WITH Mr. Boyd and Mr. Morton, delegates from the state at large to the Democratic convention, the patriots in the first district will fare exceedingly well in the pot distribution.

With neighboring cities in the state securing both water works and electric lights, Plattsmouth ought to secure one of the two the present year, and the voice of the HERALD still ascends for water.

The financial party of this country is just now in a very unsettled condition which effects the markets as well. Rumors are many of additional failures to come, and even Jay Gould is said to be shaky.

MAYOR CHASE, of Omaha, and Mayor Harrison, of Chicago, are hobnobbing these days in the latter city. If their individual egos are cloistered in the same cage, this country will see something wonderful.

An instance of apparent success in the treatment of three children bitten by a rabid dog is reported from Marietta, Penn. The dog also bit a heifer, a cow, and two dogs. These four animals all died of hydrophobia. The physician in attendance upon the children, Dr. John Cameron, of Wilmington, Del., had been impressed by the success of Dr. Buisson's method, as described in the Abeille Medicale, of treating hydrophobia by means of vapor baths. As the nearest practicable approach to such treatment, Dr. Cameron took the children to Philadelphia, and there subjected them to Turkish baths daily for two weeks. Although the wounds were very severe, they healed without difficulty, and no symptoms of the disease have been manifested. Hydrophobia, it is said, does not break out before the seventh day from the bite. The interval is quite sufficient to give the chance in most instances for the patient to be taken to some Turkish bath establishment; and hence if that method of treatment is effectual, hydrophobia may be classed among preventable diseases.

CONNOR'S FAREWELL SHOT.
The Bourbon Camp Raked With Grape and Canister.

"Bourbons of the Democratic party! Why strewest 'thy sugar' on that bottled spider the Journal. Whose deadly web ensareth thee about. Fools! fools! thou whet'st a knife to kill thyself.

The day will come that thou shalt wish for me! To help thee curse this poisonous windy toad."

EDITOR HERALD:—Since the Louisville convention, I had about made up my mind to drop writing any more articles for newspapers in relation to the course Mr. Sherman adopted towards the writer, but since that august body met and adjourned, he has commenced throwing some more dirt by inserting paragraphs from other papers. The public is about tired of it, and before the curtain is rung down on the last act of that memorable body, I want to give you a pen and ink sketch of how it was conducted.

The first person I met at the depot here was Mr. Sherman with a bundle of his papers, he distributed them around among the faithful from the county, and with a doleful voice pointed out his open letter in the Journal to J. A. Connor. When he arrived at Louisville, he tried to get in his work among the delegates from Greenwood, Salt Creek and Tipton precincts, but he soon found out they were solid for Connor, and one of them asked me who he was, I said, do you not know him, his reply was that he supposed he was a missionary distributing tracts, and trying to raise contributions to reclaim savages from the South Sea Islands.

The fatal mistake that was made was that we supposed we had a sure thing, we counted fifty-seven votes the majority of which were instructed to support us first, last and all the time. As I understand it, they then commenced throwing dirt. Saying I was no democrat; others worked on the quiet, by poisoning the minds of the delegates that I was a foreigner and a Roman Catholic, but the most potent of all was the "amount of lubricating oil that was used."

As a sample, here was Eight Mile Grove precinct, that was instructed for me; by an unfortunate accident, Mr. Balse Meisenger's horse got lame about a mile from his house, he gave the proxies to Jacob Valley, sen., to be given to a certain party at Louisville a resident of the precinct on conditions that they be voted for said Connor but alas, the other side saw. Lim later; one party from the third ward got $20 and expenses to go up and work for the ticket, so he informed a party last evening and he was not a delegate either.

But since the convention, Sherman and his crowd are as sweet and pleasant as a summer morning. He exclaimed to some foreigners the other evening:

"They do us Bourbons wrong, and we will not endure it. Who are they that complain unto the Germans and Irish that we, forsooth, are stern, and love them not. By Holy St. Peter, they love the Irish and Germans but lightly, that fill their ears with such dissention rumors, because we cannot flatter, look fair, and give no foreigner an office; smile in men's faces, smooth, deceive and coy duck; with French nois and aspeish courtesy; we must be held a rancorous enemy. Cannot plain Bourbons live and think no harm, but thus their simple touch must be abused by silken, sly, insinuating jacks."

The writer, in conclusion, rejoices in one thing, that wherever he did business there his strength lay—excuse this egotism, but I am proud of it. Take as a sample the three precincts around the town of Greenwood; every delegation was solid and instructed for me. Here are the names of some of the Jackson Democrats that were working in the Democratic ranks in this county when Mr. Sherman was manipulating a ward primary in the Republican party in Iowa. Such sterling Democrats as John Green, Sam James, Jno. Matheny, an ex-Colonel in an Iowa regiment, W. H. Meeker, O. P. Keagy—all business men—James Rhoden, Ben McNurfin, and others from Greenwood precinct; also where I did business at Louisville, Conrad Sehler, John Ossenkop, Edward Tighe, and Edward Kennedy. But why prolong these endorsements of the leading Democrats in the county, for these men are the bitter enemies of the old Bourbon, Plattsmouth ring.

I am not agrieved; I am speaking more in sorrow, than in anger, that this has happened at all; but as a prominent foreigner pointed it out yesterday in a crowd, said he "boys, as long as you don't want an office they will allow you to do the voting; but they will knife you every time when any of you dare to aspire to a county office as they did J. V. Weckbach, Fred Lehnhoff and W. H. Cushing. We are the Democratic party; hereafter, this handful of Bourbons that you can count on your fingers, in this town, are getting too old to manipulate us Jackson Democrats any longer, especially as their motto is 'loaves and fishes,' not principles or men."

CLIMBING THE SPIRAL STAIRS.

Invisible Architecture in a New England Parsonage.

"Yes," she said, "our children are married and gone, and my husband and I sit by our winter fire much as we did before the little ones came to widen the circle. Life is something like a spiral staircase; we are all the time coming around over the spot we started from, only one degree further up the stairs." "That is a pretty illustration," remarked her friend, musingly, gazing into the glowing coals which radiated a pleasant heat from the many-windowed stove. "You know we cannot stop toiling up the hill, though." "Surely we cannot, and for myself I don't find fault with that necessity provided the advance in life is not attended with calamity or suffering, for I have had my share of that. Not long since my health utterly broke down. My system was full of malaria. My digestion became thoroughly disordered and my nerves were in a wretched state. I was languid, ate little and that without enjoying it, and had no strength or ambition to perform even my light household duties. Medical treatment failed to reach the seat of the trouble. The disease, which seemed to be weakness of the vital organs, progressed till I had several attacks which my physicians pronounced to be acute congestion of the stomach. The last of these was a desperate struggle and I was given up to die. As the crisis had partially passed, my husband heard of the merits of Parker's Tonic as an invigorant in just such cases as mine. I took it and felt its good effect at once. It appeared to pervade my body as though the blessing of a new life had come to me. Taking no other medicine I continued to improve, and am now in better health than I have been for a long time."
