Benjamin Harrison Nominated on the First Ballot.

REID THE UNANIMOUS CHOICE

Editor Rosewater Elected a Member of the National Committee-- The Convention Adjourned After an Interesting Session.

Nebraska's Gavel Presented From Thursday's Daily.

Mr. Walker of Nebraska, who presented President Pro Tem Fassett with the gavel made of timber grown on the Freeman homestead in Gage county, made the following presentation speech: "Among the many masterpieces of the republic...

"As a token of our appreciation and on behalf of young and old republicans of Nebraska, I desire to present the temporary chairman of this convention with this gavel. It is plain and simple, but useful. Its historical interest and republican origin symbolizes the two acts. The wood from which it is made was grown upon the first or original homestead, located near Beatrice, Gage county, Neb., which was entered January 1, 1863, by Daniel Freeman, who still owns and occupies his claim.

When quiet was restored McKinley proceeded to deliver a brilliant telling speech, punctuated by enthusiastic applause as point after point was made. McKinley's Grand Effort. Among other things he said: "Republican conventions mean something. They have always meant something. Republican conventions say what they mean and mean what they say. They declare principles and policies and purposes, and when entrusted with power, they execute and enforce them."

"We are here to-day to make a platform and ticket that will commend themselves to the conscience, intelligence and judgment of the American people, and will do it. Whatever is done by this convention, either as to platform or ticket will receive the approval of the American people in November."

"This is a republican year. Rhode Island has spoken. Only yesterday Oregon spoke by electing three republicans to congress. When we get through with this convention its conclusions shall be the law of republican and the assurance of a protective tariff and reciprocity."

Your committee further recommends an honorary secretary and an honorary vice president for each of the states, and the committee desires me also to suggest that the delegations from the following states send a report to the desk for the vice president and secretary, who up to this time have not reported to the committee: Alabama, North Carolina, Louisiana, Maine, Kentucky, Nebraska, Arizona, Indian Territory and Utah."

The Chairman-The chair will appoint as a committee to escort the permanent chairman to the chair Hon. Samuel Fessenden, Senator Spooner and General Mahone. Cheers greeted McKinley.

The announcement of General Mahone's name was greeted by enthusiastic approval from the galleries and a number of delegates. Governor McKinley was in the seat with the Ohio delegation and there was a slight lull as the committee approached him and formerly notified him of his election. With a bow the governor of the Buckeye state arose and arm and arm with the chairman of the notification committee, marched up to the platform. No occasion could have been more fitting to demonstrate the popularity of the great American protectionist and his admirers were not slow to catch the inspiration of the occasion. It was nearly a minute before the deafening cheers ceased reverberating through the halls and corridors, and when silence was finally restored Chairman McKinley was introduced by his predecessor, Temporary Chairman Fassett, who thanked the convention for its courtesy to him and presented McKinley of Ohio. Applause for the retiring and incoming chairmen resounded through the building.

Before McKinley could say more than "gentleman of the convention" some one called, "three cheers for McKinley," and the building fairly shook with the response.

THE CONVENTION THURSDAY

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 10.—[Special to THE HERALD.]—The republican national convention nominated Benjamin Harrison for president on the first ballot, McKinley came second, with Blaine third. Following is the vote:

Table with 2 columns: Name and Votes. Harrison 431, McKinley 183, Blaine 179, Reed 4, Lincoln 1.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., June 9.—The convention got down to business last night and Chairman Congresswell of the committee on credentials took the platform, and stated that he was not prepared with a written majority report, but if the convention wished he would make a verbal report. He understood that the minority was ready to report.

Mr. Wallace of New York said he had a partial report from the minority which he sent to the clerk's desk. Mr. Lockwood of Idaho asked some questions which brought an explanation from the chairman. When his curiosity was satisfied the chairman asked if there was any objection to the reception of a verbal report from the committee. No objection was heard and Mr. Coggeswell, holding in his hand the memorandum sheet, began to announce the action of the committee. Mr. Coggeswell dictated to the convention and the reporters. His report was as follows:

The committee on credentials considered the list of contested delegates and has heard in twenty-four different contested cases. It recommends that the uncontested list submitted by the national committee of the temporary organization be accepted as the list of duly credited delegates and alternates except the cases to be hereafter mentioned.

