

The Republican city convention will be held tonight in Rockwood hall commencing at 8 p. m. The full list of delegates is published in the proceedings of the primaries elsewhere. The convention will nominate candidates for mayor, city clerk, treasurer, and three members of the school board.

Register. Register. REGISTER. REGISTER. Don't forget to register.

Preaching next Sunday at the Christian church at 11 a. m., by Elder Ross.

A large number of country people are in town today and the streets present a lively appearance.

The Omaha Watchman mentions among its callers this week Mrs. C. McEntee, Rev. Father Lynch, and Capt. Marshall, all of this city.

The Temperance column is delayed until the Monday's issue of the daily on account of the absence of the the editress from the city.

Phil Young's front windows present a nobly appearance these days. On one side is a specimen collection of blank-books and on the other periodicals and magazines.

March came in like a lamb and is going out like a sheep, but between the coming in and going out there has been considerable lion—it may have only been in fun though.

Miss Linn Simington and George, of Ashland, and Miss Allie Lantz, of Lincoln, are in the city this week as guests of Miss Emma Herold. They came down to attend the T. A. M. hop.

The Governor has issued his proclamation for the observance of the 18th day of April as Arbor Day. The proclamation will appear in the HERALD's columns next week.

Another one of those handsome nickel lanterns from the railroad boys to Conductor Harvey. It is enough to make one wish to be a popular conductor to look at such nice lanterns.

In the county court, today, the case of Smith vs Rosenbaum was up for hearing and decision. The claim being for medical services, judgement was rendered for defendant in the sum of $325. M. A. Hartigan for the plaintiff, Beeson and Wise for defendant.

Manager Young is booking some very fine troupes for the season of 1883 and '84. Among them are Katie Putnam, Madison Square Theater, Esmeralda, C. R. Gardner's "Only a Farmer's Daughter," D. H. Fitzpatrick, Collier's Lights O'London and others.

During the exercises at the musical Wednesday evening, it was remarked that Miss Jones, of the harmony class gave evidence of being quite a student, judging from her writing in music which was the difficult transcription of the resolutions of the different species of the Dominant Seventh, both major and minor, into all the more common keys.

V. O. English, one of the B. & M's most popular conductors, returned from an extended visit in the east, Thursday. We spent the whole day yesterday looking for him, but could not find him. Today we were informed that he didn't come back alone, but brought one of Montreal's fair young ladies with him. She's English now. Mr. English will please accept the hearty congratulations of the HERALD.

Cap. Shannon is right after Thompson in the matter of inventions. Cap is a married man, and always has to put up the clothes line, and knows something of the vexations connected therewith. He has devised a little cast iron plate that fastens on to the post, into which is fitted a little arm through which the line is run that fastens itself and the heavier the weight is on the line the tighter it fastens. Time forbids a more minute description of it at present, but we will give one next week.

About twenty-five couples participated in the T. A. M. hop last night, and it was one of the most successful parties yet given by the club. After a long rest during the Lenten season, the spirit of the occasion was entered into with more than ordinary efficacy. A HERALD reporter was there, cutting just as big a figure as any body, and introduced an act not on the programme. He took a tumble to himself and made his mark on the floor. Al Dorrington was on exhibition too, but can't compete with the HERALD for grace and a first-class fall. The thanks of the club are due to Charley Duke for his untiring efforts in the management and for the successful result of his labors.

Vincent Shickley, private secretary of Congressman Laird, passed through the city this morning, on his way to his home in Fillmore county.

As will be seen by the law published below, the women in the city who are included in the law, are entitled to vote for members of the school board. The law is as follows:

Section 4 of the school laws of Nebraska, says: "Every person, male or female, who have resided in the district forty days and is twenty-one years old, and who owns real property in the district or personal property that was assessed in his or her name at the last annual assessment, or who has children of school age residing in the district, shall be entitled to vote at any district meeting.

A colony has been organized at Bradford, Pa., for the purpose and with the intention of seeking homes in Nebraska. The members co-operate for the purpose of securing a desirable location. Everything is to be taken into consideration—soil, climate, latitude and commercial facilities. The members share equally in the expenses incurred in selecting this location and purchasing a site for a town. Each member will receive two lots at once the balance remaining as common property. The organization is not communistic in character, but has been formed in order to save reductions in fare, freight rates and to be certain of finding a good location. The colony expects to start about the 1st of April.

