From Mondays Daily

County Attorney Travis is in the city today.

Henry Snyder left yesterday for Grafton, West Virginia, his old home, to visit for a few weeks.

The old muddy is on another rampage and was higher this morning than at any time before this year.

Dr. Ed. Cummins new cottage on Pearl street is nearing completion and something is evidently going to happen very soon.

Joseph A. Connor sold 100,000 bushels of corn a few days ago, and fifteen cars of it will be shipped to St. Louis to-day from his warehouse in this city.

Ed Neal the Omaha murderer is said to be failing fast, he no longer keeps up his former nonchalance, and seems to think that his days on earth are really numbered.

Frank Moore, one of the victims of the saw-mill accident at Rock Bluffs some time ago, was in town Saturday for the first time since he was hurt. He carries an ugly scar on his throat and neck that fully indicates what a close call he had.

The Grand Island Times has been compelled to suspend the publication of its daily. This is a black eye for the town of Grand Island, and is indeed the worst advertisement of the condition of business there that could have been written. The first signs of a down hill growth in a town, is the suspension of its papers that have labored long for its prosperity.

The Omaha Bee announces in today's issue that on and after to-day the Daily Bee, including the Sunday edition, will be delivered anywhere in Omaha or South Omaha for five cents per week. As that will not pay for the white paper the Bee is printed on, much less pay for delivering it, it is probable that the cut in rates is not intended as a money making scheme.

D. W. Shinn, the teacher of the Oreapolis school, celebrated Arbor day in a becoming manner. One hundred and fifty trees were planted by the school during the forenoon and the afternoon was given over to literary exercises of an appropriate character. More than usual interest is manifested in the Oreapolis school this year, which speaks well for Mr. Shinn's management.

Mr. Con McCarty, the valiant section foreman for the B. & M. in this city, met with a very painful accident Saturday which required the attention of a surgeon. One of his men in driving a spike struck it a glancing blow which sent the spike humming towards Mr. McCarty, striking him in the face and cutting an ugly gash three inches long. Dr. Cummins sewed it up and he is at work to-day as usual.

UNION ITEMS.

FROM THE LEDGER.

On next Monday more than a hundred men will be at work on the cut-off.

Mr. J. Grassell, book-keeper for Smith, Gillette & Co., arrived here last Tuesday.

Mr. Gillette was here a short time last Tuesday but left for Omaha to procure tools and provisions.

Smith, Gillette & Co. will lay and surface the track from here to Omaha as rapidly as the weather will permit.

The boarding train, consisting of thirteen cars, came in from Atchison on Wednesday and was switched on the "Y" ready for use.

W. D. Jones, the Plattsmouth liveryman and horse dealer, was here Wednesday and Thursday on horse business with E. W. Barnum & Son.

Yesterday evening a full fledged Dago got off the train here, supposing that he had reached Julian station. He was very much disappointed when he learned he had come several stations too far, and that Judge Sullivan did not reside here. He took the back track for Julian "by hand."

Another fast train will be put on as soon as the road is completed, and according to the World-Herald this train will stop only at Plattsmouth, Nebraska City and Auburn, but we have information that the W-H is away off, and that when the fast train is put on it will take passengers all along the line.

Thursday a force of men and fifteen teams arrived to assist in hauling material and to do some grading for more switches and side tracks. We are informed that a line of track will be built along the west side of the depot and a large transfer platform put in. This is necessary on account of the transfer of passengers and baggage coming from the west to go north or south.

Albert R. Rhoden, accompanied by his sister, Miss Edna, were passengers from here last Wednesday evening on their way to their home at Eagle. Mr. Rhoden will be remembered by our readers as the young man who, with Frank Moore, met with a severe accident by the bursting of a saw last February. Mr. Rhoden's right leg had to be amputated and he has just become able to be taken home. Mr. Robert Nichols accompanied them as far as Weeping Water to assist in moving the young man to the train going to Eagle.

Love Laughs at Locksmiths.
 Charley McEntire and Mary Urwin came down from Louisville Saturday evening, having escaped the paternal roof tree and were determined to get married without any further foolishness.

McEntire had been balked so often about procuring the license that he came prepared to win, having with him J. M. Hartshorn and a Mrs. Fitzgerald, who all swore that the young lady was 18 and could do as she liked. Judge Ramsey thereupon telephoned Tom Urwin, the unwilling father of the willing bride that the affidavits were made and he would have to grant the license, to which Urwin only insisted on making them swear. The judge then tied the nuptial knot in his blindest manner and the Louisville elopement case was at an end. The bride and groom returned after the ceremony with their friends, where, at last accounts all was again peaceful and harmonious.

Died.
 Of malignant diphtheria Saturday evening, Lucy, the bright, rosy checked cherub that for six years has graced the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George S. Smith of Omaha.

The funeral took place in this city this morning, the remains were interred in the family lot at Oak Hill.

The many friends of the family here extend their deepest sympathies, and only wish that they could do something that would assuage the grief of the stricken parents.

