COWARDICE IN CONGRESS

All conscientious democrats who are devoted to their party from principle regard the course of their party in congress with a mingled feeling of disgust and despair.

The people, under a distracting delusion, dismissed a republican house with twenty-eight majority and replaced it with one having a democratic majority of 118. Had the republicans come into possession of such a house in December last and with a democratic senate and president to confront them they would have reduced the opposition, long ere this, to a pitiable state of frantic defense. The republican and democratic parties are essentially different in their constitutional character and respective methods of political operation. The republican party was born out of political chaos and rocked by the struggling sections of fighting factions. It came as "one crying in the wilderness," vitalized by a splendid principle that trobbed at its heart, and inspired, as if by more than human wisdom, to a magnificent mission, the fulfillment of which will forever shine upon the page of history as one of the marvels of human achievement. Coming into existence to meet an emergency, to face a nation blazing with the baleful fires of sedition, treason and revolution, it is natural for the republican party to be courageous.

The democratic party, on the contrary, has always been a party of temporization and compromise. It is essentially craven in character and cowardly in conduct. It forever halts and skulks and seeks the shades of safety, and has never, in all its history, pressed straight forward in an exulting path of aggressive action. It has never had the courage to hit an issue between the eyes, but has always dodged behind it and contented itself with a pusillanimous ambush warfare.

With two-thirds of the house of representatives, which is democratic by a large majority, in favor of fraudulent free silver, and who were elected by free silver constituencies, its only care is to toy with deceit and to make a false show by fair compromises which it never intends to fulfill. The confessed champion of free trade, it has never had the heart for anything more perilous than a theatrical war of words.

Its present presidential candidate, at whose feet it bows with degraded servility, has been said to furnish his party with an issue, if there is anything new in democratic principles, it is preserved as a most sacred secret within their limbo of party frauds and fallacies. Solemn egotism and a fondness for ponderous phraseology may have great weight with the average democrat, but they are regarded by all intelligent and self-respecting citizens with quiet but contemptuous amusement.

The American people are always ready to forgive mistakes honestly made, or rashness prompted by zeal in a cause believed in, but they have only contempt and condemnation for cowardice.—New York Mail and Express.

Cass	1	DeWitt	1

The English press and the democratic press of the United States are trying to make political capital out of the Homestead strike. They know it is their only hope to win this fall.

The democrats have practically given up all hopes of winning this fall and are now trying to fuse with the independents, so as to give them three or four states, thereby throwing the election of president into the house of representatives, where Cleveland will be elected.

Until last night it has never been known that Plattsmouth had any professional foot racers. Last night a crowd went to the ball park to witness a race between Wm. Cushing and Guy Livingston. The stakes were a box of ten cent cigars and the winner to pay the hack hire. After arriving at the park the ground was measured and the word given to go. The two runners came down the track at a terrific pace with Cushing about ten feet ahead of his competitor, and when near the goal Cushing stepped into a hole and fell. The judges declared the race had to be run over, but this time Livingston came under the wire only a few feet ahead. Another match was arranged between John Tighe and Sam Shinnaker, the sheriff winning easily.

Some Foolish People allow a cough to run until it gets beyond the reach of medicine. They say "Oh, it will wear away," but in most cases it wears them away. Could they be induced to try the successful Kemp's Balsam, which is sold on a positive guarantee to cure, they would see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Price 50c and $1. Trial size free. At all druggists.

Financially Embarrassed

A large manufacturer, whose affairs were very much embarrassed and who was very much overworked and broken down with nervous exhaustion, went to a celebrated specialist. He was told that the only thing needed was to be relieved of care and worry, and have change of thought. This doctor was more considerate of his patient health than of his financial circumstances. He ought to have advised him to use Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, the best remedy for nervous prostration, sleeplessness, dizziness, headache, ill effects of tobacco, coffee, opium, etc. Thousands testify to it. KIRK'S DUSKY DIAMOND SOAP

NEVER STRIKES INDIANS.

In the course of his New Haven (Conn.) lecture Rev. Thomas Dunn, an educated Indian, made this singular statement: "The Indians never cook anything in the house. They always cook outside, giving as their only reason that if they cook inside the steam will collect in their clothing and draw the lightning. Whether this is true or not I do not know, but I know this—no Indian wigwam has been struck by lightning since the dawn of history, and no Indian has been killed with lightning for more than 100 years."