Regular services at the different churches tomorrow.

Roberts as an Actor.

Last night we were summoned to witness a private exhibition of Rollin Roberts' powers as an actor.

We have several times been asked why we did not reply to Roberts' challenge to editors, and until recently we did not know what was meant by the question. Mr. Roberts, in his circular programme, is claiming to be the most gifted, if not the most skillful, elocutionist, mimic and ventriloquist of the United States, if not the world.

His circular is entirely too long for us to publish in full, and comment on each portion.

He expresses a belief that there is a combination of leading actors, whom his advancement would most effect, contributing towards a corruption fund which is being used to keep him out of his profession. We can only state that we have seen no evidence of any such thing.

We are not prepared to either endorse or deny his claim. He began his performance with what is generally termed lightning change, and kept up one continual change to the close.

He is claiming to be the master of nineteen distinct human voices, with at least twelve of them complete in song—all in the same key if required.

We made no note of the number of voices, and we are not sufficiently up in sound to distinguish and mark the difference between complete change and subchange of voice, etc.

He resolved himself from one character into another so readily and so successively that were he to claim to be the master of fifty voices we could not deny it, we know so little about the business.

As a ventriloquist he handled his little wooden men, or puppets with a skill which we would not attempt to criticize. Everything was real; the puppets talked, the voice was in the box, the man was down below, and counted the stairs as he came up, nineteen in all. It was simply the best that we have seen, we can say no more. It may or may not be the best before the public, we are not prepared to decide.

The selection in elocution was entitled "Shamus O'Brien," which was also beyond our criticism. We considered the rendition simply grand, but from not having seen enough of the celebrities to educate us up to the mark, we will be obliged to also pass this matter without an opinion as to the real extent of merit.

On the whole, we consider Mr. Roberts an adept in his profession, and although we do not credit his being prevented by a combination of actors, we do not understand why he is not filling a high position in his profession instead of being obliged to appeal for an opening at any price. His proposition is liberal enough, but were there two fortunes embodied in this one opportunity, we are so situated that we could not at present embrace it. Furthermore it is out of our line, but were we able and desirous of speculating in the theatrical business, we would ask nothing better than is offered by Mr. Roberts, and we do not believe that many theatrical managers would examine his merits without giving him a lift.

We incline to the belief that Mr. Roberts' own diffidence is the barrier of his success. We have been acquainted with him for nearly three years and to this day he has not presented us with one of his circular programmes, although he appeals to the press for endorsement. We wish him every success in the future.

River Report.

As furnished officially to the War Department.

The river at noon today, stood 6 ft. 10 in. above low water mark, no change since noon yesterday.

The Next Reunion—Mississippi's Commitments to the N. N. G.

Col. E. P. Roggen went out to Hastings yesterday to attend a meeting of the reunion committee which is held there today, for the purpose of making arrangements for the grand army reunion. The principal matter that will be considered will be the question of tents or other protection. It Denver gets the 1,000 tents she has applied for to be used during the grand national encampment there, it is thought that they can be secured on their way back, for use at Hastings. If this can not be done it is possible that no application will be made for tents, but that barracks will be built.

Mr. Roggen informs us that the state of Mississippi has extended an invitation to the Nebraska National guards to participate in a grand prize drill, to be held at New Orleans sometime next summer. The first prize will be $1,500 and the second $1,000. It promises to be a magnificent affair.

Mr. V. V. Leonard's new house will be two story probably brick and will be situated on his four lots on the east of Sixth street.

When Mr. Leonard finishes his improvements contemplated there, this summer he will have one of the finest resident properties in the city.

The two conventions in this city tonight—the democratic at the court house and the republican at Rockwood hall will make lively politics, and the full quota of amusement for lookers on, both will be well attended and interesting.

Lafe O'Neil's new brick has reached the second story, and the brick work will soon be finished; it will be a good addition to the business houses in Plattsmouth.
