

Notice.

By request, next Sunday Dr. Britt will preach morning and evening on "Christian Baptism not Regeneration." These sermons will be of great interest to all who think upon this question, and all are invited to listen to the discussion.

Attention Young Republican. The young men's republican club will hold their adjourned meeting Friday February 26 at the council chamber for the purpose of electing officers and the transaction of such other business as may come before it.

The Noss Family.

The Noss family will appear at the Waterman opera house Thursday, February 25. Seats are now on sale. The following is what the Daily News of Morris, Illinois, has to say of them:

"Talk about a big house and a good performance. The second appearance of the Noss Family here attracted one of the finest and largest audiences that ever saw the curtain rise in Morris. The musical comedy, "A Quick Match," contained plenty of fun. It is not a company with one star and a lot of wooden men and women for support, but every member is an artist."

New Appointments.

Governor Boyd yesterday removed Dr. Knapp from the asylum for the insane at Lincoln. Dr. Knapp, who has served as superintendent of that institution ever since the administration of Governor Dawes, has the reputation of having conducted the institution in a faultless manner, and his removal was made merely for partisan reasons. Dr. Charles B. Manning, of Lincoln, succeeds him.

The governor also re-organized Omaha's fire and police company mission by C. V. Gallagher, vice Chris Hartman, removed; Geo. W. Shield, vice G. H. Gilbert, removed; William Coburn was appointed to succeed himself of the republican member of the board and D. Clem Deaver will in all probability be appointed in place of Howard B. Smith.

Whither We Are Drifting.

Whither is the drama of our day drifting. Dollarward and downward some will say. Too much vulgar comedy. Too much kicking and too little talking; too much tinsel, and too little gold. But who's to blame? Frivolity made a hit, and frivolity reigns where pathos perished in the cold waves of public indifference. Farce flourishes where legitimate drama starves to death. Forms flit where talent languished. Lithe limbs cleave the air that elocutionary gestures struggled and died in while striving to mature art. The Lillian Russells and Pauline Halls and Fay Templetons have crowded the Charlotte Cushman and Fannie Kemble off the stage. But the public seems to be pleased, hence the public alone is to blame.

But where will this craze end? The loudest applause follows the lines that contain a hidden meaning; the heartiest laugh comes after the double entendre; the most glances are leveled at the shapeliest forms, the highest kickers, the most bouquets. Surely the recipients of the public favors are not to be blamed for striving to win them—with legs and heels instead of hands and brains. They work, and work diligently, to touch the fickle fancies of people. If a broad joke brings the hands together, a broader one secures the foot accompaniment. If a scant costume brings roses; simlax and heliotrope a scantly one will yield a jewel. If a high kick will yield an encore a higher one will raise the gallery—and perhaps the roof.

The play producers, who string together wit and melody to fit the forms, the feet and the taste of the people they gather together—see the bent of the public and go it one better. A word here a gesture there, a suggestion yonder, spices the exhibition and guarantees a fortune, if not fame. They struggle with fun, pure and simple at first, but fun is a wily temper and they were led astray. The public willingly followed, however, and will continue to follow until something more novel offers. Pretty pictures, clean wit, frank and open folly are harmless, entertaining, and restful. The snake of suggestiveness is crawling across the stage, and will bask in the glare of the footlights, charmed with the light music which works the shapely automatons and keeps the singer in tune.—Kearney Hub.

There will be a social at the home of Father Edwin Davis, corner Vine and Eleventh streets, Thursday 25. Everybody invited. Refreshments served.

No. 5 was two hours late this morning.

Miss Hattie Latham was in Omaha to-day.

Lew Moore had business in Omaha to-day.

F. S. White was in Omaha to-day on business.

Wm. Neville was an Omaha passenger this morning.

J. W. Johnson was an Omaha passenger on No. 5 this morning. Remember JOE is the only Clothier that handles Wilson Bros. Furnishing Goods, exclusively.

Dr. L. F. Britt and wife were passengers for Lincoln this morning on No. 5.

The Noss Jollities will appear at the Waterman opera house Thursday, February 25.

