THE St. Louis Globe-Democrat recalls the fact that James K. Polk was the only speaker of the house who ever reached the presidency, and many of his contemporaries thought that the blindness and childishness of the whigs in refusing to join in the yote of thanks to him eventually helped him to the higher office. This is a good circumstance for the democrats to remember when they refuse to be courteous to Speaker Reed.

THE press dispatches say that Senator Manderson is being overwhelmed with congratulatory telegrams from his western constituents who seem to fully appreciate the great honor. It is claimed at Washington that Senator Manderson will refuse to recognize democratic obstructionists and that the election bill and nearly a score of important measures will be called up by the republicans and played from end to end of the land, in passed. 1. would be a pretty lay out for this democratic minority to shape legislation and defeat the passage of important laws by domineering tactics of delay. If Senator Manderson has the patriotism and nerve to relegate these southern bushwhackers to back seat, he wiff r cove the p'audits, not only of his party. but of every paraint e citizen.

THAT YANKEE TARIFF. American Economist,

The United States Consul at Tunstall, England, reports the following conver sation between two Englishmen, which he overheard in an English hotel.

"That McKinley bi I did it No, there really has not been a wheel moved in that mill since that ab mination went into effect. There was, as y u know, rash enough up to that time to last for six months; there was an enorme amount of g ods turned out,"

"You mean to way," said the other, "that the whole of that large plant is stopped?" "Yes, as far as woolen goods are concerned they are doing a little in the cotton factory

but, as I say, the other mill has been shut down these three months past." "But what is he going to do about it?" "Why, he is going to do the only thing he can do, or any one in the American trade can do; he is going to move his plant to the States What else could be do? There is no other opening. All the other markets are oversupplied as you well know. "Do you mean to tell me he is really thinking of going to America?"

"He is not only thinking of it, but (looking at his watch) I suppose he is gone by this time, as he sails from Liverpool today on a prospecting trip, and if he is assured that there in no probability of the McKinley tariff being removed, he will locate his mill and have his machinery shipped at once."

"Well," said the other, "I believe this is just what those Vankees had in the r minds. They want to force our manufacturers and their capital to go and settle down there.

Is there any wonder that England rejoiced at the recent free trade victory, which had the effect of checking this exodus of capital from England?
