England by shipping our stuff there than to build up a gigantic market at our doors that would use Nebraska's surplus. But there are not enough Bryans in this country to bring about their era of free trade, consequently the West will continue to develop and prosper.

Death of Harry Steele. From the Lincoln Journal we clip the following account of the death of Harry Steele, which is given more fully than was printed in the HERALD yesterday: "Shortly after midnight yesterday Harry Steele, employed as a freight brakeman on the B. & M., received injuries at Chalco, a short distance this side of Omaha, from which he died in about five hours. He was working on a westbound freight train. The train had been cut in two. Steele was on the forward portion, to which the engine was attached, and while it was backing walked off the end opposite the engine. His body fell outside the track, but the advancing wheels passed over both thighs. It is said that Steele endeavored even then to pull his legs from the cars, but the wheels of the next truck passed over both ankles. He was put into the way car at once and brought to Lincoln with all possible speed. At 2 o'clock Dr. Everett reached him, but was powerless to aid him and he died at 6 o'clock in the way car, from which it was impossible to remove him. The deceased was formerly employed at the Depot hotel and made his headquarters in this city since beginning work for the company. He was about 22 years old, and has a brother employed as a Burlington conductor in this city. His remains were taken east yesterday afternoon for interment at Lafayette, Ind., where his parents reside, the brother accompanying them.

A Surprise Party. Tuesday evening about twenty friends of Guy Vandevort got together at the home of Miss Mattie Smith, and at eight o'clock they proceeded in a body to the Vandevort mansion, where Master Guy was indeed completely surprised. A delightful evening was had by the young folks and when Mrs. V. crowned the event with a delicious repast, all agreed it was pleasant to be there. The particular occasion for the party was a sort of a general good bye and happy send off for the young man who will soon be a resident of Somerset, Ky. Those present were Masters Harry Miller, Glen Carruth, Henry Snyder, Hal Johnson, James Newell, Frank Ballance, Tom Chapman, Joe Knotts, Luke Wiles and Charles Sullivan. The young ladies were Alice Peterson, Anna Sullivan, Clair Green, Minnie Doane, Sue Mathews, Lottie Cooper, Mattie Smith and Alice Miller.

Died. Miss Mary Egenberger at Denver on Monday evening of this week of mountain fever after an illness of only four days. The deceased was a sister of J. V. Egenberger, jr., of this city and was born in Germany 22 years ago. She came to this country about four years ago and spent the first two years in this city, the last two she lived in Omaha. About four weeks ago she made up her mind to go to Denver for her health which seemed to be on the decline and how unfortunate her trip was has already been told. The remains were brought in on the flyer last evening and the funeral which was largely attended took place at ten o'clock this morning from the Catholic church, Rev. Father Carney officiating. A father and several sisters in Germany together with one brother here, are left to mourn the loss of a dutiful daughter and affectionate sister.

Married. Slapnicka-Dohy.—At the court house at Plattsmouth, October 14, 1890, at 6:30 o'clock p. m. Mr. Benedikt Slapnicka, aged 35, and Miss Annie Dohy, aged 25, both of Plattsmouth, Judge Ramsey officiating.

Louisville experienced a jail delivery last night. Two men were arrested during the evening by Marshal Spence, charged with stealing some clothing and a revolver. They were placed in the village bastille, a heavy limestone structure with walls two and a half feet thick; yet during the night a hole was made through the wall and the prisoners escaped. From the nature of the aperture it is evident that they had assistance from the outside.

A Base Falsehood.

From Friday's Daily. The following clipped from the Weeping Water Eagle shows to what extent the reformers (i) will go to make a point in their favor. The B. & M. foremen do not try to vote their men and could not do it if they did. The easiest way to defeat a measure in the shops would be for the foremen to attempt to dragoon their men into the support of a particular man or measure. The foremen have too much sense and respect for the opinions of those about them to even think of such a proceeding.

PLATTSMOUTH, October 8, 1890. Editor Eagle. It is understood around here that all the men in the B. & M. shops are going to vote the old ticket, but it is because they cannot help themselves. The company have got them by the neck and they tell them to vote their way or get out, so the laborers will have it to do.

A LABORER. The tendency of the above writer is toward democratic campaign oratory, his methods and style are peculiarly democratic; the distance from the truth, and the careless manner that he shows in drawing on his imagination, marks him as a coming man for stump oratory. He should stop writing squibs under a nom de plume and join Bryan at once.

Four cars of extra piling were received for the M. P. last night.

The Missouri Pacific has located the new elevators on the bank just west of the depot sites. The freight depot will be immediately north of Mr. Neville's residence, and the passenger depot west of Mr. Neville's residence.

The Louisville Advertiser says business has fully doubled in volume since the completion of their Platte river bridge. What would be the logical result of a bridge across the Missouri here? It would do us more good than a new railroad.

Connell and Bryan at Wahoo.

