La Crippe.

No healthy person need fear any dangerous consequences from an attack of la grippe if properly treated. It is much the same as a severe cold and requires precisely the same treatment. Remain quiet ly at home and take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as directed for a severe cold and a prompt and complete recovery is sure to follow. This remedy also counteracts any tendency of la grippe to result in pneumonia. Among the many thousands who have used it during the epidemics of the past two years we have yet to learn of a single case that has not recovered or that has resulted in prienmonea. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by F. World's Fair Notes

The cottage in which George Fox, the founder of the Society of Friends or Quakers, was born, in Leicester shire, England, is being taken down to be re-erected in Chicago.

Several of the states are having prepared fine lithographs of the buildings which they will erect at the World's Fair, and through the sale of them are augmenting their amounts available for building purposes.

Saginaw, Mich., noted as a salt producing city, is constructing in miniature a complete salt plant for exhibition at the World's Eair. A feature of Idaho's Exhibit at the Fair will be a practical illustration of the system and benefits of irrigation. A large section of sage brush soil will be transported to Chicago. Through this ditches will be run, and trees, fruits, and flowers grown in the soil by the irrigation system. Prospective Idaho settlers are expected to be especially attracted by this exhibit. The "wooded island" in the Exposition grounds is beginning to as-sume the character which in great part it will have during the Fairthat of a gigantic flower flower garden. Already Floricnltural Department has received 27,000 rose bushes and other plants, several thousand of which came from abroad. These are being transplanted on the island.

THE BIG LAGOON.

An Interesting Formation on the Northern Coast of California, On the northern coast of California, eme thirty miles below the mouth of the Klamath river, is one of the most interesting natural formations to be found in this country, known as the Big lagoon. Here the coast, which runs north and south up to this point, takes a again makes a sharp bay almost V shaped, and for ages past a sand bar has been washing itself up across this bay until the bar has raised up out of the water some ten or twelve feet, having a width of about 100 feet and a length of four miles, reaching across the entire

This bar is in the shape of a roof. When there is a storm the breakers will roll up one side of it, break over, and run down into the bay inside, and it is a novel sight to stand there and watch the waters, mountain high on one side and perfectly calm on the other, the line between the two at intervals hidden ' altogether.

This bar is a sort of short cut and can be traversed on horseback. In a storm the horseman will one minute be high and dry on land, the next minute a large wave will roll up and running under the horse's feet to the depth of a foot or more, the rider will be for an instant four miles or so at sea on horseback, with no land nearer than the high bluffs of the mainland in sight.

Moss agates may be found in abundance on the pebbly beach, and when the sun shines they glitter with dazzling brightness

The wild duck that frequent this part of the coast literally fill this inland bay, and the passing hunter, should be take a shot at them, will raise such a cloud and such a quacking that he will think all the du ks of the earth have gathered there. Occasionally some wild beast like a bear or a panther will be found crossing this bar, and the Indians have much sport when such a thing happens, the animal rarely escaping capture or death.

Here the Digger Indians abound, living on the shellfish, which they catch along the beach, seldom going over the ridge of hills to capture a deer, which are plentiful. It would astonish a Yale or Harvard football man to come upon this scene some bright morning at low tide and see the squaws and children playing lacrosse on the beach. They get so excited with their sport that they keep it up until the tide drives them from the beach, often staying there until they have to chase the ball down into the surf.—Detroit Free Press.

What Is Electricity?

If the question is now asked, "What is electricity?" we may reply advantageously, in the words of Jokai: A thing of which we know a little more than nothing and a little less than something. A little more than nothing, for we know that it is of the nature of light and heat, extending itself like them in waves of motion. A little less than something, for of the essence of electricity itself, whether static or dynamic, we are still absolutely in the dark. There has been no want of other theories, but the fundamental tendency of the age is to reduce all phenomena and forces to the improbable that this will be facilitated by the wave theory of the so called ether.

The problem of gravitation, too, which was so long regarded as a force acting from a distance, is now equally attributed to the agency of a medium. In his efforts to demonstrate the oneness of all natural forces, the physicist is not likely to be led astray, even although the cognition of force presents one of those world problems, the solution of which must forever escape us; aye, although, as the final result of the most exact in vestigation, it should forever be denied to him even to assert decisively, "It is only a force, and the ether is its medium of transmission."-Exchange.

Verdi and His Admirer.

Verdi was traveling in the same railway carriage with General Tournon, commander of the Ravenna district. They got into conversation, which soon turned on the subject of music, and the general, who did not know his companion, expressed a most enthusiastic preference for that of Italy. "I can hardly go so far with you," replied the other. "For me, art has no frontiers, and I give German music the preference over

'Indeed, sir," said the general testily. "For my part, I would give all the German operas in the world for one act of 'Rigoletto.'

"You really must excuse me from following you any further on this ground," replied the composer, blushing a little, "I am Verdi."-Monde Artiste.

Psychic Influence.

The other day a woman was building with great deliberation a dialect story. Suddenly she felt her attention called to the corner of the room. There she saw a friend who lives in Washington seated with bowed head, crying. The story writer called out the visitor's name, and the vision fled. Immeniately, on her manuscript paper, this woman wrote her friend, detailing the circumstance.

The next day she received a letter from her friend, saying: "A queer thing has just happened to me. I was sitting in my room crying when I distinctly heard you call my name." The two letters had crossed each other in transit.-New York Evening Sun.

Arrazons and Amazons. "Who's the large lady over there raising a row with the waiter?" inquired a

"Oh," was the good natured reply, 'that's my wife." "Ah, indeed; sho's a perfect Amazon,

Well, mighty nigh it, responded the