In the matter of contests in the Eighth, Third and Fourth districts it was recommended that the sitting members retain their seats. In the Sixth the contestants, Honston and Mathews, were recommended to be seated. The sitting delegates-at-large from Louisiana were recommended to retain their seats. In the contest from Mississippi both sets of delegates were allowed seats, casting half votes apiece.

The chairman asked the representative of the minority, Mr. Wallace, if he desired to make a verbal report.

The report of the minority was the same as the majority with the exceptions of the Alabama dispute. Mr. Coggeswell moved that the majority report be adopted. Chumcay I. Fuller on behalf of the republicans of Alabama, asked that the minority report be adopted. The chair announced that he would recognize gentlemen from each side alternately and gave the floor to Mr. Massey of Delaware, who spoke in behalf of the majority report.

Mr. Knight of California, and senator Walcott were then recognized. A vote was taken on the majority report. The roll was called and resulted as follows: For majority report, 476; against, 365.

Before the vote was announced the convention, on motion of Mr. Shepherd of New York, passed a resolution authorizing the secretary to receive contributions for the Titusville sufferers.

Mr. Foraker, chairman of the committee on resolutions, was then given unanimous consent to read the platform, which was received with great enthusiasm and adopted. At 1:30 last night the convention adjourned until 11 o'clock to-day. CHICAGO, June 9.—The daily News made a canvass by states of the delegates at Minneapolis and finds them divided as follows: Blaine 422, Harrison, 404, Alger 31, McKinley 12, Reed 2, Allison 1, doubtful 32. The News asserts that McKinley has given the Harrison managers positive assurance that he will under no circumstances allow the use of his name as a dark horse and that in return he will receive the support of the Harrison men in 1892.

Not for Blaine. MORRISVILLE, Vt., June 9.—The H. H. Powers republican club this morning sent H. H. Powers, chairman of the Vermont delegation at Minneapolis, a telegram saying: "The people at press of Vermont regret your position. Take a positive stand for Harrison first, then McKinley and Sherman, not Blaine."

Will Not Withdraw. BOSTON, June 9.—Blaine's name here has been so severely reviewed. A friend who called on him says he will not withdraw, but is perfectly willing to let the delegates fight it out.

FRIDAY.

At 11:35 yesterday morning Chairman McKinley called the convention to order after which Rev. Hays of Minneapolis offered prayer. After some routine business the chairman announced that nominations were in order. It was decided that the roll of states should be called and when Colorado was reached Senator Walcott took the floor and placed in nomination James G. Blaine.

The roll call went on and when Indiana was reached Hon. Richard Thompson ex-secretary of the navy arose and nominated Benjamin Harrison.

The call of states was resumed until Michigan. There was a breathless pause, but no response from the Michigan delegation. "What's the matter with Alger?" shouted a delegate. "Not in it," a voice replied.

When Minnesota was reached Eustis seconded the nomination of Blaine. At the close of Eustis' speech the chief Blaine demonstration of the day took place. It seemed to have no limit. The crowd yelled waved umbrellas, threw hats, and danced and cheered, and when it seemed that human power must soon overcome itself the old cry of Blaine, James, G. Blaine, spread through the audience.

Enthusiasm Unbounded.

The manifestation was the most sensational. The prolonged endurance of intensity probably equalled anything ever seen in the convention. At twenty-three minutes the band began playing, but the roar came again and the stamping renewed.

McKinley began rapping with his gavel and finally the storm spent itself at the end of thirty-one minutes.

W. E. Malleson, colored, from Mississippi, seconded the nomination. He was the greatest citizen in the world, a man so great that no one was jealous of him. He was the greatest American and the greatest living republican, James G. Blaine.

When New York was reached Hon. Chauncey M. Depew arose and in one of his greatest speeches seconded the nomination of Benjamin Harrison.

After several other delegates had spoken ex-Governor Sewell of New Jersey moved that the convention proceed to ballots. The vote resulted as follows: Harrison 431, McKinley 183, Blaine 179, Reed 4, Lincoln 1.

At 8 o'clock the convention was called to order and the roll of states was called until New York was reached and State Senator O'Connor arose and placed in nomination for vice president Whitelaw Reid of the New York Tribune. General Horace Porter in an able speech seconded the nomination.

On motion of Mr. Caney of Iowa, the rules were suspended and the nomination made unanimous.

At ten o'clock the convention adjourned sine die.