WAHOO, Neb. Oct. 16.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—The greatest political event of this season in Saunders county occurred here today. It was the joint discussion between Hon. W. J. Connell and W. J. Bryan. The discussion occurred in the opera house and the building was taxed to its utmost capacity, even standing room being at a premium, and many went away unable to gain admission. Bryan had the opening and occupied forty-five minutes in denouncing the McKinley bill, and was applauded but sparingly. Mr. Connell on taking the platform was cheered to the echo, and for one and a half hours he discussed the tariff bill, the silver bill and reviewed the work of the last session of congress in a masterly way, and was continually applauded and greeted with round after round of cheers. He had the sympathy of the audience and it was said by many who heard the speeches at Lincoln and Omaha that Connell discounted his former efforts, and Mr. Bryan frankly admitted that his opponent made the best argument he had yet made in the joint discussion, and that he had the best of it. It is freely conceded by all that Mr. Connell carried away the lion's share of the honors and will receive again a handsome majority at the hands of Saunders county people, whom he formerly represented as district attorney.

Democratic Club Meeting.

The democratic club met in the court house Wednesday evening. Judge Dennis Dwyer weighted with the dignity of the position presided. T. T. Wilkenson whose familiar name is Tom, stepped to the front and delivered an eloquent democratic speech that was calculated to set the boys on fire. The boys shook the house with their generous applause. Charley Butler and Guy Livingston were fairly beside themselves with delight at the discovery of the new democratic orator; Henry Gering raised the shingles with applause and wanted to challenge Tom Reed or McKinley either one. While the excitement was at white heat Judge Dwyer announced that the special feature of the evening would now be listened to in the form of a speech by the able and talented leader of the young democracy, Guy Livingston Esq. The applause was deafening as Guy with studious mien stepped forward and launched into the republican party like an old timer.

He had not travelled far until he struck out on prohibition rendering the air with facts and figures. He closed his eloquent effort by telling about Iowa. He said that not long since a man went down to an Iowa drug store about 2 o'clock in the morning and while he was fooling around there his wife died, there says Guy is Iowa prohibition for you as he clinched the argument by striking the table with his fist. And the crowd delighted with the point fairly roared all except Tom Wilkinson who sighed wearily and rose up slowly and inquired if there was a prohibitionist present? Each waited for the other and there was no response. Mr. W said he would polish Livingston off in short order and a heavy pall began to settle down over the once joyous crowd but czar Dwyer was equal to the occasion and stated Wilkinson who had so enthused the crowd a few minutes before could not be heard; trouble was brewing and the chair was overruled by motion and Mr. W. made his speech, which was a hammer of the Luther Benson order; when he sat down the applause was not deafening. Guy then took a turn at him and with a few side remarks from other members of the club kept up the fight until a late hour, when Dwyer sent the speakers getting in a word before Guy's party to the effect that their motion to adjourn would be entertained, and the motion was properly made and the club adjourned.

The will of the late J. V. Weckbach was filed in the county judge's office today for probate. The will of the late S. C. Bethel of Greenwood was also filed today.

The windy Bryan in his Omaha speech had much to say about the democratic party which he would so honestly and fairly represent, if he were elected to congress. He was singing a different tune from what he sung in Plattsmouth when he sawed the air and proclaimed his independence of the democratic caucus whose rule should NEVER bind him. It was a different kind of an audience and the "independent" rot which he sometime dispenses was not suited for the the Omaha faithful.

DECEITFUL AS USUAL.

The Omaha World-Herald is becoming more amusing every day. Yesterday it discussed the wire nail at length, saying that the industry of making these nails was started a few years ago, and reached large proportions without a tariff. Further it says: "enormous amounts of nails are used on farms and the farmer had this one thing that did not have a direct tariff on it, and it flourished without it. But Mr. McKinley heard of it, and he saw that it would never do to have an industry flourish without a tariff to help it. That would ruin the whole theory of high protection. To prevent this thing going any further, Mr. McKinley claps a tariff on wire nails of 2 1/2 cents a pound."

The facts are that previous to 1889 wire nails were free of duty, were nearly all imported and cost from 6 to 8 cents per pound. In 1889 a tariff of four cents per pound was levied, and the W. H. yesterday quoted these nails at $2.75 per 100 pounds. Mr. McKinley does "clap a tariff" of 2 1/2 cents a pound" on wire nails, but it is to supercede a duty of 4 cents a pound.

The industry did "reach large proportions without a tariff," but it was in England, and the fellows who made the nails exacted a burdensome profit from us until we built up our own rail mills on this side of the water.

A Great Event

In one's life is the discovery of a remedy for some long standing malady. The poison of Scrofula is in your blood. You inherited it from your ancestors. Will you transmit it to your offspring? In the great majority of cases, both Consumption and Catarrh originate in Scrofula. It is supposed to be the primary source of many other derangements of the body. Begin at once to cleanse your blood with the standard alternative.