Judge Ramsey and J. M. Craig left for Murray this morning to attend the funeral of Wm. Lloyd.

Dr. E. W. Cook departed on the flyer last night for Chicago, where he will remain until the first of May.

A marriage license was issued to-day by Judge Ramsey to August Notling and Miss Katherine Reber, both of Cass county.

Why will you cough when Shiloh's cure will give immediate relief. Price 10 cts., 50 cts. and $1 For sale by F. G. Fricke & Co

The city council met last night in adjourned session and, for the want of a quorum, adjourned until Monday evening next.

Among the guests at the Palmer nouse in Chicago this morning's Bee, THE HERALD notices the name of Clifford Westcott, Plattsmouth.

Ed Mish, a cooper of Nebraska City, who mysteriously disappeared last January, was found yesterday near the C. B. & Q. bridge. In his pockets was $4 in cash and also a number of other trinkets. It was evidently a case of suicide.

The Noss Jollities' farcial comedy, "A Quick Match," suits everybody. Has plot enough to make it interesting; comedy enough to make it very funny; sentiment and music enough to make it an evening long to be remembered.

Not a few styles but the full line of the E. & W. at Joe's the One Price Clothier in fact.

While looking over the records in the clerk of the district court's office a reporter noticed that G. F. S. Burton, the whilom editor of the Evening News, had taken out his first papers and intends to become an American citizen, after eight years' residence in our midst.

The funeral of Wm. Lloyd occurred this afternoon at 1 o'clock from the residence near Murtry. The Masonic order of this city of which the deceased was a member attended the funeral in a body, leaving on the Missouri Pacific train. The remains were entered in the Young cemetery.

THE HERALD has it on pretty good authority that Geo. B. Mann who has been connected with the Evening News ever since it was established, has sold out his interest in the paper to G. F. S. Burton who will have full control of the paper hereafter, and that the transfer has already been made.

Carl Carlson was instantly killed on the B. & M. near Nebraska City yesterday morning. He was in company with John Olson, section foreman, and was going down the track on a hand car, when a freight train approached. They stopped the car and attempted to remove it from the track, but the engine caught it, driving one of the handles through Carlson's head.

End of the Trouble. WASHINGTON, D. C. Feb. 23.—The state department to-day made the following telegram public from Minister Ryan at Mexico:

MEXICO, Feb. 10, 1892, via El Paso, Texas.—Blaine, secretary, Washington: Minister for foreign affairs of Mexico makes the following statement: According to advices had by this (Mexican) government the bands of Catarino Garza, organized solely in the state of Texas, have been completely dispersed, thanks to the efficient pursuit of the same recently set on foot in said state by the United States forces. The Mexican railroad system inclusive even of lines crossing the northern frontier has ever enjoyed complete security, although upon two distinct occasions the bands referred to crossed over into Mexico, on the occasion remaining two days in constant movement and on the second occasion only a few hours, due to pursuit kept up by forces of this country. The precautionary measures they instituted to prevent a fresh incursion into Mexico resulted in strengthening the sense of absolute safety and immunity from harm always enjoyed by Mexican railways. Such security continues unshaken and unaltered and sufficiently well grounded is the hope that in the future no danger will menace the same.

(Signed) RYAN.

REAR END COLLISION.

No. 66, the Meat Train, Runs Into an Extra.

TWO CARS WERE BADLY WRECKED

Between La Platte and Bellevue—The Engine on the Extra Broke Down.

Another wreck occurred on the B. & M. between La Platte and Bellevue between 9 and 10 o'clock last night. An extra was running ahead of No. 66, known as the meat train, and when between La Platte and Bellevue an eccentric on the engine of the extra broke. A flagman was at once sent back, but owing to the heavy fog the engineer on No. 66 didn't see the signal in time to prevent the wreck. Engineer Kuhn and Fireman Erwin, of No. 66, jumped and escaped injury. The engine, however, telescoped the caboose and one freight car loaded with merchandise. The caboose caught fire and burned, as did also the car of merchandise. The track was cleared, so that the trains are all running as usual.

EXCITEMENT SUBSIDING.

