How about those resolutions you made at the beginning of the present year?
KEEP your eye on the man who always pretends to be suspicious of other people.

THIS next president will be named at Minneapolis, June 7 by the republican national convention.

IT is safe to say that the republican congressmen are now supremely happy. They enjoy the fight.

Ex-Senator Ingalls says that the independent party is dead. A voice from the grave always speaks with effect.

WHEN the people want more free trade than they now have they will trust the republican party to provide for it.

THE officials canvass gives Post a plurality of 4,130 and shows that Harple (rep) and Hadley (ind) are chosen regents.

IT appears that John Sherman will be succeeded in the senate by John Sherman. This state of affairs will give practically universal satisfaction throughout the country.

IT is well recognized fact that Gov. Hill has been drawing two salaries for several months, but no one has yet predicted what he will draw if he succeeds in stealing the New York legislature.

THE Ord Republican has suspended publication, presumably because of a lack of patronage. In its "obituary" it scores the independents severely and says that each of the independent candidates, with one exception, wanted his money refunded that he put in the campaign expenses.

BROTHER SHERMAN appears to be considerably worried that a recount of the ballots has been provided for. It is simply asked that the true wish of the electors be known. What honest person can object to that principle?—the rock upon which democracy claims to stand.

THE most note worthy mistake the Omaha convention delegates made was to argue that the northwest would "go alliance" in the event their request was not granted. Col Scott could not utter such a sentiment and be honest and there is little doubt that the argument served to injure Omaha's chances.

AN unbiased reader of our free trade neighbor—or, for that matter, a reader of democratic sheets in general—cannot but conclude that they regard manufacturing industries located in this country as enemies of the people, and they love to discourage every move that has for its object their establishment.

WE admit that the tall chimneys now, and always have been, a standing menace to the British free trade party in this country. But, while the shadows of these chimneys stretch westward and threaten that party, they only insure our national prosperity and supremacy. Take care, Mr. Journal; if one of those tall chimneys should happen to fall on you one of these fine days, it might knock an intelligent idea through that dense cranium—provided it did not shatter the chimney.

THE Journal continues to snap at Salisbury and Edson for demanding a recount of the ballots cast at the recent election. The contestants claim to have evidence that votes were cast for them that were not so counted, and this betrayal of uneasiness on the part of our neighbor is conclusive evidence that it is afraid of the legitimate outcome of the recount. Yes, Mr. Journal, had this voting been done in a thoroughly democratic state, such as Mississippi, Salisbury and Edson would have "to submit like men." No, no, gentle Annie, give us a recount to the end that the will of the people shall prevail.

WE notice that a democratic paper recently speaks encouragingly of the infant, yet growing, beet sugar industry. We cannot see why the party leaders should be so narrow as to discourage them simply because they are creations of the McKinley bill. The fact is, they are intended for the good of the whole country, democrats and republicans alike.

INDICATIONS point to the election of Mills to the speakership. He will appoint a committee on ways and means that will formulate a pure tariff for revenue bill, thus placing the democracy on the defensive in '92. The republicans welcome the contest on that issue, but the only thing that we have to fear is that some liberal tariff man will be chosen, thus spoiling our little game.

SO NATURAL!
How natural it sounds for the Journal man to call for contributions! That's a phase of the economic problem the old gentleman understands. Pass the collection for the boys. They'll need it before this contest is over. The only question, however, which is liable to annoy the contestees, is: Who in thunder is to superintend the distribution of patriotism after the Journal has taken up the collection?

THE logic of events is convincing a great many democrats that to tamper with the McKinley bill is anything but good policy as the following frank, but manly confession from the New York Tribune indicates: "Nothing in the way of tariff legislation can be accomplished by the democrats until they have the presidency and the senate; and the returns from Ohio indicate that they are not likely to win the presidency and the senate by agitating the tariff question. The tariff as an issue, is useless, so far as practical results in legislation is concerned. For the present the democrats might just as well discuss the laws of gravitation as the McKinley bill."

JUST at this period, it appears that a "home industry" craze is going over the country. There is little doubt nevertheless that if the advice is heeded that the people as a whole will prosper better. The Sioux City Journal comes to the following sensible conclusion: "Buy at home. If you cannot buy immediately at home, buy as near home as you can. Prefer the local dealer. Prefer the industries of your city to the industries of any other city. Be the friend of your state. Protect the trade and labor of your own country against the aggression of any foreign country."

"This is wisdom. This is the protective policy boiled down. And in the concrete the protective policy comes close to the interests of every man in his personal business relations."

