The band at the rink tonight. Uncle Jacob Valley sr. is still pronounced convalescent by his physicians.

The B. & M. band, in their handsome uniforms, will furnish music at the Art Loan tonight.

Read the Nebraska crop report in another column. Through the kindness of Maj. Wheeler we are able to furnish it to our readers officially.

The train for the west this morning was an unusually heavy one for Saturday and they had on two Pullmans, the "Mantau" and "Oura" for the narrow gauge, Denver & Rio Grande.

Farmers from the country today report fields green with wheat since the last night's bountiful rain, when yesterday the fields were bare apparently; consequently the agriculturalist rejoiceth.

A refreshing rain last night laid the dust and cooled off the atmosphere, and the number of cases of spring fever which the weather of yesterday was fast developing, have almost entirely disappeared.

Mr. Ernst Wagner returned from Lincoln yesterday where he selected a fine string of artists' materials which he will have for sale and for his private use at his office and studio over Solomon & Nathan's store. His office will be ready for occupation on Monday.

The ladies will be attracted to costume at the Art Loan tonight, and from one of them we learn that the girls, (which means young ladies), are going to take especial pains in the arrangement of their toilet, &c., though what for is just as much of a mystery as boarding house hash.

The musical programme at the Art Loan last evening was a very attractive one—the selections were fine ones, and the singers and players acquitted themselves handsomely. The noise and bustle of a large crowd moving in different parts of the hall, rendered it unpleasant for many of those who desired to hear; but aside from that it was a very pleasant and agreeable entertainment. The programme was carried out as heretofore published.

The city editor of the Omaha Herald copies the personal mention of Mark Duryee, given in this paper last Wednesday, and credits it to the Journal. We have never taken a drink with the Herald's local, and don't know what he takes, but would say river water. It's only fair to give even "the devil his due."

Next Wednesday is Arbor day. How would it do to procure a few trees, evergreens among the rest, and honor the day by planting them in the high school grounds with appropriate exercises. The building looks lonesome standing there on top of the hill all alone. We merely offer this as a suggestion, and will furnish our evergreen tree, to be designated as the "HERALD'S Tree."

This is the last night of the Art Loan, and to those who have not yet attended, we will say, you do not know what you are missing. You will probably never have another opportunity to witness so fine a collection of works of art, fancy work, curiosities, relics, heirlooms, etc. The price of admission is small and everybody ought to attend if for nothing more than curiosity.

The entertainment given upon last evening by the Jubilee Singers at the opera house was attended by a small yet select audience. The art loan being in full blast and several other entertainments also on the same evening was doubtless the cause of the poor turnout at the opera house. The concert was all the troupe promised the public in every particular and the critical audience present were delighted with the singing. All present united in pronouncing it a rare treat.

Matt Simmerman in a letter to an acquaintance in Plattsmouth, speaks of his prospect for a new trial as follows: "My prospects for a new trial, I think, are not favorable, and unless the governor interferes in my case all will be lost. Father and brother have done all they could for me and are still working for me. I would like to write you a long letter, but really I hardly know what to write. I hear nothing in regard to my case. I am feeling not very well, that is this living in suspense, when there is a period set on once life."

Unless the governor does interfere, and Simmerman get a new trial, he will pay the penalty of his crime, at Minden, on the 81st, just one week from today.

THE WORK OF A PISTOL

Ed. Farrell Seriously if not Fatally Wounded.

Probably Tired of Life.

This afternoon, about half past one o'clock, the lower end of Main street was astir over the report that somebody was shot up near the brewery. An investigation confirmed the report. The particulars, as near as they can be obtained at this time, are about as follows:

Ed Farrell, a young man who has been in the employ of the B. & M. as a fireman for engineer Charley Brown, working in the yards here at Plattsmouth, was shot in the left breast about two inches below and a little in front of the nipple, the ball taking a downward course. The victim asserts that the shot was accidental. He will not or cannot talk much himself, and a satisfactory explanation cannot be obtained. The best information is that given by Alonzo Weikell, who says he was up in that vicinity at the time in conversation with another man, who had a horse loaded onto a freight car, and while they were thus engaged, they heard the report of the pistol, and in a few seconds afterward Farrell called to them, telling them he was shot, and for them to come and help him down town. This Weikell refused to do, but said he would hunt up the authorities, and started down town to do so. The sheriff and coroner brought him down, and took him to the Pacific House, where he was boarded. Drs. Livingston Hall and Keller probed for the bullet, finding the course it took, etc., and pronounced the wound a serious one, and in all probabilities a fatal one. The revolver was a new one, 22 calibre, and this shot was the only one ever fired from it, and only the one cartridge had ever been placed in it.

He has been in the employ of the company some nine or ten months, but quit work on last payday. He has been troubled with heart disease, and was at the time being treated for that disease. For several days past he has been gloomy and down-hearted, as though worried about something, and nothing would seem to arouse him from the lethargy into which he had fallen. He has complained that the railroad boys were all "down" on him and he had no friends among them; but the railroad boys say he hadn't an enemy among them. He has a cousin living between Ashland and Wahoo, who was telegraphed the terrible news. His parents live in Vermont.

