THE democrats have 234 representatives in the house, and it only requires 167 for a quorum; nevertheless, they are unable half of the time to transact business for the want of a legal number of votes.

GOVERNOR MCKINLEY rightly said in his speech to the Ohio republicans, "the tariff is not four weeks old this year. It is eighteen months old and does its own talking." And it talks to the point, too.

THE republican party and THE HERALD stand by the silver dollar of our dads. We stand by all their other dollars, too. Dollars that have always been good and are today. We want no new-fangled affairs. We are making no corn-stalk dollars to catch the vote of the riff raff.

THE democrats in congress have shown themselves cowards on the tariff and silver issues. They are bubbling with generalities about "tariff reform," but what do they propose? Nothing. The McKinley bill was tariff reform—real and tangible—and the people see the effect. "It's a condition, not a theory, which confronts us," to use the language of the stuffed prophet.

THE democratic national platform will straddle the silver issue and its tariff plank will be a meaningless jumble of words. The Nebraska state platform will endorse it and throw in a few chunks to fill up the cracks, with hypocritical howls about railroad control and monopoly rule. People are too intelligent in A. D. 1892, to swallow ghost stories and fanciful platitudes as genuine propositions.

THE first official report by a treasury agent on the progress of tin plate making shows about sixty establishments, either constructed or constructing, with invested capital of $4,000,000 and a capacity of more than half the annual consumption of the country. The continuance of the tin plate tariff is thus assured. It is now in order for the tin plate liar to accuse the treasury department of mendacity.—American Economist.

IT would naturally be supposed that the democratic party could learn something by experience, but it seems that is impossible. It truckled to the slave power, then to the Greeley sentimentalists, then to irredeemable greenbacks, then to free traders and now to flat 2 per cent alliancers. It remembers nothing and learns nothing. It is simply an obstructive, anti-business conglomeration aggregation of fanatics and misguided patriots.

WHAT is Brother Sherman of the Journal going to do if the democrats follow his advice and nominate Boies? Does he suppose the Iowa convict-pardoning governor is in favor of free and unlimited coinage of silver? Does he suppose for one minute that the national democracy is going to endorse free silver, in national convention assembled? What will the Journal do when the ticket is named and the platform made?

DOES IT MEAN CHEAP WOOL OR DEAR WOOL.

Mr. Chairman, it must be evident to every one that unless the abolition of the duty on wool reduces the price of wool, the wool cost of manufacturing woolen goods cannot be reduced.

Mr. Chairman, I have just read the declaration of the democratic majority of the committee on ways and means that the abolition of the duty on wool will reduce the cost of the wool that goes into cloth, and therefore will reduce the price of the cloth. That is one of their declarations. Now, let us turn to another declaration in this same report, on page 21. The declaration which I have just read was intended for the manufacturer, but this declaration is intended for the farmer.

"This fact shows that the American wool growers do not receive any increase whatever in the prices of their wool by reason of the tariff on foreign wool."

Now, Mr. Chairman, one or the other of these statements is untrue. Which is it? Will the placing of wool upon the free list make it higher or leave it as it is, or will it reduce the price? Which position do you propose to take, gentlemen? For I would like to see you choose one of these alternatives now. Let us know what is to be your argument. But I know what it is to be; it is to be one thing in one place, and another thing in another place.—Congressman Dingley.

THE STAGGERING BUSINESS.

The platform of New York republicans enunciates the astounding proposition that our large exports for the current fiscal year are due to the McKinley tariff. This claim is certainly broad enough to stagger the credulity even of the western republican.—Omaha World-Herald.

The working of the McKinley law is broad enough to stagger the arguments of the democratic calamity howlers. In 1890 these misguided brethren predicted increased prices of the necessities of life. In 1892 the voter has only to walk into his local store to learn that he can buy anything and everything CHEAPER THAN EVER. The conversational power of republican law is remarkable for one of its age.

Man Against Shark

A desperate fight between a man and a shark occurred recently in Manhattan harbor. Mr. Henry Jacobson, who is employed at the North Manhattan House as beacon light keeper, was out in his boat about six miles down the harbor when it was struck by a squall and swamped and the occupant left in the water. Jacobson dived and endeavored to relieve the ballast, but without success. He then grasped an oar, and being a good swimmer struck out for land, but as a strong tide was running he was swept down the harbor a distance of three miles. At that point he was attacked by a large shark, which grabbed at his hand. He protected himself, however, with the oar, which he tried to ram down the shark's throat.

The fish then made a circle around him, and renewed the attack. By this time, however, Jacobson had his sheath knife drawn, and desperately stabbed the shark, ripping its side open, so that the water became red with blood. A further attack was made, when Jacobson again stabbed the monster near the tail, and it swam away. At that time a boat came in sight, and Jacobson, exhausted, was hauled into the boat, having been in the water two hours and thirty minutes.—New Zealand Herald.

Electricity from Coal.

A French chemist, who has been giving considerable attention to the problem of heating and lighting from a single source, has devised a novel stove, which in appearance resembles an ordinary heating stove. It is so arranged internally that the waste of heat is utilized for the generation of electricity. This is secured by a number of rectangular boxes of sheet iron, containing the necessary metallic elements for furnishing the current. These elements are insulated by asbestos, and the cooling is effected partly by the shape in which the metallic alloys are cast and partly by a circulation of air.

The current obtained is not great in amount, but the result of this attempt seems to be favorable. Accumulators are used for storing up the electricity, and as the heating is required for a much longer period than for lighting, the electrical energy, which would be lost during the hours of daylight, is saved. A point of considerable moment is that the heat utilized in this way is waste heat, so that any portion that can be recovered in the form of electricity is so much gain.—Philadelphia Record.

The Brain Jar of the Military Step.

Dr. Colin, regimental physician in the French army, has published the results of his investigations into the effects of regular marching in disciplined bodies upon soldiers. The regularity of the step causes the indefinite repetition of a shock of the bones and brain, infinitely more deleterious than an irregular walk, and to this regular repetition of the shock to the same parts of the body are due the peculiar aches, pains and illnesses of the troops.

In a one day march, he says, this shock is repeated 40,000 times, and often the strongest men, who can walk the same distance without difficulty when not in line, succumb to the strain in two or three days. Dr. Colin's preventive is a rubber heel in all military boots. This heel has been tried at his instance in the French infantry, he says, and the result has been found to be a great relief to the soldiers. The experiments with the rubber heel are still in progress.—Medical Record.

For a number of years, I have been subject to violent attacks of inflammatory rheumatism which generally lasted about two months. On the first of this month I was attacked in the knee and suffered severely for two days, when I procured a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and it relieved me almost instantly. I therefore most cheerfully recommend it to those who are similarly afflicted everywhere.—R. D.
