

ANTONI ADLI KILLED

Three Cars Passed Over the Unfortunate Man.

CRUSHED INTO A SHAPELESS MASS

An Accident Near Happy Hollow on the B. & M. in Which One Man Was Killed and Three Wounded.

Thursday's Daily.

A dirt train with about fifty Italian laborers, who had been unloading a train load of dirt up at the foot of the cut, was backing down to the depot for dinner this noon, when an accident occurred which resulted fatally to one and seriously wounded three others. The men were sitting on top of the dirt on the cars when the train started for the depot. Antoni Adli was sitting about three cars from the caboose, and all of a sudden and without any warning, the trucks of the car upon which he was riding, jumped the track, throwing him between the cars which passed over him, cutting him all to pieces. Three others were more fortunate; two men and a boy were also thrown from the cars. One man had his leg badly bruised and the other had his left arm badly hurt. The boy was scratched in the face and was bruised on the legs but not seriously.

No one seems to know what caused the trucks to jump the track.

Adli, the man who was killed, was crushed and mangled in a horrible manner. The cars passed over him, cutting him into and crushing him, from his stomach down, into a shapeless mass. His left eye was gone, and on his breast were several bad cuts. Drs. Livingston and Cummins were soon upon the scene and in a short time had him wounded resting as easy as possible, while Coroner Unruh took charge of the remains of the man who was killed.

The accident happened down opposite Happy Hollow. The Italians were all from Omaha and came down last night. The remains of the unfortunate man is at Unruh's undertaking establishment, where the inquest will be held this evening.

H. F. Taylor, of Union, was in the city to-day on business.

Lieutenant Governor T. I. Majors was in the city over night.

Mrs. E. Searle was taken very sick Saturday night. It is hoped that she will recover soon.

J. W. McClintic has just returned from Jillette, Wyoming, where he has been for about two months.

Mrs. Charley Black, who has been ill for about ten weeks with la grippe, is able to sit up some.

Dr. Livingston's team ran away this morning, throwing the boy who drives for Dr. T. P. out on the ground, breaking his jaw.

The Drew and Kennedy families are out at the Cummins farm to-day. Mrs. Cummins is giving a farewell party before moving into the city.

Willie Ramsey is eight years old to-day, and to commemorate the day he invited a large number of his little friends to his home to spend the afternoon.

Judge Ramsey to-day issued marriage licenses to the following couples: John W. Pritchard and Lettie M. Crozier, aged 16, and J. P. E. Salline and Konstina Madsen. Both couples reside at Weeping Water.

Chas. Vandeventer has commenced suit in the county court against Lawrence Stull and Anton Siler for the recover of the lumber that caused the shooting affair last Sunday.

Mrs. Holmes, Miss Warner, Miss Gass, Mr. Davis, Mrs. Mapes and Mrs. Lovein were delegates to the W. C. T. U. convention held at Weeping Water yesterday. They drove down with a team, returning in the evening. They report a splendid time and that the Weeping Water citizens are a very clever people.

A reporter of THE HERALD visited the Brick and Terra Cotta Works superintended by Walter White, and found everything working harmoniously. Quite a supply of brick is now on hand—this being a dull season. The brick is made according to the German patent, which saves fuel but requires more labor than the old process. About 20 men are employed and very good wages can be made, depending, of course, upon the amount of work done. We had a very pleasant talk with Joe Kelley, the foreman, and we were convinced in the short hour we had to stay, that he understands his business.

New Republican Paper.

The following, dated at Beatrice, is taken from the Omaha Bee. The W. L. Knotts spoken of below is the same one that was formerly connected with THE HERALD: "The long-projected consolidation of the Beatrice Daily Democrat and the Beatrice Weekly Republican was consummated last evening, and to-day the Daily Democrat ceases to exist and will be succeeded by the Daily Times, the result of the consolidation. The Times will be edited for the time being by W. L. Knotts, editor of the late Beatrice Republican. M. A. Metzger will be city editor. The Republican will continue as the weekly edition of the Times. Mr. Marvin remains with the weekly Gage County Democrat."

- C. of H.—Mrs. S. A. Traver.
- L. of H.—Mrs. C. H. Peterson.

- First M. of H.—Mrs. Mary Graham.
- Second M. of H.—Mrs. L. G. Larsen.

After session ice cream and cake were served and all went away feeling it was well to have been there. The next session will be held next Thursday evening, July 7, in the G. A. R. hall at 8:30 p. m. All members urged to be present.

GOING OUT.

Grand Island will Withdraw From the State League.

