ACT I. Opening with Grand Tableau —"Angels guard me while I sleep"—Fairies in their Grotto rehearsing the joys of Fairy Land in songs, duets, etc—Resolve to visit earth and render assistance to some poor mortals, and start on their mission.

ACT II. The Drunkard and his Family, the suffering mother, poverty and sickness—Two of the children, Effie and May, out begging, are overcome by hunger and fatigue and stop to rest—The Fairy Queen, invisible to them, waives her wand, causing them to sleep—The running Sprites at command of their Queen fill their baskets with food and gold—Waking from beautiful dreams of being possessors of wealth, they find all a reality, and start home with joyous hearts.

ACT III. The old Miser at the home of the drunkard, demands his rent—"Pay or go"—The pleading cry of the mother, "One more day," refused—All surprised by the sudden return of Effie and May with plenty of food and gold—The Miser, being paid, retires—Song of thankfulness by the mother.

ACT IV.—SCENE 1st. The death of little Fannie, the Drunkard's child—The father's pledge to his dying child.

SCENE 2d. Fairy Queen in a sympathetic solo, "Poor Fannie's Tears are Dried Forever."

ACT V. The denouement—With the father reformed, the now happy family invoke the presence of their benefactors, when they are immediately surrounded by a host of Fairies, Sprites, etc., including the inimical PUCK, who considers himself necessary in every good work, and all unite in joyous songs and final adieus—Closing with Fairies and mortals in Grand Tableaux.

GENERAL CROOK.

Chicago, May 9.—The officials at Gen. Sheridan's headquarters, this city, do not credit the rumors of disasters to Crook's column. While it is true that they have no recent advices from Gen. Crook, in person, they are in the way of receiving quick communications from any point in Texas and New Mexico in case of an engagement, and particularly so in case of disasters.

THE CATHOLIC KNIGHTS.

St Louis, Mo., May 9.—The second day's proceedings of the Catholic Knights of America began this morning. Reports from committees were received. A discussion arose on a resolution presented by Father Spaulding, of Illinois, that the supreme council had the power to make an amendment to amendments to the general constitution presented by the branch council. The resolution was finally adopted. Various reports were received, among them that of the secretary, showing the numerical strength of the order to be 19,989. Adjourned until tomorrow.

THE FIRE AT KEARNEY.

Kearney, Neb., May 9.—The fire briefly reported last night was under control by 3 o'clock this morning. No clue as to its origin has been discovered. The loss falls on Henry Gibson, Ed Tripp, Mrs. Cakins, Mrs. Cherry, and Mr. Mitchell. Mr. Gibbons had two buildings destroyed. The ruins of yesterday no doubt prevented a larger conflagration. The loss approximates $10,000, upon which there is an insurance of $3,500. Two small store buildings were pulled to pieces to prevent the fire from spreading. The ruins are being inspected by numerous citizens. Several persons received slight injuries. Brick buildings will be erected in place of those destroyed

CROP REPORT.

Chicago, May 9.—The Farmers Review crop report for the week ending May 5, embraces all the northwestern states and shows that winter and spring wheat have made to exceed one-half of the growth usual at the season. The stand is thin, but shows improvement over two weeks ago. The cool weather has been unfavorable for the development of insect life, and but few if any depredations of the kind are reported. An increased area was sown to spring wheat, but will not be more than enough to make up for the diminished area in other states. Corn planting is well advanced in Kansas, Nebraska, southern Iowa and Illinois, and so far reports are favorable. Reports on the condition of the fruit are more favorable than was anticipated a few weeks ago.

A NEWSPAPER CHANGES HANDS.

New York, May 9.—William Henry Hurlburt, president of the Press Publishing company, today completed the transfer of the entire property of the World newspaper to Joseph Pulitzer, of St. Louis. Mr. Hurlburt will announce this in the World tomorrow, and the first number of the World under the charge of Mr. Pulitzer will be issued Friday morning. It will continue democratic. The price paid by Mr. Pulitzer is understood to be about $400,000. This does not include the building erected for the paper in 1881, which has been leased for a term of ten years. Mr Jay Gould, in thus disposing of his entire interest in the World, is carrying out the policy announced of closing out of his holdings, except in railroad and telegraph properties, prior to his tour around the world. Mr. Hurlburt will sail for Europe shortly, and it is understood he by the latter from the standpoint of a tariff for revenue only.

A GOOSE EGG WAGER.

Boyertown, Pa., May 6.—On a wager of $10 Edward Lafferty, of this place, is attempting the feat of eating five goose eggs a day for twenty days. He is twenty-two years old, and is in the employ of Dr. J. B. Funk of this place. Today he ate his eighth installment, and there were many interested spectators to see him do it. The wager grew out of a little boasting on the part of the young man. He said that five eggs at a sitting, by way of an entree would be nothing at all. The doctor offered to bet $10 that he could not keep it up for twenty days, and Lafferty took him up. The doctor thought over it and decided that it must be goose eggs. He reckoned that a goose egg contained as much nutriment as three hen's eggs. The young man at first demurred, then gave in and started out for his task. On Saturday last he ate five goose eggs with his dinner, and has had no difficulty so far in eating the same number each day. He has the eggs cooked in various ways. He eats three meals a day as usual, and says that he experiences no inconveniences whatever. The doctor is sure he will fail.

EMPTIONS IN KANSAS

Kansas City, May 9.—A special says that for the past ten days a remarkably startling state of affairs has existed at Dodge City, Kansas, and all mention thereof has been kept quiet. Several prominent Kansas attorneys left for Topeka to petition Governor Glick to place the town under martial law. The difficulty is the culmination of a long standing fued between the two elements of the place. Dodge City has long enjoyed the reputation of being a hard place. It was one of the few points in Kansas where saloons run openly and gambling is legitimatized. It is headquarters for the cowboys and cattle men in the vicinity. Before the last city election a man named Webster, proprietor of a dive, half saloon and half gambling house and variety hall, was candidate for mayor. He was the representative of the lower element, the sporting fraternity. The head of the other faction was W. H. Harris. This element was quieter, but there was a bitter feeling between the two. At the election for mayor Harris was beaten and Webster elected. Since then it has been conceded that Harris would be driven out. About ten days ago a man named Short, who is a partner of Harris, and a police officer, had a shooting affray, but neither were hurt. Short was thrown into jail, although the evidence showed that he was fired at first. Later five gamblers were arrested and jailed. That night a vigilance committee was formed with Tom Mixon, proprietor of one of the handsomest dance houses in the west, at its head. The crowd repaired to the jail and notified the prisoners that they must leave town next morning. In the meantime the vigilantes took possession of the town and informed correspondents of newspapers that they must not send telegrams. A body of armed men watched the arrival of each train to see that there was no interference. A lawyer from Larned was sent for by one of the prisoners, and was met by the vigilants, who leveled a gun at his head and told him not to stop. The next morning the five gamblers were put on the westward bound train and Shot left for Kansas City, where he now is. Dodge City is practically in the hands of the vigilants, and the situation is more serious from the fact that the mayor is acting with them. It was he who notified the prisoners that they must go. Trains are still watched, and vigilantes guard the town, while a list of others who will be ordered out has been prepared. Dodge City is in the hands of desperadoes, and the property of citizens is not safe. Serious trouble is apprehended.
