

The tin plate liar has crept under cover at last. A whole week has passed without our seeing a single reference to the tin plate question in the free trade press.

As was expected, the British papers are all booming Cleveland, and the Cobden club has already subscribed liberally to the democratic campaign fund.

TO-DAY ends the financial year for Uncle Sam. He has no big surplus in the treasury, but is able to meet his engagements all right, and something will be laid by for a rainy day besides.

THE electoral college this year will consist of 44 votes, and no more. The democratic territories of Arizona and New Mexico will not be admitted to statehood yet awhile.

THE free trader keeps on shouting that the tariff is a tax, and the advertisements in every paper in the United States keep on showing that he is either the greatest fool or the greatest knave that ever lived.

A GOOD corn crop means a big republican majority this fall, and the corn is looking as well as it did this time last year, consequently the democrats are down in the mouth, as they cannot win unless there is a big crop failure.

THE ILLEGALITY OF TRUSTS. The courts of every state in the Union, when the question of the lawfulness of such combinations has been presented—and this has been many times—have declared them to be illegal, besides being against public policy. Trusts are unlawful, because, through the surrender, by many differing and distinct corporations and by the individuals composing them, of the power to manage and control themselves, and by delivering over their corporate powers to some other person, as well as by engaging through the trust in many kinds of business not authorized by their respective charters, they have done prohibited things. The corporation so doing forfeits its right to exist to the people who bestowed it, and the trust existing solely through these violations of law is itself null. The principles underlying these decisions of the courts are recognized by the fundamental law of nearly all the states, and most notably have they been enforced by the judiciary of the state of New York in the "sugar trust" cases, where by three tribunals, through three successive and deliberate opinions, the law has been announced with strength of reasoning fortified by precedent and a courage and clearness worthy of the best days of Anglo-Saxon freedom.—Roger Sherman, in the July Forum.

WHO ARE THE FREE TRADERS? But who are our free traders? They are not found much among our industrial classes, certainly not among our workmen and producers. They are composed of pro-slavery theorists, who can never forget what they learned before the war; doctrinaires and dreamers, who have a supreme contempt for facts and practical results; foreign importers, who can see nothing beyond their own personal gains; newspapers which are the subsidized attorneys of foreign manufacturers and merchants; the Cobden club, representing British interests and caring nothing for the welfare of our people or the honor and glory of our country; and the pro-British democracy.

The toilers and producers of our land, they whose intelligent labor makes the wealth and greatness of our country and the prosperity of our people, are not among them.

There is one other fact in connection with this subject of too much significance to be overlooked. It is that the drift of population is from free trade countries to protective America. "All roads lead to Rome" was once a saying. All pathways across the sea, in which are found people traveling to a land where they hope to better their condition, lead to our own favored country. They are all coming this way, too. None are returning.

It has been truly said that the gates of Castle Garden swing inward. No man or woman who is struggling up the hill of life for competency and comfort ever has occasion to swing them out. None desire to leave this land of protection and plenty for the poverty and wretchedness, the helplessness and hopelessness from which they fled in the free trade land of their birth.—Congressman Milliken.

THE HERALD has received the annual report of the Nebraska state board of agriculture for 1891 from ex-Governor Robert W. Furnas.

Mrs. Winslow, mother of Mrs. S. A. Davis, left this morning for Kenesaw, Neb., for a visit.

WESTERN REPUBLICAN LEADERS. The fact that the republican party has taken its candidates for the presidency from the west in every instance but one is more significant than is generally realized. It was not a mere accident that this practice was inaugurated at the beginning of the party's history, nor has it been prolonged by the rule of chance. The east has always possessed able and worthy republican statesmen, and could at any time have furnished a first-class presidential candidate; but her favorite sons have been systematically shut out for logical and judicious reasons. It was not until the anti-slavery sentiment gained controlling force in the west that the republican organization became really effective; and that result was brought about by the contest in Kansas, which checked the extension of the servile labor system and saved the territories to freedom. The west took the right side in that fight not so much upon moral grounds as because of material interest. When the south proposed to establish its peculiar institutions in the country beyond the Missouri river, the west readily saw that the success of such an undertaking would practically exclude free white labor and prevent landless citizens from securing homes. And so the west gave its sympathy and support to the republican party, and that party was thereby enabled to acquire control of the government. The republican creed was particularly conducive to western welfare and prosperity, and western votes accordingly gave it popularity and potency.

It was not surprising that western men, under these circumstances, became the most influential republican leaders, and that the party adopted the custom of taking western men as its candidates for the presidency. Ever since 1860 the surpassing strength of the republican party has been in the west, by virtue of the increase of population and the founding of new states. Its principles and purposes have been in harmony at all times with the interests of the western people. The homestead law commended it to special favor, and its general policy of facilitating the extension of civilization gave it a decided advantage. The fact is that the west is the supreme force in national politics, and is likely to maintain this position for an indefinite period. No party can hope to triumph through eastern or southern strength as against western sentiment. The republicans have acted wisely, therefore, in giving preference to men representing the section which holds the determining power. That is one of the secrets of its wonderful vitality and its unprecedented achievements. It has not only chosen good men, but it has been careful at the same time to respect the just claims of the locality which first placed victory within its reach.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

WHY WOMEN'S WAGES ARE LESS THAN MEN'S. There is of course no other man in the United States who has collected and handled with competency so large a mass of statistics of wages as Col. Carroll D. Wright, United States commissioner of labor. Through all his investigations Col. Wright has made an especial study for himself of the bearings of the condition and advancement of women. He has brought together his conclusions of many years' study and investigation in an article which appears in the July number of the Forum, bearing upon the question as to the relative wages received by men and women for the same work.