The sugar city base ball club played its last game yesterday, unless some moneyed people interested in keeping up the procession should come forward and guarantee to pay the expenses. The Grand Island club has not given dissatisfaction exactly, but the directors think that the luxury is too expensive a one and that the club's patronage will not warrant a further continuance in the league. Only sixty per cent of the subscription has been used and will all be paid up to date. Little attention has been paid as to what effect this will have upon the league. Official notice has not been sent to the secretary of the league, but he will be advised of the matter to-morrow.

KANSAS COMING BACK INTO LINE

John W. Foster of Indiana Appointed and Confirmed as Blaine's Successor—Interesting Nebraska News.

Republicans of Iowa assembled yesterday at Des Moines in state convention and renominated William McFarland for secretary of state. C. G. McCarthy was nominated for auditor, while B. H. Bee-son was nominated for state treasurer by acclamation, as was also John Y. Stone of Glenwood for attorney-general.

The senate will to-morrow at 2 o'clock take up the bill for the free coinage of silver and the amendments, when a vote will be taken.

W. P. Tomlinson, for seven years past editor of the Kansas Democrat, published a card last night severing his connection with the paper and announcing that he would support the republicans in the coming campaign. Tomlinson was one of the original Hill boomers, and after Cleveland's nomination publicly stated that he would bolt if a fusion electoral ticket and the people's party state ticket was supported by the democrats. Yesterday a dispatch was received from C. K. Holliday, Jr., editor of the paper, from Chicago, stating that Cleveland's name must be at the head of the editorial page.

Tomlinson left the republican party during the Glick campaign and is given credit for having taken 50,000 republican votes out of the party on the prohibition issue. In the card announcing his return to the republican fold he says that the material welfare of the state demands the defeat of the "calamity howlers." It is recognized that the democrats will support the people's electoral ticket for the purpose of throwing the state out of the republican electoral column. Tomlinson announces that he "will join in no bastard fusion movement that is utterly devoid of principle and which is simply a disgusting scramble for loaves and fishes."

The dispatches this morning announced that President Harrison had appointed General John W. Foster, of Indiana, as secretary of state, and that he was immediately unanimously confirmed by the senate. On account of the absurd stories which have been published in democratic papers of alleged disagreements between Mr. Blaine and Mr. Foster in the Canadian negotiations the nomination of Mr. Foster was at once followed by rumors that the friends of Mr. Blaine in the senate would oppose his confirmation. This idle rumor, which was only another device of the democrats to encourage the false statements about dissensions in the republican ranks and among republican leaders, met a prompt death blow by the immediate and unanimous confirmation of Mr. Foster.

It is well understood that Mr. Foster's tenure of the office of secretary of state will terminate on March 4 next, when President Harrison will again be inaugurated and when he will announce his new cabinet.

The appointment of Mr. Foster is therefore only a temporary one, designed to bridge over the interval between the resignation of Secretary Blaine and the beginning of the second term of his administration. The appointment of Mr. Foster, although temporary, is especially desirable, not only on account of the personal character and diplomatic accomplishments of the appointee, but also because of his peculiarly intimate acquaintance with the business of the state department in general and especially with the details of the most important question now before that department—the settlement of the Bering sea controversy with England by arbitration.

Hon. Thos. Carter, commissioner of the general land office, has found that his official and private business will not permit him to serve as secretary of the republican national committee, and he will resign at the first meeting of the committee.

John King, editor of the Litchfield Monitor, was placed in the insane asylum at Norfolk yesterday. His friends have hopes of his speedy recovery.

Rainmaker Melbourne began operations at Nelson yesterday. Clouds began to gather about 2 p. m. and a few drops of rain fell. A heavy north wind drove them away but toward evening clouds began to gather and indications point to a heavy rain.

The delegates to the prohibition convention at Cincinnati put in a hard day's work, ending late last night after three sessions. A permanent organization has been effected, with Eli Ritter of Indiana as presiding officer, and Sam Small, the Georgia evangelist, as secretary, and to-day the convention will be ready to pass upon the platform and nominate their candidates.

In a general way Bidwell of California seems to have the lead for the presidential nomination, while Demorest of New York is hardly as prominent as yesterday. Judge McCullough of Illinois gained a great deal of ground during the day.

The proceedings before the platform committee show that there is a decided feeling in favor of the prohibitionists taking strong and advanced grounds on various public questions other than prohibition.

G. W. West of Polk county was yesterday appointed alternate for J. M. Weisse on the world's fair commission.

The house committee on the eleventh census have decided to report favorably on the bill to appropriate $250,000 to publish the eleventh census.

President Harrison has signed the joint resolution of congress making October 21, 1892, the 40th anniversary of the discovery of America, a general holiday.

