Secretary.

Pronounced Hopeless, Yet Saved. From a letter written by Mrs. Ada E. Hurd of Groton, S. D., we quote: "Was taken with a bad cold, which settled on my lungs, cough set in and finally terminated in consumption. Four doctors gave me up saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Saviour, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption coughs and colds. I gave it a trial took in all eight bottles; it has cured me and thank God I am now a well and hearty woman." Trial bottles free at F. G. Fricke & Co's drug store, regular size, 50c. and $1.00.

A Great Surprise

BROUGHT INTO COURT.

Fred Walters Obtained Money Under False Pretenses.

ONE YEAR AT HARD LABOR WAS

The Sentence Pronounced Upon Captain Yocum Yesterday.

W. H. B. Stout Financially Ruined--

Notes.

From Saturday's Daily.

Fred Walters, who used to run a restaurant in this city about two years ago has got himself into trouble. Shortly after he went out of the restaurant business he borrowed $5 of Fred Kroehler, representing that he had money in the bank and would give him a check for the amount the next day. A short time after the loan had been made Kroehler approached him and inquired as to whether he had forgotten about the loan. Walters answered that he had not, but that his wife knew how much money he had in the bank and he did not want to take the money out of the bank. He stated that he had several dollars coming to him and that he would make the payment in a day or two.

The next heard of him he was located at Lincoln. In the meantime Kroehler found out that Walters never had had a deposit in any bank in this city.

Walters has been employed on the B. & M. as a freight brakeman and has been running in and out of this city for a long time, but it seems never came up town.

Yesterday afternoon Kroehler heard that his man was in town and he immediately went down to the yards to find him. After looking around awhile he found him asleep in the way car, and he awakened him but he failed to get his money. Kroehler came up town and swore out a warrant and Walters was brought into court. The case was continued until nine o'clock Monday morning, Walters furnished security and went out on his run last night.

One Year at Hard Labor.
This morning's papers announce the following:

The case of Captain A. D. Yocum came up in the district court today on a motion for a new trial. Judge Beall overruled the motion and asked Captain Yocum if he had anything to say, as the sentence of the court would be passed at this time.

Captain Yocum was visibly affected as he arose to his feet and said that were he to follow the bent of his inclinations he could say many things which would redound to the credit of the court, the jury, his faithful counsel and himself. He censured the prosecution for dragging matters into the case not called for by the facts or by the nature of the case. Continuing, he said that in the act for which he stood convicted, he had done exactly what he thought was right and what he thought had to be done. After thanking the court and its officers for their kindness to him and the jury for doing what they thought was right under their oaths, he bowed submission to the sentence of the court, which was that he be taken to the penitentiary and there be confined for one year at hard labor, no part of which time was to be in solitary confinement.

Captain Yocum thanked the court for giving him the shortest possible sentence under the law, and the celebrated Yocum case was at an end. It is generally understood here that he will be pardoned before he is taken to the penitentiary.

Financially Ruined.

The Elmwood Echo says: There are but few people in the state of Nebraska who have not heard of W. H. B. Stout, the man who built the state penitentiary with convict labor, and was also the contractor who built the state capitol building. Not more than three years ago he could sign his check for $800,000 and it would be honored. To-day he lives in a dingy little cottage at Washington, the nation's capital, and cannot cash his check for $6. This is falling pretty fast and the old man is to be pitied. His largest loss was in a mine in the west, where he dropped $250,000 of one clatter. The rise and fall of a man is wonderful.

The News says last evening that the HERALD published a libelous article on an attaché of that office. The HERALD well knew that it would be libelous if it was not so, but as we can prove it—and the records of the court will bear us out in the assertion—there was no libel to it, but plain facts.

He was Caught.

Early this forenoon a tramp entered the residence of W. S. Purdy on South Third street and proceeded to go through the house. Before he had gone very far he was detected by Mr. Purdy's daughter, and she immediately informed her father. Mr. Purdy picked up a stove poker and chased his trampship off the premises.

Officer Fitzpatrick appeared on the scene and started in pursuit. In the meantime a boy came up town and informed Chief of Police Tom Fry that "Johnny" was chasing a man and that they were headed toward Chicago avenue. Mr. Fry jumped onto his pony standing near by, and just as he had reached the avenue the tramp, with "Johnny" close upon him, came into view. The tramp started up the avenue, with Fry on horseback after him, and ran about a block, when he jumped the fence. As he jumped the fence Fry noticed that he had a revolver in his hand, but before he could reach him he had run around the corner of the house.

The chief then got his shooting iron in readiness and started for the house on foot, ordering him to throw up his hands, which he did. When Officer Fry arrested the man he had no revolver, but the lady of the house notified him that she saw the man kick something under the porch. Upon investigation a revolver with five chambers loaded was found. The man gave his name as James Miller.

A short time afterwards three men supposed to be partners of Miller, tried to get a small boy to carry a note to the city jail and deliver it to the prisoner. The boy immediately notified the police who started in pursuit and run the three away below the bridge and they made their escape in the timber.

The man Miller said that he was not in the house bent on robbery, but to get something to eat, but Dad Purdy appeared on the scene before he had time to do either.

Weeping Water Items.
From the Republican.

Monday, J. Chase moved his office fixtures down to the factory and at present the managers are busy invoicing. They have been delayed a great deal in their efforts to close up the deal in the matter of fixing up papers, etc., but there is no doubt that a force will be at work in a short time and so far several men have been engaged. Although on the start they do not expect to employ many hands, believing that by hiring only as their needs demand they can better pay out, and incur much less expense, yet they expect as soon as they can furnish work for new men to have in course of time, every machine going. With capital and push behind it there is no reason why it should not win and prove a blessing to the community, instead of an eye-sore for strangers to point the finger of ridicule at and say what's the matter with your town, why don't your factory run? If Mr. Chase succeeds in the enterprise even to warrant the employing of as many men as were connected with it formerly, he will deserve the thanks of all.

Elmwood citizens petitioned the Missouri Pacific officials for a night operator, but as this was only the first petition sent in they should not be discouraged at the refusal of the same. Weeping Water still has her depot and numerous other enterprises asked for—to get.

Fire destroyed a new suit of clothes and two or three overcoats belonging to the family of Philip Christman, living northeast of town. While Mrs. Christman was in the yard a few minutes the fire started in the bedroom and several other articles were consumed before it was put out.

J. M. Beardsley's family were all quite sick for a day or two last week. It was something they had eaten caused it. There has been several families affected in the same way.

D. M. Johnson has commenced an addition to his residence on Commercial avenue, 16x24. He has started the ball rolling and we hope to see a building boom in our little city this summer.

Following is the list of Plattsmouthians who left over the M. P. for Weeping Water to-day: A. J. Graves, John A. Davies, Judge Chapman, W. B. Short, C. S. Rankin, Frank Dickson, George Dovey, D. K. Barr, A. N. Sullivan, Jesse Root, S. L. Thomas, C. A. Pierce, George Houseworth, Will Straight, A. O. Thomas, F. A. Bates, A. C. Wright, W. S. Purdy, Frank Bajek, F. H. Steinker, Joe Bridge, L. Davis, L. C. Anderson, J. K. Pollock, R. W. Hyers, J. McCraig and A. B. Knotts.

The county commissioners and Contractor King and Architect Gray are busy looking over the new court house, but they will be unable to make a settlement to-day.