Are women paid as well as men for the same work? Col. Wright maintains that in a great majority of cases they are, but that confusion has arisen because it often happens that the work which women do is not the same which men do. As women, for instance, have forced their way into such employments as bookkeeping and lighter clerical work, the same grade of men that formerly did this work have sought higher and more remunerative occupations. The proper comparison to make is not so between what women receive and what men receive, but what the wage-earning women now receive, and what they received before the great advance of women into industrial life.

There are reasons, however, why women are not in every case paid as well as men, and they are large economic reasons which deserve consideration. Among them are these: There is undoubtedly a cheaper standard of living among women than among men; women as a class have less good equipment for life-work than men, because the expectation in many cases is that the work will be interrupted by matrimony; and most of all, women have come into the industrial field as a new economic factor, and industry has not yet adjusted itself to her.

A DISASTROUS FIRE.

Chas. Vandeventer's Dwelling Burned to the Ground.

THE CHINAMAN WAS ROBBED.

The Police Have Made One Arrest—A Young Lady Presents Herself at Hymeneal's Altar and Then Faints—Other News

From Saturday's Daily. This morning at 3:30 the residence of Charles Vandeventer was discovered to be on fire. The baby awakened Mr. Vandeventer by crying, and when he arose he found the house to be a sheet of flames.

The house burned to the ground, and most of all the furniture went with it. Mr. Vandeventer and family had time enough to get out of the house and to save a small portion of the furniture.

The house was valued at $1,500. The house and furniture were insured, but the insurance will not cover the loss. The origin of the fire is a mystery, but it is the supposition that lightning was the cause. The house and contents were insured in the Home Insurance company of Omaha, and the company's agent, P. J. Hansen, went out this morning with the view of an early settlement with Mr. Vandeventer.

Robbed the Chinaman. Henry Robinson now languishes in durango vile, charged with robbing the laundry run by the Chinaman. Yesterday afternoon someone went through the Chinaman's house and secured $11.00 in money. The matter was not reported to the police until evening. To-day they arrested Henry Robinson and placed him in jail. All the police could get out of him was that he would get the money from his father and pay it back. He also said one of his brothers knew something about the matter. This makes the second time the same boys have robbed the Chinaman. The boys are the stepsons of George Burnett.

A Dramatic Scene. This forenoon a couple came from the Iowa side for the purpose of procuring a marriage license and having the matrimonial knot tied upon the Nebraska side. The prospective groom was from Fremont county and his occupation that of a farmer and his age 22 years, while the prospective bride lived in Mills county, and gave her age as 18, although she was undoubtedly a few years older. The young man left his blushing partner below while he went up to ask the stern judge for a permit to wed. After the permit had been granted and arrangements made with Judge Ramsey to perform the ceremony, he went down stairs to get his prospective bride. They arrived at the judge's office and he told them to join their right hands—he then stepped into another room to get the license and when he reached the room he was somewhat surprised to find that the bride had fainted. Two young ladies who happened to be present ran for water and a camphor bottle which happened to be near at hand and the prospective bride was soon restored to consciousness. But the ceremony stopped short, some thought that the couple had run away and at the last moment the young lady had repented, while others seemed to think that she really did faint. Judge Ramsey was anxiously awaiting their return, but up to the time of THE HERALD going to press they had failed to put in an appearance.

THE democratic papers have ceased all talk about the republican billion dollar congress. They have one of their own that is now occupying their attention. They have also ceased their talk about tin plate. The facts are, the democratic press has not got much to talk about these days.

The engine house of the Fremont binding twine factory was destroyed by fire last night between the hours of eleven and twelve. The damage will only cause a few days shut down for the twine mill.

The town of Mason was visited last night by a cyclone. The loss by the storm will be about $50,000. No lives were lost.

Idiosyncrasies Don't Count.

"Madam," said the street car conductor to a young lady in a blue calico frock, "you have a dog under your shawl, and you must leave the car."

"What! Leave the car?" vociferated the woman. "I have paid my fare and I'm going to stick right where I am."

"Then I shall put you off," replied the disciplinarian in blue.

All at once a law point came into the woman's head. "Give me back my fare," she said. "I got in here in good faith, and when I paid my five cents a contract was completed. You must either carry it out or return my cash. I'm not responsible because your cranky directors don't like dogs."

The street car official stopped the car and hailed a policeman. The point was stated, and the thief catcher, after pondering for a few moments, observed:

"I ain't no judge nor I ain't no jury but I claim to have some sense."

"Under your system you might make rules that passengers mustn't wear red neckties or red noses or three dollar trousers, and after they had paid fare, show 'em the rules and put them off."

"There is no end to the rules you might make to bunko folks out of their ride, and every time a chap looked cross eyed you could turn to rule No. 324, providing that he musn't look cross eyed and then dump him in the gutter."

"The thing isn't fair. There ain't no law to it and it don't go."

Turning to the young woman he said: "You stay where you are, mum," and to the conductor, "If you try to put her off without giving her back her fare I'll club your head off."

They went the bell and on went the car, dog, young woman and all.—New York Herald.

She Committed Suicide.

Mrs. F. B. Boe, at Watkins, left this letter: "My husband—Forgive me if I cause you trouble, but I suffer so. You do not know what these long, wakeful, wretched nights are to me, and I am so tired, darling, the pain will never be better. It is not easy to take my own life, but I have been sick so long.