From Friday's Daily.

The republican state convention will be held at Lincoln August 4th, and Chairman Mercer of the state central committee will sound the preliminary tap of the gavel at 10 o'clock.

That was the decision arrived at last evening by the state central committee which met at republican headquarters to consider the matter.

The committee was unusually well represented.

A number of aspiring candidates were on hand, looking carefully after their boomlets. Among them were H. C. Witham of Pawnee City and Joseph T. Bartley of Atkinson, both of whom aspire to the custodianship of the state's cash for the next two years. State Treasurer Hill was there, bestowing smiles of approval on each. Then there were Eugene Moore of Norfolk, P. O. Hedlund of Holdrege and J. O. Cline of Minden, each and every one of them angling for assistance in corraling the nomination for Auditor Benton's job, and Auditor Benton was quietly whispering how much better it would suit him to have George Bowerman, his present deputy, named for the place.

Judge Hays of Norfolk was nursing his congressional boom, and Judge O'Neal was there to allow his friends to point out his fine features for congressman from the "Big Sixth."

Secretary of State Allen and A. G. Humphrey, commissioner of public lands and buildings, looked serenely on, and thought how much better it was to quietly take a renomination for a second term according to precedent than to get out and hustle for the first one. Editor Bushnell of the Lincoln Call was there to urge the claims of the capital city for the convention, and Church Howe troved around the outskirts sizing up the political situation.

The executive committee met during the afternoon and transacted such business as there was on hand, in the way of claims that demanded attention.

After fixing the time and place of holding the convention, the apportionment was fixed at one delegate for each county and one for each 100 votes or major fraction thereof cast for Attorney General Hastings in 18.

C. E. Pollock, representing the young republicans of the state university, addressed the committee, and a motion to invite the representatives of the college clubs to meet with the committee carried unanimously.

The committee adjourned to meet at Lincoln at 7 o'clock on the evening preceding the state convention.—Omaha Bee.

The platform was the cleaver which threatened at one time to split the party, but now the national prohibition party is united and to all appearances harmonious. The platform which caused the trouble is a broad radical document. The absence of a free and unlimited coinage plank is noteworthy, however, for the convention refused to accept the plain majority resolution of the committee and struck it from the platform without replacing it with any declaration on the silver question.

The convention followed the season's convention fashion and made a first ballot nomination for the presidency. General John Bidwell, the old California pioneer, a former congressman and now a wealthy land owner of California, was the nominee by an unmistakable majority, receiving 590 votes out of a total of 974, 487 votes being necessary to a choice. It was greeted with a deafening din of cheers, whistles and cat calls. Cranfall of Texas was nominated for vice president.

The republicans of the Tenth Iowa district yesterday renominated Dolliver for congress.

The senate committee on the Columbian exposition has decided to report favorably a bill in aid of the fair, substantially the same as that agreed by the house committee, providing for the coinage of 10,000,000 souvenir half dollars. It includes an amendment, however, providing that the fair shall be closed on Sundays.

Secretary of State Foster assumed charge of his office yesterday morning.

REVELLE.

Fly, peopled drows, away!
Across the marshes sweep,
Chasing the fallen moon, the shadows grey;
Make me not laggard, Sleep!

Against the morning morn,
Fronting the reddening morn;
Torch the white eyelids of the girl I love,
And fill her dreams with smiles.
—John Hay in Cosmopolitan.

How the Wends Dance.

The serka reja is a pantomimic dance. Each couple has its own turn of leading. The cavalier places his partner in front of him, facing her, and while the band keeps playing and the company singing one of those peculiarly stirring Wendish dance tunes he sets about adorning her to grant him his desire and dance with him. She stands stock still, her arms hanging down flop by her side. The cavalier capers about, shouts, strikes his hands against his thighs, kneels, touches his heart—with the more dramatic force the better. At length the lady gives way, and in token of consent raises her hand.

Briskly do the two spin around now for the space of eight bars, after which for eight more they perform something like a cross between a chasser croisee and a jig, and so on for a little while, after which the whole company joins in the same performance. As a finish the cavalier "stands" the band and his partner some liquor, and a merry round dance concludes his turn of leading to the accompaniment of a tune and song, roncka, selected by himself.—Westminster Review.

A Real Nice Girl.

"Why, my darling," exclaimed Mrs. Worldly to her eighteen-year-old rosebud Maud, "why in the name of goodness can you want to marry that impudicious young fellow Harry Juventus, when there is that charming Sir Crossus Senectus, a man of dignified maturity and countless wealth, who is dying to make you Mrs. Senectus, and who would place my jewel in a magnificent setting?"