The coroner's inquest in the Yocum Shooting Case Postponed. The following is from the Lincoln Journal's Hastings correspondent:

"General Bowen has been retained as counsel for Captain Yocum. He will probably be assisted by Michael A. Hartigan during the preliminary trial, which will probably take place next week. The coroner's jury met yesterday afternoon and adjourned until Friday morning.

"Mrs. Yocum was seen by your correspondent yesterday morning. She incidentally remarked that her daughter always exhibited a sympathetic feeling since childhood for dumb animals, and, in fact, everybody that was connected with the household. When Jeff, the colored boy, came to the Yocum home he could neither read nor write. He was brought from Chicago to Adams county by a German family, and resided on the farm for several years. When he was engaged by Yocum he spoke very fair German. Miss Alice Yocum, when she had a leisure moment, would teach Jeff how to write and spell, until he became quite proficient in those lines. She was just as much interested in the female servants, while the family and she and Mrs. Yocum are inclined to defend the colored man.

"The public feeling is so bitter against the negro that if he had presented himself on the streets last evening his body would no doubt have dangled from the first telegraph pole. This evening the excitement has subsided to a considerable extent. The counsel for Yocum will make a desperate effort to secure the name of the correspondent who wrote the scandalous article that appeared in the Lincoln Vanity Fair. If the correspondent is discovered, Hastings will be a most unpleasant residence for him in the future."

New Lodge Organized.

A new lodge, Knights of Pythias, was organized last night at Pacific Junction by District Deputy Grand Chancellor W. F. Laraway of Glenwood, Iowa. A delegation of about fifty knights from Glenwood, headed by the Glenwood cornet band, arrived in the Junction and marched to the hall. A delegation of twenty-five knights from this city was in attendance, arriving home this morning on the flyer. Fourteen victims were initiated into the mysteries, and instructed in the secrets of the three ranks, which each one had to pass through ere he could obtain the rank of knight. The hall was too small to accommodate the crowd present. Work was begun by 8 o'clock, and it was half past five this morning before the last man was finished. There were fourteen initiated, and four joined by card. F. W. Miller, L. H. Stroud, F. H. Herrick, D. W. Delashmutt, D. M. Dunbar, L. F. Johnston, T. Smithen, S. B. Thompson, L. O. Lorres, E. E. Young, A. E. Gass, John Jungquist and Tom Belt were initiated, and W. L. Dykes, George Rummell, G. F. Swan and William Croan joined by card. The lodge starts out with a good membership and before many months will be doubled.

WANTED—A girl to do general housework. Good wages. 23-4f MRS. W. J. HESSER.

The Nebraska manufacturers and consumers association yesterday afternoon adopted a long memorial protesting against Bryan's free binding twine bill.

Wanted. A bright, intelligent boy to work in postoffice. Enquire of the post master.

WIT AND HUMOR.

If men had to be judged by men, nobody would ever get to heaven.—Ham's Horn.

Always ready to take a hand in conversation—deaf and dumb people.—Texas Siftings.

There's no place like home—but that's no excuse for loitering there instead of looking for a place.—Puck.

A great many men who begin the day by rising dutifully with the lark, end it by going off on one.—Atchison Globe.

If you should see yourself as others see you you wouldn't trust yourself with your own pocketbook.—Atchison Globe.

"What is the shortest word in the language?" asked Billings. "Broke," replied his impetuous friend.—Washington Star.

Ethel (showing her engagement ring)—"Don't you admire his taste?" Maud—"Ye-es, as far as jewelry is concerned."—N. Y. Sun.

Perhaps it is too much to expect that the man who uses big words should furnish big ideas along with them.—Somerville Journal.

Bouttown—"Do you belong to the Actors' club?" New Acquaintance—"No, I'm an actor. I belong to the Press club."—N. Y. Weekly.

De Tanque—"Why didn't Old Soak respond to his toast at the banquet last night?" Blossom—"It had to be drunk standing."—N. Y. Herald.

The oldest inhabitant is like the king, he never dies. He follows his predecessor in constant succession, like a woman's last word.—Boston Post.

The average man is satisfied with keeping up with the procession. If it is a funeral procession he does not care to be at the head of it.—Pittsburg.

