Heard Some Tariff Truths That Were Disagreeable.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 29.—Congressman Dolliver this afternoon spoke for an hour on the subject of the tariff. Mr. Dolliver's speech was delivered to well filled galleries, and the seats on the floor of the house were better occupied than they have been for some time for since the beginning of the tariff debate at first there has been a disposition on the part of the members present, especially those on the democratic side, to proceed with the affairs which occupied the attention of each individual and to pay no attention whatever to the speaker, but he had scarcely rounded out his first paragraph when he had the entire attention of every member of the house, and then for an hour he proceeded to deliver republican doctrine, interspersed with exceedingly "pat" applications, and proved himself to be a master of debate. Mr. Dolliver called particular attention in his address to the previous speech of Mr. Bryan of Nebraska and he showed how absurd was the position of that gentleman, especially upon the subject of the abolition of the duty on binding twine. He pointed out that one little factory in Fremont, Neb., employs seventy hands and uses the product of 2,000 acres of hemp already in the manufacture of this essential for every reaping machine.

TOO WARM FOR WILLIAM.

Mr. Bryan stood the fire of Mr. Dolliver's battery for some time, but he evidently had enough of it before the speech was half over and left the hall. He was the only man who did not stay to hear the argument out. Mr. Dolliver made one of the best speeches which has been delivered this session and it is a speech which can be matched against the champion tariff smasher of Nebraska every time. Already thousands of copies have been ordered for general circulation through out the west.

DIRECT TO LIVERPOOL.

Fifty Cars of Cattle to be Exported by Mitchell & Morton.

John Wagner left yesterday morning for Wisper to secure thirty-one cars of cattle. W. S. Morton left at noon for Fairport to receive eight cars and R. H. Mitchell went to Seward to secure six cars. Henry Meyers went to Superior last night, where he will secure cars. All of these cattle will be loaded out this afternoon, but not in full, for shipment to Liverpool, England, via Bremen, and will sail April 5 and will arrive April 16 at Liverpool. Messrs. Wagner and Meyers are accompanied by Mitchell as far as Boston and will then go on across the ocean. This is an experience which is in line with others that have been made with a view to testing the advantages of exporting direct. If any there may be, and the result will be watched with interest. Should the shipment arrive in Liverpool on schedule, the result will be known here by April 20. These cargoes expect to take a number of later shipments across the pond if the results justify the Lincoln journal.

The Turin Military Co. received to-day a very large assortment of flowers, ribbons and toys and they offer them for sale cheaper than ever was known before in Plattsmouth. Dawson & Pierce's old stand.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church deserve the cordial support of this community in their effort to pay the balance due on the splendid pipe organ which they purchased for their beautiful new church. They have not asked donations from our people, but have largely paid for the organ out of their own pockets. They now offer our people a first-class entertainment—better, we venture to say, than any entertainment our Plattsmouth people have had the pleasure of enjoying this season. The New York Symphony Club is composed of artists of the very best talent the country affords and the musical entertainments they give are spoken of only in words of the highest praise wherever they perform. The church is warm, comfortable and elegantly seated, and THE HERALD guarantees an evening of exceptional enjoyment for all who attend.

The Widow Watson's Woeing.
Leap year has been inaugurated in the town of Egerton, Kan., by a well to do widow who took a liking to a young farm hand employed in the neighborhood. Mrs. Mary Watson owns a fine farm, and she has been recognized as a strongminded woman. Her husband died about five years ago and left her about $20,000.
About a week ago she came to town to market and met John Northrup, who works on a farm about two miles beyond the farm of Mrs. Watson. Mrs. Watson had never seen the young man before, but appeared to be much taken with his appearance, and asked to be made acquainted with him.
The young man was not astonished at the request, but was much surprised when she told him, after knowing him about half an hour, that she wanted a husband and if he was willing she thought they would do well together as man and wife. He was a little taken aback at the suddenness of the offer, but he concluded he could do no better and accepted without any shyness. They got the necessary license and were made man and wife.—Cor. "Oh! What a Night."
Managers of theatres throughout the country pronounce the above one of the best paying attractions they have played, and return engagements have always been better patronized than the first. It is a notable and creditable fact that Mr. Loder is not surrounded by a poor company, as is usually the case, in order that the "star" will shine to better advantage; indeed, it is not necessary, as Mr. Loder's ability as a comedian enables him to hold his own with any cast, no matter how strong.

During a recent engagement at the Grand opera house, New York, the receipts reached over $7,000 for the week, which is sufficient evidence of the popularity and success of the piece, both dramatically and financially. Mr. Loder is under the management of Messrs. Humphrey & Crossley, two young, energetic men, who have the very desirable faculty of turning everything they touch into gold, and their careful and experienced management is fast making Charles A. Loder, in "Oh! What a Night," one of the leading attractions of the season. Go and see him at the Waterman to-morrow night.

A land slide occurred last night in the cut on this side of the bridge over the Missouri which stopped No. 3. No. 3 had to wait in the cut until a force of men could go and clear the track.

The concert by the N. Y. Symphony club last evening completely captured a cultivated audience and is something of which to feel proud of. Each artist was recalled several times. The violin playing of Chas. F. Higgins proved him to be a virtuoso and he held the audience spell bound from first to last.

I feel it my duty to say a few words in regard to Ely's Cream Balm, and I do so entirely without solicitation. I have used it more or less half a year, and have found it to be most admirable.