"How can you talk so, mamma?" replied Maud, looking down and blushing a few lines of solid nonpareil. "It is true that Sir Crossus is rich and Harry is not; but then Harry is young and Sir Crossus is old. Now, Harry is young and he can acquire wealth; while Sir Crossus is rich, but he cannot acquire youth. Do you catch on, mamma, as the boys say?"—Minneapolis Journal.

Compress Heater and Sterilizer.

A useful appliance has been introduced in hospitals in the shape of a compress heater and sterilizer. There is no moistening or wringing of hot cloths necessary. It does away with the use of oiled silk or cotton, as it cannot wet bedclothes and will retain heat longer than the ordinary compress, and the compresses may be applied to different patients without washing, as they may be easily sterilized and freed entirely from germs.—New York Telegram.

Taken In.

A woman with a baby in her arms approached an innocent looking young man who was sitting in Central park yesterday. She asked him to hold the baby while she went to look at the menagerie. As she did not return the young man thinks she must have been taken in by the boa constrictor or the rhinoceros, but the sparrow cop to whom he confided his suspicions is of the opinion that it was the young man who was taken in.—New York Evening Sun.

PROTECTION COLUMN.

CONDUCTED BY THE W. C. T. U.

Miss Willard went to Cincinnati June 28, for attendance upon the prohibition convention which met in that city June 29 and 30. She presided over a mass temperance meeting Sunday afternoon in Central Music hall, which holds ten thousand people. This convention had 1,191 accredited delegates, the largest number of any national political convention held in the United States this year.

The last vestige of the state debt of Iowa has recently been liquidated. Iowa, it will be remembered, is a prohibition state.

Out of 2,700 Congregational ministers in England and Wales, at least 1,900 are abstainers; of 361 students, 320 are abstainers.

THE PROHIBITION CONVENTION.

The national convention of the prohibition party met at Cincinnati last week. Representation in this convention is based on the vote polled by the party in the different states instead of on the number of congressmen and senators—a plan which it is proposed shall be adopted hereafter by republican conventions. The number of delegates in the prohibition convention, if all attend, will be 1,091, and it is expected that everybody who has a right to a seat will be present.

This will be the sixth convention of the prohibition party to nominate presidential candidates. In the five presidential elections the vote of the party was as follows:

1876.....	9,737
1880.....	9,678
1884.....	159,426
1888.....	249,945

This shows a considerable growth in the prohibition vote during the past twelve years, though not so great as the party expected.

The two chief prizes of Northwestern university, Evanston (which had in all departments over two thousand, three hundred students this year), are the Kirk prize for oratory, and the Bragdon prize for general scholarship. Both were taken by young women—Misses Nettie J. Hunt and Cora Monnier Rawlins. Mrs. Potter Palmer and our World's and National W. C. T. U. president were elected trustees of the Northwestern university, June 15. Lyman Gage, the famous financier, was also chosen to the post of trustee.

Half a million persons, it is said, are, in one way or another, employed on the Sabbath in connection with the drink traffic, and 20,000 of these are young people.

"The saloon is not an American institution; ninety per cent of the saloon keepers are foreigners; there is a growing prejudice in employing sober men even to attend bars. It is absurd that a man cannot draw up a legal contract on Sunday, while the saloon keeper is permitted to open and pursue his business. The saloon is born of the devil, and is a menace to society. The alleged right to sell liquor and create drunkards who commit crimes is preposterous. The saloon is called the poor man's parlor, but the fact is, that except for the demoralizing influence of the saloon the poor man might have a parlor of his own." We are sorry to say that the majority of the speakers seemed, in spite of all the points they made against it, to favor a continental rather than an American Sabbath. One of the worst results of foreign travel is the un-Americanizing of our people.

The Free church of Scotland has 632 ministers, all of whom are abstainers, and a total membership of nearly 64,000,000 teetotalers.

It is suggested by Mrs. Moots, superintendent of evangelistic work in Michigan, that the national W. C. T. U. have a flag of its own, and that it consist of the banner of our native land with one large white star in the center of the blue field, to represent the state of Wyoming, the only commonwealth on the face of the earth that has given to women the same powers in the government by which they are controlled, that it has given to man. At a recent election in Michigan the W. C. T. U. hung out such a banner on election day from its headquarters, and it proved to be a most suggestive object lesson. We believe that such a flag would be the best sort of an advertisement of our conventions—national, state, district and county—and would make any amount of helpful sentiment. If this suggestion strikes our members favorably they will, of course, feel perfectly free to act upon it.
