SENATOR GORMAN would be a very good candidate for the democrats if he could construct the platform. But he would have some difficulty in standing on a free-trade platform built by Henry Watterson. Gorman tried to modify the St. Louis, platform three years ago, but with Cleveland backing Watterson he failed, and so did the ticket. Gorman is too shrewd a politician to think that free-trade can win in this country.-Ex.

Each one of the above candidates is a member of Cottonwood Alliance, and each candidate has a following, so that the order is all broken up into factions. We are told that other alliances in the county are in the same plight with Cottonwood. The lesson to be derived from this is, that if republicans STAND TOGETHER and nominate a ticket composed of good men, the free and fair choice of the party, the republican ticket will be elected from top to bottom.

Under the direction of Chief Burnham plans for two new buildings for the Exposition are being made. These buildings are for a shoe and leather exhibit, and for a musicial display. They will be about 325 by 425 feet each, and each will cost $100,000. The location selected for them is in the graud court of the manufacturers and liberal arts building. It was the original intention to leave two great open courts in the center of the manufacture building, each about 400 by 500 feet. After the shoe and leather industries of the country made such a determined fight for the building and agreed is the way they stand at Cotton- to raise all the money necessary to wood: J. M. MALVERN, IOWA, July 8.—St. Louis Stamping Co., St. Louis, Mo.-GENTLEMEN: Will you please let me know if you employ 100 men in manufacturing tin plate? Our Fourth of July was celebrated by a trades display and my float was made out of tin spouting and guttering, drawn by six horses, mounted by young knights with spears and shields, in good style In front of the float I had a sign saying "American Tin Plate," with one of your tin plates attached, and underneath the name of the next governor of Ohio, Bill McKinley Some of our democrats went for me and bet me that no 100 men were at work making tin plate in St. Louis. Contract was written up. Please send me an answer.

COMPANY. ST. LOUIS, July 11.-Mr. Aug. J Kronsbein, Malvern, Iowa-DEAR SIR: Replying to your favor of the a remedy will cure such a stubborn 8th inst., would say that we are disease.-Henry Billings, U. S. Penpleased to read of your enterprise and patriotism. We regret that we were out of the plates you request, or would have been pleased to send them as requested. If you still desire a few let us know and we will send what we can spare when we make more. We find them a very effective argument. We send you by this mail copies of newspaper interviews, etc., which we think will afford you all the information necessary to confute the statements of your benighted friends. In addition will state that our present mills employ nearly 400 hands, the majority of whom are rolling sheet iron for tin plates. Near v 98 per cent of the making of tin plates is in rolling the iron. If the free traders only knew a little more about what they talk of they would be wiser and say less, for the more they say now the more they will have to eat crow as the time goes on. Our new tin plate mill, of 600 boxes daily capacity, is now completed and will be in running order within a few weeks. This will increase the force to over 600 men All the tin plates we are now making we are turning into the manufacture of our regular lines of tinware. When the mill is under vay we expect to have some plates for the market. Later on it is our intention to erect a mill of 2,000 to 2,500 boxes daily capacity. We are contending with, and expect to continue to have to contend with, all sorts of misrepresentations, misstatements and downright lies, but they will not prevent our mills from running nor keep our tin plate off the market. When we announce to the trade that we are in position to fill orders for tin plates in any quantities, which we expect to do within a month or two, this will be a sufficient, convincing and permanent Yours very truly, inswer. # LORD BYRON'S PIOUS NURSE.

WHATEVER may have been the influences of his mother on his childhood. Byron was fortunate in the servants that had charge of him. Mrs. Byron could afford but one; and two sister of the name of Gray served her successively, to whom her son was greately attached, especially to the one whose name was May. Between May Gray and her charge there sprang up an af fection which was honorable to both. May Gray was to Lord

Byron what Maria Millis was, a few years later, to Lord Shaftesbury. Both were pious women, intensely fond of their Bible, and both took great pains to instruct their charge in its contents. Byron gratefully ascribes his acquaintance with the psalm, to May Gray. Doubtless herd' and many other psalms in the rugged Scotch version. It is August.
