THE CABIN IN THE CLEARING.

[Ben & Parker.] Backward gaze through the shadows, As the evening fades away, I perceive the little footprints, Where the morning sunlight lay Warm and mellow, on the pathway Leading to the open door Of the cabin in the clearing.

O! that cabin in the clearing, Where my Mary came to live, Where our children grew to love us, Where our little Robbie died, Still in memory before the red bud By the doorway, and the breeze Tingles with the pine-wood's odor And the children's melodies.

And I find the floor of pumpecons, Rindly laid on joists and joists, And the fire-place slanted and beaten From the red clay on the hill; With the chimney on the outside, Like a blind man asking alms, Wrought of sticks and clay and fashioned By the knuder's ready palms.

Half way up the pine-wide threshold, Whence depend the pot and kettle, Where the great fire blazes beat, O! that cabin in the clearing, Hear the morning sinner low, As my Mary sits the embers That were ashes long ago.

Once again I hurry homeward, And my heart leaps up in gladness, For in this wide-open door, Mary, in her old-time dress, With her hand above her eyes, Gazes all around the clearing, Till my coming form she spies.

'Tis for her I am a hunter, And the dearest thing I hold bound Tells how swift and sure my aim is, Ere his life-lit beauty lies the ground; 'Tis for her I and my rifle roam, And the spotted beauties woo From their paradises of waters, Ere the sun has dried the dew.

And the wild rose and the bluebell That pluck the dew, and the clover, Are for her who rubs the neck of Mary, of the roven hair; 'Tis for her I hunt the quail, Day by day with myrtil blows; 'Tis for her the cornstalk tassels, And the golden pumpkin grows.

Often, winding through the woodlands, Neighbors come with song and shout, Eager for a day of pleasure, Where the latch-key hangeth out, And with ready hands assist us, As our laborer's weary rest, Of our conversation heightens, Till the sun goes down the west.

Aye, and once again I see them, On a sad, sweet summer day, When the robin sits on the perch, Seems to sing his soul away; And his cheering soul around me In a tangled web of woe, And my weeping Mary whispers, 'Tell me why he had to go.'

Now, that cabin in the clearing, But dust, blown here and there, Where the pale moon's light gleams, Breathe their darkness on the air; Where my forests roared in beauty, Now a smoking chimney stands, And the rows of factories cluster Grimly on my fertile lands.

Scarcely room enough is left me For this double, clustering rose, Where the bay and the morning glory, Side by side in earth repose; Soon the last fond trace will vanish, As the last protection is withdrawn, But no matter—heaven's gateway Opened wide to let them in.

Yet with Mary oft I linger, Where the well-swept slanteth low, Planning our garden and the garden, When to plant and what to sow, How to ride to Sunday meeting— 'Tis for her I and my rifle roam, And the young folks' quivering play, 'Eighty, and a memory only!'

Chicago's Foundling Home. Dr. George E. Shipman, the founder of the Foundlings' home, in an interview with a reporter stated that from 75 to 90 per cent. of foundlings fed on the bottle die. As the result of twelve years of experience, he pronounced it impossible to rear foundlings by hand.

Death-Bed Repentance. Death-bed repentance are no longer approved by the most enlightened part of the human race. The grossest form of faith is that which fancies it can 'make its peace with God' in a moment of abrupt terror after a lifetime of wickedness or impious regard of His laws.

Draining the Dismal Swamp. The Dismal swamp in Virginia is much reduced in extent compared to what it was twenty years ago. It now contains, says a recent visitor there, some of the best farming land in the state.

Niagara Park. At length it seems as if Niagara is to be freed from factories and other disfigurements. The New York legislature, however, has taken measures to clear away all disfigurements, and to permit this wonder of the world to be seen in its splendor.

Jolly Satin. 'When I was here,' says the Jolly old Times 'the devil laughed at me, and I felt that I must be to be sure! Always on the broad grin, never gume or sorrowful; always laughing and always sure of having something to laugh at.'

Arkansas True. 'Arrested for carrying a pistol was he?' asked a magistrate of an officer, referring to a gentleman who had just been arraigned. 'Let's see the pistol.' The weapon was produced and handed to the judge, who examined it and asked: 'Where did you get it?'

THE EGYPTIANS.

What General Stone, an Ex-Pasha, Says About Affairs in the Land of the Pharaohs. Gen. C. P. Stone, the noted American, who was known as Stone Pasha during the Egyptian war, has returned to his native land.

In developing the matter of the Egyptian army, Gen. Stone said he had plenty of work, and the question was how to do it without getting into conflict with the British people. He had been almost a nonentity in the matter of instruction and education.

"DRUNK ALL OVER"

From the Fumes of an Old Wine Cellar. Rose E. Raymond in San Francisco Chronicle. The wine vaults of London are situated down under the old London and St. Katherine's docks. They are vast cellars under bond, like the government warehouses in America, and are very similarly conducted.

They contain over 350,000 gallons of wine—enough to supply at least seven gallons to every man, woman and child in the united kingdom. The vaults are vast cellars, some sixteen or eighteen feet high and embracing an acre of ground.

DR. FISHLBLATT

OF THE DES MOINES & OMAHA MEDICAL DISPENSARY, ON ACCOUNT OF HIS Immense Practice in Plattsmouth, Nebraska, WILL MAKE HIS NEXT VISIT ON Saturday, May 19, 1883, AND WILL REMAIN ONE DAY, AT THE PERKINS HOUSE, WHERE HE CAN BE CONSULTED ON THE Ear & Eye, Throat & Lungs, Catarrh, Kidneys, Bladder and Female Diseases as well as All Chronic and Nervous Diseases.

DR. FISHLBLATT. Has discovered the greatest cure in the world for weakness of the back and limbs, involuntary discharges, impotency, general debility, nervousness, languor, confusion of ideas, palpitation of heart, thinning of the hair, loss of memory, nervousness, etc.

NERVOUS DEBILITY. The symptoms of which are a dull distressed mind, which unites them for performing their business and social duties, makes happy marriages impossible, distresses the action of the heart, etc.

YOUNG MEN. Who have become victims of solitary vice, that dreadful and destructive habit, which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of young men with the thunders of their eloquence or waken to ecstasy the living lyre, may call with confidence.

MARRIAGE. Married persons of young men contemplating marriage beware of physical weakness. Loss of procreative power, impotency or any other disqualification speedily revealed. He who places himself under the care of Dr. Fishblatt may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and confidently rely upon his skill as a physician.

ORGANAL WEAKNESS. Immediately cured and full vigor restored. This distressing affection, which renders life a burden and marriage impossible, is the penalty paid by the victim for improper indulgence. Young men are apt to commit excesses from not being aware of the dreadful consequences that attend them.

CURE WARRANTED. Persons ruined in health by unlearned pretenses and trifling mouth after month taking poisonous and injurious compounds, should apply immediately to DR. FISHLBLATT, graduated at one of the most eminent colleges in the United States, has effected some of the most obstinate cures that were ever known.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE. Dr. Fishblatt's cures that were ever known, are the result of his own researches, and are not the result of any of the many quack remedies that are so plentifully advertised.

PRIVATE OFFICE, OVER OMAHA NAT'L BANK. CONSULTATION FREE. Charges moderate and within the reach of all who need scientific aid through the mail by simplifying their symptoms with postage.