With a Kiss.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 10.—A kiss, given by Miss Jeanette Halford as she lunged her arms about President Harrison's neck at 5:12 o'clock this afternoon, announced to him that he had been renominated by the Minneapolis republican convention for president.

The president was in his office across the hall from the telegraph room, where the bulletins were being received by an enthusiastic crowd composed of cabinet officers, generals in the United States army, newspaper men and women, attaches of the executive mansion and colored servants.

Miss Halford rushed across the hall and saluted the president as she had done four years ago at Minneapolis when he first received the nomination. The president was surrounded by Secretaries Tracy, Noble and Rusk and by Mrs. McKee, Russell Harrison, Mrs. Parker, Lieutenant Parker and other members of his private family.

It was a memorable scene, and only one face was missing to complete the picture, that of Mrs. Harrison, who lay upon a sick bed less than 100 feet away, anxious, no doubt, but as yet unconscious of the extra anxiety of the last few days had been dissipated and that her husband, Benjamin Harrison, had been selected to lead the republican party in the coming campaign for the presidency.

Mrs. Blake entertained a large number of her friends last evening at her home on Main street, between Third and Fourth streets. The evening was spent in a pleasant manner, after which the guests were treated to a first-class supper.

HOME PROTECTION COLUMN.

CONDUCTED BY THE W. C. T. U.

A tone pealed through the solemn night, It said to every listening ear, Another day's begun, So, in our nation's gloom, a peal Rings out our triumph hour, It tells how honest, earnest work Breaks down the tyrant's power.

The whole world hears the welcome stroke, And fresher forces rise, To join the few who long have fought, With faith that never dies, Our foes fall back in wavering lines, Our trouble for their power, They knew defeat is drawing near, God's clock has struck the hour.

With God there is no compromise, He hateth every wrong, With him as leader of our cause, With ballot, prayer and song, We'll work united, brave and strong, Until the whistly power, Throughout the world, shall surely know, God's clock has struck the hour, —Western Christian Advocate.

Prohibition prohibited, even in New York. On Sunday, April 4, saloons and gambling houses were tightly shut; let us hope that other haunts of sin were also barred and bolted. The like was never seen in Gotham. What was the reason? One Christian minister had preached against the abominations of his own city and had kept on preaching; had arraigned the sworn officers of the law as vulgar roughs leagued with the immoral and criminal classes. He had been cited to appear before the grand jury, had made his words good by sure testimony; the jury had arraigned the police; the police did not dare longer to let the law remain like a rusty sword in a still more rusty scabbard. So they set at work to do, under the lash of public criticism, what they ought always to have done, Who will roll away the stone for us in other cities? Where is the Dr. Parkhurst of Chicago and St. Louis, Baltimore and Boston? Heaven grant that he may soon appear with thunderbolts.

It is in direct violation of Missouri's statute law to employ women to sell liquor, unless the woman is the wife, daughter, mother or sister of such saloon keeper. The grand jury at St. Louis, in response to a resolution presented by the St. Louis W. C. T. U. arrested and indicted the offenders. At the hearing, representatives of the liquor dealers association enulogized the 1,800 saloon keepers, who must be respectable, they said, or they could not procure licenses, and who paid $300,000 a year taxes. One of these addressed the ladies of the W. C. T. U. particularly, claiming that the objects of his association were, by every means, "to promote temperance and the good order of society."

The Norwegian plan of running saloons (if saloons must be run) commends itself in practice and results. A monopoly is given to a society of shareholders, who must pay into the city treasury all profits over 5 per cent. This surplus is applied to deserving charities and benevolent institutions. Women are not permitted to be employed, nor youths under sixteen. Attendants are clad in uniform, each man with a number on his collar like a policeman. The bars are plainly fitted up, clean and respectable. There are no seats, private compartments or attractions of any sort for loitering on the premises. These saloons cannot be opened before 8 o'clock in the morning, nor kept open after 10 in the evening. It is a conclusive fact, founded upon experience, that the traffic in alcoholic beverages has been greatly reduced and drunkenness curtailed, since the introduction of this system in Norway.

The French Temperance organization is known as "La Societe de la Croix Bleue." The careless Frenchman is becoming thoughtful in regard to the drink danger.

The temperance movement is gaining a hold among French christians.

It has been decided to discuss the question of Sunday opening the exposition on the second day of the next meeting of the national commission which will probably be October 6.