Judge Chapman, Hon. W. B. Shryock, Hon. F. B. White, All White, J. G. Richey and Sam Atwood will be the guests of Superintendent O'Brien of the state fisheries the last of the week. They will take the fish car up to the headquarters of the Elkhorn river and distribute some fish and shoot all the game they can find in those parts. O'Brien is a good host and may be depended upon to furnish a table fit for royalty itself.

Plattsmouth Got There.
 F. S. White was appointed Saturday evening, as predicted in these columns, to the important post of deputy oil inspector. Now if Mr. Grimes is honored with the stewardship of the Lincoln asylum, Plattsmouth will have fared better under democratic rule than she usually does under republican administration, as far as public office is concerned.

A Monkey-Faced Bird.
 Mr. R. D. Spelts has at his rooms in the Latta block probably the queerest bird ever seen in the west and undoubtedly the strangest ever captured in Nebraska.

Twelve days ago a Mr. Foreman captured it on the Blue river near Seward, and its captivity seems not to deter its existence or appetite in the least. It is of the owl species, so far as eye and form are concerned—and also in trait, for it sleeps most of the day and is more active at night—but the face or head is that of a monkey.

It feeds on rats, mice and fresh meats, has a ravenous appetite and at times shows fighting qualities astounding. But as a general thing it can be, in a good humor, lifted from its box to the floor without any showing of battle.

In color it is a dark or dirty yellow and in size is about like the ordinary owl. The mouth is large and the face as formed by the feathers presents the appearance of the monkey in every way. The eyes also take on that quick action characteristic of jocko.

Several ornithologists of the city as well as professors of schools have inspected the bird, but all are at a loss to explain its origin or nativity. It makes no sound save that similar to a crying baby and Mr. Spelts believes he has the wonder of the age in this proud specimen. It may be put upon exhibition at the Musee.—Lincoln Call.

Court House Notes.
 McMaken will finish the grading and excavations to-day.

Contractor Peterson has his lime and cement house nearly completed.

Work on the concrete foundations in charge of M. J. O'Reilly will begin this afternoon.

Superintendent Coursey put on a meter and extended a service pipe to-day for the brick and stone contractors.

The sand to be used in the court house comes from Cedar Creek and is being delivered on the ground by Jim Sage.

Superintendent Bates is kept busy looking after every thing, to see that the specifications are lived up to to the letter.

The only cellar under the building will be at the northeast corner where the boiler will be placed to furnish the steam for heating purposes.

responsibility resting on their shoulders in the careful expenditure of the public money as well as in seeing that they get at all times what they pay for. Those who are acquainted with the members of the board, however, realize that nothing will be forgotten or left undone to give us the best court house in Nebraska for the money.

District Court.
 J. C. Eikenberry, sheriff, vs. J. E. Riley, F. E. White and M. O'Rourke. Judgment in favor of plaintiff for $725 and costs.

Elizabeth Olson vs. Chas. Olson. Divorce granted.

Fannie M. Keller vs. Husted Keller. Divorce granted; custody of child awarded to plaintiff.

A. N. Sullivan vs. James and Mary Stockham and Wm. Coon. Decree of foreclosure granted.
 Court adjourned to regular term, May 25th.

Is He From Cass County?

From Tuesdays Daily
 An attempt was made yesterday to rob a bank at Valparaiso by three men, which failed, owing to the vigilance of Mr. Chamberlain, the cashier, and Mr. R. K. Johnson, who had an office in the banking room.

Three men drove up about 3:30 in the afternoon, hitched their team behind the bank and went in. Mr. Johnson's suspicions were aroused at once by the appearance and actions of the men, one of whom engaged Mr. Chamberlain's attention while another commenced to speak to Mr. Johnson, the third, who carried a grain sack under his arm, standing between the others.

Mr. Johnson saw this third one give a signal to the one nearest to him, who immediately drew a revolver, but Mr. Johnson sprang to one side and closed a door opening behind the counter, and then ran back to a cash drawer, which he had taken the precaution to open while talking to the man, and pulled out a revolver. He snapped the weapon several times at the man with a revolver and received one shot in return. Had the bullet been half an inch closer it would have killed Mr. Johnson, but as it was it plowed a furrow across the back of his neck.

Meanwhile the one who was talking to Mr. Chamberlain at the signal covered the cashier with a revolver and he dodged under the counter. Crawling several steps to one side he grabbed his revolver, but by this time the scoundrels, finding it was to be too hot for them, had skipped.

Two of the men ran around the corner to where their team was hitched, jumped in and drove off to the northeast, leaving the third man behind. The latter seemed to have been bewildered and ran away from the team.

The would be robber rushed into a bend in the creek where he was captured by his excited pursuers, but not until he was covered by revolvers. He was soon safely lodged in jail.

Receipts given by firms at Eagle to Jesse Rudy were found in the captured man's pockets, and he acknowledges that that is his name, and says he lives between Greenwood and Eagle in Cass county, and that he had never been in such work before. His hands show signs of hard work.