You can always tell the fastidious man by his sending twenty-seven cuffs and collars to the laundry accompanied by a single shirt.—Texas Siftings.

There is this to be said for the practical joker. If he does not make others happy while he lives, when he dies he causes no sorrow.—Boston Transcript.

Mrs. Gadd—"Does your boy take after you or his father?" Mrs. Gabb—"He takes after his father. You never can believe a word he says."—Good News.

The man without a country lives in a pitiable estate, but he isn't in it for friendliness with the man who is learning to play the cornet.—Albany Argus.

Bachelor (to newly married friend)—"Had any dinner-table fights yet?" N. M. E.—"No, our friends haven't quit coming to dine every night with us."—Epoch.

Briggs—"I thought the minister lived next door to the church?" Griggs—"He did; but the bell woke him up so early in the morning that he had to move."—Life.

Ethel—"I made George promise last night to spend our honeymoon at Newport." Maud—"That will do as well as any place; any port in a storm, you know."—N. Y. Herald.

Doctor (to newly made father)—"Sir, you are to be congratulated. You are the father of twins." Happy Parent (doubtfully)—"That's so. They might have been triplets."—Life.

"No," said one chicken to another, "we don't speak to her. She wasn't hatched from the same lot of eggs that we were." "O, I see. She's from a different set, isn't she?"—Washington Star.

"How did you amuse yourself while you had the whooping cough?" asked Uncle Jack. "We played Indian," answered Bobby, "and we could give splendid war-whoops."—Harper's Young People.

Fighting Editor—"Now that the cruel war with Chili is over, what next?" Managing Editor—"Well, there's Heresy—it's always with us. Reduce your surplus ammunition on the heretics."—Springfield Union.

"There is plenty of room at the top," said the confident young man. "Yes," replied his elderly acquaintance; "but should your top keep on swelling proportionately there won't be after you get there."—N. Y. Herald.

Bunker—"Is it true that Hunker has separated from his wife?" Hill—"O, yes." Bunker—"Have you any idea what came between them?" Hill—"I understand that it was a home-made shirt."—Clothier and Furnisher.

First He—"Stella de Bilton did not appear to-night." Second He—"That was because of the accident. A moth got into her dressing-room this afternoon and ate up the two costumes she wears in the first act."—Pick-Me-Up.

Mr. Droptin—"Look here, old fellow; excuse my frankness; but why in thunder don't you have that child's hair cut?" Mr. Foresite—"Not for worlds, dear boy; I intend to make a professional pianist out of him."—Puck.

Love may be blind, but his sense of taste is very accurate; that is why the homely girl who can cook gets the husband, while the pretty girl who doesn't know the difference between a mutton chop and a Welsh rarebit gets left.—Life.

Friend—"I saw some of your jokes in a book." Humorist (flattered)—"Ah, what book was that?" Friend—"I forgot the name. It was a book published a hundred years ago. I saw it in a second-hand book store."—Yankee Blade.

Scadder—"Bladder made a great mistake in calling his tin mine 'The American Girl.'" Gadder—"Why so?" Scadder—"Because when he tried to unload it on an English syndicate he found all the would-be investors dead broke."—N. Y. Herald.

Overheard in the railway station. First young woman—"Oh, don't go into that car, Mag; that's all full. Plenty of seats in the next car." Second young woman—"Oh, come along! Some fools will get up and give us their seats."—Boston Transcript.

The committee appointed by the board of trade to see what could be done towards resurrecting the canning factory, in order to have it in running order this season, met this afternoon and were looking over the plant, so that they would be able to talk business when they start out. It is to be hoped that the committee will meet with success, as the canning factory would prove itself a beneficial plant for this city.

OFFICE IN COURT HOUSE, Plattsmouth, Nebraska

The population of Plattsmouth is about 10,000, and we would say at least one-half are troubled with some affection on the throat and lungs, as those complaints are, according to statistics, more numerous than others. We would advise all our readers not to neglect the opportunity to call on their druggist and get a bottle of Kemp's Balsam for the throat and lungs. Trial size free. Large Bottle 50c. and $1. Sold by all druggists.