The chances are that the young man cannot live, his pulse is now growing weaker all the time. Although he himself asserts that it was an accident yet the course of the ball and almost every thing connected with the affair incline toward suicide. He will receive every attention possible for his comfort and cure.

Destructive Fire. We learn that a formidable fire swept over the Oreapolis bluff, last evening doing considerable damage in the way of destroying young timber upon the tract of land formerly owned by the Oreapolis Town Company. Also that a considerable portion of the B. & M. fence east of the main track, and extending from the bayou by Ripple's old brewery north to the Platte bottom was destroyed by this fire; and also that a large amount of cord wood, ricked up upon Platte bottom, just where the B. & M. road turns into the bottom going westward was all consumed by fire. This wood, the HERALD understands, belonged to the Valley boys who live on Four Mile Creek. Fires, a day like yesterday, are dangerous playthings.

On the War Path With a Revolver in His Hand. Quite a commotion was created early yesterday morning in the vicinity of Greenwood, on the line of the B. & M. railroad. An insane man named John Hartwig got into some trouble, when his neighbors attempted to interfere and prevent bloodshed. Instead of yielding and submitting to arrest, he pulled from his pocket a revolver and fired two shots at the men who had attempted to arrest him, and then fled, walking up the track toward Lincoln. During the morning Sheriff Engsign received a telegram from Greenwood that the man was on his way to Lincoln, and to keep a lookout for him. During the afternoon chief of police Byer was called to the corner of J and Twelfth, where he found the unfortunate man, bareheaded and barefooted. He was arrested and taken to the cooler. The revolver, sixteen cents in money and some papers were found upon his person.—State Journal.

The T. A. M. club will have the last dance of the season at Waterman's Opera House, next Friday night. It will be a calico hop in every sense of the word; even the invitations are to be printed on calico. The reputation of the club for No. 1 parties will insure the pleasure of the occasion.

Everybody is invited to attend the trimmed opening of pattern hats and bonnets at Mrs. A. P. Stout's, Friday and Saturday, April 13th and 14th. A bouquet will be presented to every lady. 3w2td6t

AGRICULTURAL REPORT OF NEBRASKA.

From 52 Counties, for the Year Ending April 1, 1883.

Table with columns for crop type (CORN, WHEAT, RYE, OATS, BARLEY, BUCKWHEAT, POTATOES, HAY, SORGHUM, SPRING WHEAT, WINTER WHEAT, WINTER RYE), product compared with last year, and average price per bushel or ton.

This is a summary of all counties heard from. Maj. Wheeler has made every effort to have all the counties report, and the first to respond is Hitchcock. Cass, being at our own door, is No. 11. The last one heard from is Custer, No. 52.

Correspondents have been very deficient in not informing the State Secretary of their proceedings. Such should not be the case. No person can understand the difficulty under which the Secretary of the State Board of Agriculture labors in making his report without the county secretary. Let us hear from you, gentlemen, that we may know what you are doing.

A SURE THING. Two Trains Each Day to Denver. Commencing with a week from tomorrow, the B. & M. railway will run two trains daily each way from Plattsmouth to Denver, instead of one each way as at present.

The new trains are a morning train from Denver to Plattsmouth, and an evening train from Plattsmouth to Denver—these two trains, which have formerly made the terminus at Lincoln, being carried through.

Mayor Chase, of Omaha, is sick, and the Republican has been giving forth bulletins, of which the following is a sample: "9 p. m.—Last bulletin tonight: The mayor had a very encouraging day of it, and is now sleeping quietly and breathing freely, and unless awakened by the bull dog barking at some office seeker, he will pass the night undisturbed. Pulse, 87; temperature and respiration normal."

By phone still later and more reliable our phone editor managed to extract from the wires the following, which gives the exact condition of Omaha's chief executive at an early hour this morning: "4 a. m.—A consultation has just been held at the bedside of the mayor by Drs. Rosewater, Miller, and the home corps of physicians. These eminent medical experts think the mayor's condition reasonably satisfactory if the apparatus for keeping the air in motion does not become discouraged and the formation of puss cavities can be avoided."

Jacob Schneider and family, and Henry Inhelder and family who recently sold their fine farms at Cedar Creek, to Messrs. Parmele and Newell, and went to Oregon to make that state their future home, have returned to Nebraska, and we are informed have re-purchased their farms and like sensible Nebraskans settled down satisfied there is no state in the union equal to Nebraska, and no county equal to old Cass. This is the universal experience of people who foolishly leave Nebraska on the hunt for better climes. They return to their first love, glad and happy to be welcomed and received back by Nebraska's hospitable people and genial clime. The HERALD welcomes back to old Cass these old and respected citizens, who ought never to have cut their moorings from so safe and hospitable a harbor.