THE SPEAKERSHIP CONTEST.
At this early stage in the speakership contest Mr. Mills appears to be in the lead, with Crisp following closely. Mr. Mills is a typical democrat, and if elected he will appoint committees, that, in his judgment, will shape the proposed legislation purely after democratic fashion. He is a pronounced free trader and until recently advocated the free coinage of silver.

Mr. Mills' closest friends insist that he, above all other members of the party, is best fitted to fill the position acceptably, while his less enthusiastic brethren insist that his views are too radical and he will probably adopt measures too extreme in their nature to be thoroughly popular, even in the democratic party.

On the other hand, it is argued that Crisp's views on the tariff question are too liberal and his free coinage views are too pronounced.

IN the meantime, the republicans sit calmly by and with little doubt they are truly glad that they are not "in it."

THE free trade organ of this city devotes a one-half column article in yesterday's issue in an attempt to ridicule an article written by one who is not now connected with THE HERALD. We believe the article in question was written in reply to a statement in the Journal of recent date to the effect that a protective tariff has caused farm lands to depreciate in value. It appears that the Journal man infers from the article in question that the writer wishes to convey the idea that the increase in manufacturing industries is the primary cause of the alleged depreciation in the value of farm lands. As a matter of fact, such argument is not sound, and we cannot believe the author meant the article to be construed in any such light. An ordinary observer of affairs, let him be a believer in free trade or a protective tariff, cannot but admit that as our industries become diversified and home consumptive force augmented, there is invariably a rise in the value of farm lands. A realization of this truth accounts for the fact that movements are being inaugurated having for their primary object the building of manufacturing industries near our western farms. We venture to assert that if it were possible to locate a manufacturing establishment in Cass county tomorrow that would employ 10,000 people, that the price of farm lands in this immediate neighborhood would be enhanced at least fifty per cent in value.

But this talk about the depreciation in the value of farm lands is all bosh. To be sure, as long as Uncle Sam had land which his subjects were permitted to enter freely the price did not advance as rapidly as it would have otherwise; but, notwithstanding this drawback, any honest man knows that, owing to the diversification of our industry, made possible by a protective tariff, the value of farm lands has advanced twenty-five per cent within the past ten years. It is confidently expected that this diversification of industry will continue, by the establishment of beet sugar industries throughout our state, which cannot but result to the advantage of the western farmer. The position taken by democratic friends that a protective tariff decreases the value of farm lands is neither political honesty nor common sense.

There is one fact so plain that no one need be mistaken, and that is no person can have good health where the blood, the very life itself, is in an unhealthy and impure condition. We guarantee Hall's Sarsaparilla and Burdock Compound to remove all humors and impurities from the blood and eradicate every particle of disease from the system.

THE Philadelphia Times (dem.) has the returns to say of Gov. Hill's latest trial:

"The returns of the late election in New York gave the democrats nearly 50,000 majority for governor, but the republicans elected a majority of two in the senate and just one-half the house, making it a tie. Gov. Hill, by the most artistic use of state and local power, has stolen two senators and three representatives, while the republicans have been able to steal only one representative.

"As revised by Gov. Hill's imitative fine art of political theft, the senate will either be a tie or have one democratic majority, with a democratic lieutenant governor to help along in case of a tie vote, and the house will have four democratic majorities to start with, and add several to that by contested seats.

"The honest citizens of all parties should not longer close their eyes to the fact that political theft has become one of the fine arts of modern politics."

There are many liniments on the market that are good for some purposes but only one that will heal Barb Wire cuts effectively, and that is Hall's Barb Wire Liniment. If your horse or stock is cut buy a bottle and witness the wonderful results.

A guide in the Yellowstone park tells the following:
"Us fellers had the mostest fun when a Washington cove named Hall went through the park. That was about three years ago, when the "Beehive" geyser just broke loose, and everybody was hot fer seein' the "Beehive."

"Wall, us drivers had heard tell as how this Hall was pow'rful smart at sermonizin, so we all piled up ter the chapel. I ain't much of a judge, but I think it was about as ordinary a piece o' preachin as I ever heard. Never heard a shout from the smen benches, an not a soul got religion, an I don't think much of a parson as can't stir up more excitement than that. So my pal, Geyser Bob, he was there, and said he, "I bet I know a faller as can enup that whole room quikter than a coyote can kick." "All right," sez I, and I knowed there was goin ter be some fun, but I was a bit afraid that Bob was goin to shoot; but he didn't. He just yells in the door, "The Beehive is spoutin!" an inside of ten seconds there was't but six people in the house besides the preacher, an he sez quick as a wink, for I think he wanted ter git out himself, "Brother, I think we better adjourn the meeting ter see the Beehive."—Philadelphia Record.
