Nebraska State Horticultural So ciety From Fridays Daily

For want of space we have not given our readers the doings of the State Hor . Thirty-Five Hundred of Them ticultural Society, which closes today at Lincol .. Following are the first day's proceedings, and the HERALD is pleased to note that Cass c unty is ably represented there by W J. Hess r:

"The winter meeting of the Nebraska state horticultural so lety began last Wednesday at the state university, to conti un in session three days. Thmorning was devoted to placing the exhibits of apples in Nebraska hall, where upwards of 300 plates of the most tempting fruit were displayed by the leading growers of the state. Along with his immense display of frui s W J. Hesser of Plattsmouth makes an attractive display of paims The sight of so many spleadid specimens of the finest apples grown in Nebraska will well repay a visit to the hall.

Some twenty odd new members were added to the rolls ere the formal meeting productions have attracted and riveted a ate from the rest ered his annual address, giving an en to a committee comprising E. F. Stevens, C. W. Gurney and R. N. Day.

Equally agrecable reports were read from the secretary and treasurer, the latter being especially gratifying, as it shows upwards of $3,000 in the treasury. These reports were referred to a commit- tiles who have camped among them. tee comprising D. U. Reed, G. W. Alexander and L. C. Chapin.

Among the visitors at the afternoon session was Hon T. T. Lyon of South Haven, Mich., pomologist in the nationagricultural department and president of from being settled. the Michigan Horticultural Society. W. Marlatto of Manhattan, Kas., wa- al-o present and was elected to honorary membership.

At the evening session Clyde Barnard read a satisfactory paper upon the question, "Can We Raise Pears in Nebraska?" which was discussed with a good deal of awarding to W. J. Hesser, proprietor of vigor. W. R. Harris started a vigorous the Picnic Gard ns, of this city, first discussion of the different varieties of premium on the following: apples by his paper on "Will the Ben Davis Continue to be the Leading Mar- $20 tet Apple?" There appeared to be conderable difference of opinion on that point, and the discussion developed the fact that the Ben Davis sells more read ily than any other variety, even though inferior to some of them. The sentiment seemed to be that the Ben Davis was the best paying apple to the producer, though the Jonathan, Winesap and one or two other variaties had their friends W. J. Hesser discussed "The Six Best Apples for Market," and Hiram Craig "The Six Best Apples for Family Use." The discussion of these opinions also brought out a well marked difference of experience."

Cass County Funds.

County Treasurer Cushing, through his able and accomodating deputy, Mr. Fred Herman, made a very clear and succinct'statement of the county's finances, which we printed in yesterday's HERALD. Very few counties in the state can show so flattering a financial condition as old Cass. From a brief glance at the statement we notice that Cass county has paid into the state treasury during the last six months, the sum of $16 000, as state taxes. We find but one county fund overdrawn (the bridge fund), while almost every other fund contains a healthy balance. The amount in the hands of the county treas-Aurer on January 1, 1891 was $55,472.80.

The county commissioners and County in Colorado, as well as a large number Clerk Critchfield went up to Lincoln today and will combine business with the pleasure of looking in on an alliance HERALD extends sympathies to the rela- ciation had we not then been compelled legislature and shaking the hand of a Nebraska democratic governor. The business referred to is that of asking the state for a credit of state taxes in the amount of about $11,000 of non-collect ible taxes of the county. It is found in checking over the books that this amount stands charged up to the county, as a state tax, but is not collectible, and it is bat business methods to have this credit allowed, and no doubt it will be.

From the moment the Pectoral was given, the child's breathing grew easier, and in a short time it was sleeping quietly and breathing naturally.