The men who escaped were driving one gray and one bay horse hitched to a covered buggy with side curtains.

There can be no doubt but what this is the outfit that has been committing so many thefts in and about Eagle lately. It will certainly be a relief to that part of the county to know that even one of the villains has been apprehended.

Dr. Shipman is having a new telephone put in his office to-day.

Charley Morrison returned to his work at Sioux City this morning.

John Lohnes, one of Cedar Creek's wealthy farmers is in town to-day.

Mrs. Geo. Nickols returned home this morning after a visit with her brother Geo. Horn near Cedar Creek.

Mrs. J. C. Faught of Philips returned home this morning after a visit of several days with her parents at Murray.

F. W. Schleifert, Sam Lyons and Mrs. Geo. W. Berger of Louisville came down on the Schuyler to transact business at the county seat.

John Corbett, a prominent citizen of Nehawka, made THE HERALD a pleasant call to-day.

F. M. Richey will supply all the lumber to be used in the erection of the new court house, a contract having been signed to that effect some days ago.

All the stone for the court house will be dressed here. A Kansas City man has the contract and John Polin will help him out, as he is a first class workman.

Wm. Neville offered to buy the canning factory, which he would run in good shape, but owing to litigation the matter could not be closed up satisfactorily.

Low Moore went to Omaha this morning, loaded down with a big lot of the finest roses to be found in the state of Nebraska. The Omaha people know fine flowers when they see them, hence Mr. Moore has a large and growing trade in that city.

R. B. Windham showed us the gold badge to-day worn by the Nebraska delegates at the league meeting in Cincinnati. It is an exceedingly beautiful piece of engraving, showing the Nebraska coat of arms together with the name of the state.

Pat McCallan wants a city park and advocates the fencing and improving of the old court house square. THE HERALD heartily seconds Mr. McCallan's motion; there should by all means be something done to improve this property and make it a pleasant place to walk for our people. It could be done at but slight expense.

Oscar Steele, the B. & M. agent at Ashland, and formerly of Louisville, was severely injured yesterday afternoon by being knocked from the top of a moving freight train. He was dragged about thirty feet between two cars, having been fortunate enough to catch a rod as he fell. Dr. Mansfield attended him and found the greatest injury to be a deep cut in the neck, which lacked but a little of proving fatal. It was a remarkably close call.

One of Elam Parmele's men furnished amusement for quite a crowd yesterday at the corner of Seventh and Main streets, though it was evidently anything else but funny for him. He was driving a horse attached to a road cart when the horse suddenly became fractious and went to kicking, and the way the driver dodged his heels for a while was a caution. But soon the horse fell down, when the driver in his excitement tumbled over on top of him and rolled over into the street. On taking an inventory, the driver found he hadn't received a scratch, and as the horse and cart were all right he drove on, but he didn't try to ride.

JOHNNY FLAHERTY.

His Remains Found To-day Near Rock Bluffs.

It will be remembered that Johnny Flaherty was drowned in the Missouri river near the bridge on the eighth of this month.

To-day Harrison McCord, a fisherman, discovered the body lodged against an island about two miles north of Rock Bluffs.

Mr. McCord came to town and Undertaker Unruh, Mr. Fitzpatrick and Sam Archer accompanied him back down the river in a boat after the body, taking a coffin with them. The body is reported to be in a fair condition notwithstanding its long exposure to the elements.

Burglary.

A burglar entered the business room of Philip Krause sometime last night by breaking a hole in the window just over the fastening, large enough to put his hand through and lift the spring, thus raising the window.

Philip can't tell what he lost other than about a dollar in change which was left in the drawer. The same kind of an entrance was effected at Joe Fetzer's place, and nine cents taken from the money drawer and a new $25 pair of shoes were stolen. Nothing else was missed. The thief cut his hand on the glass but there is no clue as to his identity.

We call special attention to the important sale of Short-Horns at the Casey barn, two squares east of the Union Depot, St. Joseph, Mo., Tuesday, May 19, 1891.

This sale will contain twelve head from the excellent herd of Mr. John McCoy, Sabelia, Kansas, mostly the get of his grand Scotch bred bull Lord Ashland 99132 and 28 head from the well known herd of Mr. B. O. Cowan, New Point, Mo., 21 of which are sired by his famous Cruikshank sire, Imp. Scottish Lord 77591. Mr. John McCoy has been very successful in securing prizes at northern Kansas fairs during recent years. He has always used first class bulls and has thereby established a fine herd. Mr. B. O. Cowan has shown his cattle at the leading State fairs, and in 1891, his young herds were not beaten anywhere. In 1889 and 1890, his young cattle won 66 prizes, 29 of which were grand sweepstakes. If you want some first class short-horns don't fail to attend this sale.

Pat Hayes, a veteran democrat from the west end of the county, is in town to-day. Pat has been divorced from Governor Boyd and ere long will bloom out as a full fledged independent.
